The classic pillars of Soldiers' field tonight will look down upon the most spectacular mass music presentation in the history of the great amphitheater.

More than 85,000 reserved ticket holders will hear the music and see the colorful pageantry of a cast of more than 6,000 performers in an unforgettable night under the stars.

For the first time in festival history all reserved seats were sold out more than four days before the big show. All 55 cent seats were gone at noon Monday and the $1.10 tickets dwindled away Tuesday afternoon. Hundreds of checks were returned to those who sent in mail orders too late.

Chance for 10,000 More.

There still is a chance for 10,000 additional persons to see the festival, however. General admission tickets will go on sale at Soldiers' field at 7:30 p. m.

The 1942 festival undoubtedly will go down in history as the city's greatest single patriotic spectacle of the year. The field and stage will blaze with the uniforms of the army, the navy, and the marines.

The great moment of the festival's grand entry and assembly will be the mass induction into the navy of 200 aviation cadets. The oath will be administered by Commander R. F. Whitehead, standing beneath a gigantic American flag, 50 by 100 feet, which will have been drawn across the north end of the field.

Audience to Sing "America."

Afterward the vast audience will sing "America," under the direction of Capt. Howard Stube, festival director of instrumental participation. Then, led by Philip Maxwell, festival director, the multitude will pledge allegiance to the flag and the night of musical thrills will be under way.

Four of the stirring presentations will be outstanding even in the long and colorful history of the music festival. The greatest of these will be the drama of Chicago's army of war production workmen. It is called "Men of Steel" and will be staged against a towering and fiery setting, more than 200 feet long and 60 feet high, by the famous male chorus and the Carilleo band of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation.

Steel Mill in Action.

The setting will simulate a great steel mill, with four massive open hearth furnaces, a giant Bessemer converter whose fiery blasts will redden the night sky, and towering mill chimneys from which will belch the fiery exhausts of the furnaces below. It is one of the largest settings ever erected in Soldiers' field.

The men of the Carnegie-Illinois chorus, under direction of Harry S. Walsh, will move before the blazing furnaces, stripped to the waist, just as they do in their war production work in the world's largest steel mill. The uniformed Carilleo band will be seated just below the mammoth setting and will be directed by Kenneth W. Resur. Their stirring "March of the Steel Men," which will be sung by the chorus, will be long remembered.

12 Die, 4 Missing in 3 Plane Crashes

9 Dead in Fall of Transport in Michigan

Twelve army and marine flyers were killed and four others were missing yesterday in the crashes of three service planes. Nine men died last night when an army transport fell near Hastings, Mich. The other crashes were in the west, where an army bomber plunged into the Pacific ocean off San Diego, Cal., and a marine training plane crashed near Rancho Santa Fe, Cal.

Nine Killed in Michigan.

Hastings, Mich., Aug. 14 [Special].—Nine army flyers were killed tonight in the crash of a four motored army transport plane which plunged to earth and burned near the town of Dowling, scattering wreckage over a half mile area.

The scene is 15 miles north of Battle Creek, near which is located Camp Custer, which the plane was believed to have left shortly before the crash.

The big plane was flying in bad weather when it roared over Hastings with its motors cut off.

Prosecutor L. E. Barnett of Hastings, who was assisting in the investigation, said the pilot apparently was lost. He said the plane flew over the Barry county fair grounds here about five minutes before it crashed.

Fuselage Lands on Farm.

The olive drab plane fuselage landed on the farm of Mrs. W. W. Proefrock, near Dowling, but parts of the wreckage were scattered over several farms.

"We heard a terrible roar which we knew wasn't thunder," Mrs. Proefrock related. "The air appeared to be filled with fire as tho the plane had exploded in the air. We were sitting quietly in the sitting room when it happened and all of us thought the judgment day had come."

The big ship was traveling west when it roared over Hastings, Prosecutor Barnett said.

None of Bodies Burned.

Trooper Harold Findlay of the state police, first officer to reach the scene, said none of the bodies was burned and expressed the belief the flyers either had attempted to bail out from a low altitude or had been thrown from the wreckage before it burst into flames.

The bodies were removed to Battle Creek, Mich., for identification by military authorities, or Fort Custer and Kellogg Field, both army bases. Trooper Findlay said the men wore army fatigue clothes, and that opened parachutes were still fast to two of the bodies.

Bomber Crashes at Sea.

Fresno, Cal., Aug. 14 (AP).—Four Hammer field army flyers were missing and the body of a fifth was reported recovered after the crash of an army bombing plane in the Pacific ocean off North Island, San Diego.

Maj. Myles B. Ellis, base intelligence officer, said a body identified as that of Pvt. Winfield M. Bagley of La Crosse, Wis., son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Bagley of La Crosse, was reported recovered from the ocean, where an oil slick marked the scene of the crash.

Those reported missing were: 2d Lieut. Lloyd W. Tansing, pilot, of Portland, Ore.; Sergt. Elias Sauceda, San Antonio, Tex.; Corp. Julian C. Mullinax, Atlanta, Ga., and Pvt. William T. Cook, Los Angeles.

Two Die in California.

Rancho Santa Fe, Cal., Aug. 14 (AP).—Two marine flyers were killed near here yesterday in a plane crash during a training flight, 11th naval district headquarters disclosed today. The victims were Second Lieut. Raymond E. Petzold, 24 years old, the pilot, of Hamilton, O.; and Staff Sergt. John D. Samulak, 23, of Battle Creek, Mich. Cause of the accident was not disclosed.

British Butcher Sells Too Much to Too Few; Fined

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 14.—Fines totaling 393 pounds [about $1,572] were imposed by an Epsom court today on a butcher found guilty on 14 charges of supplying meat to customers in excess of their ration limits. The excess amounts varied from six pence [about 10 cents] to 5 shillings 3 pence [about $1.05] worth of meat.

GERMANS BREAK THRU 2 FRONTS, RUSSIANS ADMIT

MOSCOW, Aug. 15 [Saturday]—(AP).—German troops fighting toward the industrial city of Stalingrad in the Don river bend have pierced Russian positions south of Kletskaya, 75 miles northwest of Stalingrad, the soviet high command acknowledged early today.

"To the south of Kletskaya," a Russian communique said, "our troops fought fierce battles against an enemy group which had broken thru to a river."

The communique indicated the Germans had reached the Don river because Kletskaya is only a short distance from the Don, the last natural defense barrier west of the Volga river port of Stalingrad.

[The German controled Paris radio reported that Siberian troops had arrived to bolster the Stalingrad front and that German airmen "heavily strafed these newly arrived divisions.]

Admit Another Break-Thru.

Below the Don bend the Russians reported for the third straight day that the Germans had been forced into defensive positions northeast of Kotelnikovo, 95 miles southwest of Stalingrad.

The Russians also acknowledged a Nazi break-thru in the Krasnodar area in the southwestern Caucasus.

"On one of the sectors," the communique said of this front which is about 50 miles northeast of the Black sea port of Novorossisk, "the enemy at the cost of large forces was able to advance into the depths of our defenses."

The Germans battling to reach Grozny, the eastern Caucasus oil center, apparently still were being held at Mineralnye Vody, 140 miles to the northwest in the Caucasus foothills.

Wipe Out 700 Germans.

The communique said of this area: "One of our units repelled several German attacks, destroying 15 tanks and annihilating about 700 Germans."

Yesterday the Reds admitted the Nazis still were advancing toward Grozny.

Russian detachments still were fighting in the Cherkessk and Maikop area, the war bulletin said. [The Germans are in possession of Cherkessk and the Maikop oil fields, 200 and 300 miles west of Grozny, respectively.]

At the opposite end of the Russian front an artillery and rifle duel flared up outside of Leningrad, Russia's second city which the Germans have had under siege since last October. Red army snipers were credited with killing 400 Germans in that area, but full details of the fighting were not disclosed.

Counteraction Takes Form.

Before the high command had disclosed the reverses near Stalingrad and in the Krasnodar area the soviets said the battle of the Russias was raging from within sight of the ice sheathed Elberus [Elbruz], giant mountain of the Caucasus, thru the distant approaches of Moscow, and up to Leningrad.

Russian counteraction to the long Red army retreat on the southern steppes and in the Caucasian foothills was taking form from Voronezh, left flank of the German southern drive, on up the long battle line thru the Bryansk district 200 miles south of Moscow, thence northwestward to the Lake Ilmen district and the Leningrad siege lines. Voronezh is about 300 miles northwest of Stalingrad.

Strong counterattacks were winning ground for the Red army in all these sectors, the Russians said.

Admit Going Is Tough.

BERLIN, Aug. 14 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—The German high command today said the Russians in the Caucasus were "exploiting mountainous terrain which is particularly favorable for the defense and are still putting up resistance in order to cover their retreat on the sea route from the north Caucasus ports" of Novorossisk and Tuapse.

"The attack of German troops is nevertheless progressing well. In one place, weak enemy forces were isolated and dispersed.

Wayne Thomis, aviation editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, appeared late yesterday before the federal grand jury ordered by Attorney General Francis Biddle to investigate publication of a Tribune story on the ground of possible violation of the espionage laws.

Served with a subpena requiring his presence forthwith, Thomis left Tribune Tower and went immediately to the United States courthouse. Thomis assisted in the preparation of the story which the justice department is inquiring into at the behest of the navy.

THE TRIBUNE'S aviation editor emerged smiling after a 25 minute session with the grand jury. He said he was asked a lot of questions, but couldn't reveal anything that had transpired.

Data for the article in question were furnished by Stanley Johnston, THE TRIBUNE'S war correspondent who wrote the thrilling series on the battle of the Coral sea.

Estimate of Japs' Fleet.

The story was printed June 7 and was a sidepiece for the big news of the day, the navy's communique on the victory west of Midway Island. Johnston gave his editors an estimate of the Japs' fleet strength.

Altho the bureau of censorship found there had been no violation, the navy persisted in its charge that "confidential information" had been disclosed. William De Witt Mitchell, former United States attorney general under President Hoover and now a New York lawyer, was retained by the justice department to conduct the inquiry.

First Tribune Man Called.

Mitchell arrived in Chicago Tuesday and summoned seven naval officers. Thomis was the first Tribune man called.

Earlier yesterday two civilians, middle aged, gray haired, and looking like business men, were seen to enter the office of United States Attorney J. Albert Woll, which Special Prosecutor Mitchell is using as his headquarters. They announced they had appointments to appear before the grand jury and were immediately ushered in. Woll's office has access to the grand jury room.

It was reported that Mitchell was thru calling naval officers, with the possible exception of one or two now at some distance from Chicago. Mitchell again refused to make any statement on the case.

Among the officers who were called by Mitchell Thursday were Rear Adm. Frederick C. Sherman, the captain in command of the aircraft carrier Lexington which was sunk in the Coral sea engagement, and Commander M. T. Seligman, chief executive officer. Sherman was promoted for his valor in the battle.

Johnston was aboard the Lexington during the entire fight. He aided in the rescue of several of his mates from the burning ship and later helped haul men out of the water and onto life rafts.

WOMEN ORDERED TO QUIT BARS FOR TABLES TONIGHT

Promptly at midnight tonight will begin one of Chicago's most controversial feminist movements—from the bars in several thousand taverns to the tables—if the ladies still want drinks served to them.

Capt. Thomas Duffy of the 1st district police, whose district includes the 450 taverns in the loop, has ordered his detectives and uniformed police to begin entering taverns at 12:01 a. m. Sunday morning and, if women are found seated at bars, to take their names and addresses, and to arrest the owner or manager of the tavern.

Police thruout the city also will be called upon to enforce the new ordinance, which prohibits women from being served alcoholic drinks at bars. A similar order has been adopted by county commissioners for taverns outside the city limits. Tavern keepers have signified their willingness to cooperate — failure means revocation of their licenses—but various women's organizations have branded the law as "discriminatory."

HOW WATCHDOGS OF WAR PATROL AFRICAN DESERT

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH AN ARMORED CAR PATROL IN THE WESTERN DESERT, Aug. 13 [Delayed].—While the main British and axis forces spar for an opening along the front near the coast, the immense reaches of the desert, stretching more than a thousand miles into Central Africa, are the province of light forces. They are always busy, no matter what "lull" the main coastal forces may have.

I have just been out on an "offensive patrol" with an armored car squadron, seeing the work they do—one of a few of the dashing, glamorous jobs in the grim business of modern war.

The main forces of the allies and axis have been fighting all the battles you've read about in the last couple of months within a few miles of the Mediterranean coast. Beyond them to the south, lightweights—armored car and motor patrols—carry on their work.

Best at Scouting.

Armored cars sound formidable, but they are really intended less for fighting than for scouting.

"They're my ears; I would be lost without them," one general remarked in the last campaign.

We moved off on patrol with our unit at the first light of day. We had camped in a hollow far out in the desert the previous night, with sentries watching thru the night atop surrounding knolls. There was no breakfast lest the enemy see the fires.

The commander led the way in his car, a dim shape bobbing up and down ahead with its wireless mast waving crazily against the sky. British Correspondent Edward Howe and I were passengers.

We traveled by compass and dead reckoning. Most parts of the desert have no reliable landmarks, and patrols treat it like the sea.

Like Cruisers at Sea.

Moving fast in close formation to take advantage of the short time before sunrise, the cars followed low ground so they wouldn't be visible against the skyline. Once the sun rose they turned on another course and cut around behind the area where enemy patrols were believed to be sniping.

Armored patrols work like cruisers at sea. Cars cruised on both sides and ahead of the commander, nosing into all suspected depressions and reporting constantly by radio.

Suddenly as we approached a rise the commander haited the patrol, swung his car at right angles and rolled up to a hull down position near the crest of the rise so that only his head showed above it. The cars in the rear swept up and around to deploy across the front, while the leaders spread out fanwise, then raced out of sight over the skyline.

The commander pointed to two black objects in the distance. Already the desert had switched from the biting chill of the dawn to the heat of the day, and everything near the ground shimmered in the rising heat waves.

Enemy or Oil Barrels.

The objects could have been enemy tanks or trucks, or they could have been oil barrels. The mirage some-

NAVY REVEALS FIGHT PROCEEDS SATISFACTORILY

Fleet Gets Supplies Thru to Marines.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 (AP).—The navy today announced that a steady stream of supplies was moving to marine forces in the Solomon Islands where consolidation of shore positions "is progressing satisfactorily."

The navy department communique said:

"1. The task of consolidating the shore positions now held by United States marines in the Solomon Islands is progressing satisfactorily.

"2. Naval units are engaged in protecting our lines of communication and escorting supply vessels to our occupying forces.

"3. United States army and allied shore-based aircraft are continuing to attack Japanese air bases and ship concentrations in enemy held harbors."

A Satisfactory Outlook.

The statement that American lines of communication were fully under American control so that supplies were moving in freely was generally accepted to mean that reënforcements likewise would be moving up as needed.

The communique, the navy's first report on the Solomon action giving any detail since Wednesday, added up to picture a situation well in hand and a satisfactory outlook.

The Wednesday report said that the marines had landed on three islands in the vicinity of Tulagi, and there was no information today to show whether landing operations might since have been extended to other islands.

From the report that the consolidation of shore positions was still in progress, it appeared to authorities here that stiff opposition continued altho there was no indication whether it was increasing or decreasing in intensity.

U. S. "Wins First Stage."

LONDON, Aug. 14 (AP).—The Sydney [Australia] correspondent of the Evening Star cabled today that the Americans had won the first stage of the battle of the Solomons, and that the marines were entrenched so firmly at Tulagi that the Japanese could dislodge them only by bringing up the "heaviest reënforcements."

He predicted the action would continue for weeks.

The Japanese have accepted the American challenge and apparently are prepared to risk a big naval action to hold the islands, the correspondent said.

"The Americans have or soon will have complete control of Tulagi Island," the report said.

The Star correspondent said the Americans may have gained control of the Guadalcanal air field and strategic points on nearby Florida Island.

Bomb Enemy Convoy.

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Aug. 15 [Saturday]—(AP).—Allied heavy bombers bent on preventing Japanese reënforcements from reaching the Solomons, where United States marines have driven wedges into three enemy positions, yesterday pounced on a small Japanese convoy off New Britain, a communique announced today. New Britain lies northwest of the islands invaded by the marines.

An allied spokesman said this escorted convoy was the same which had been attacked three times Thursday by the airmen protecting the flank of Vice Adm. Robert L. Ghormley's invasion forces in the Solomons.

The results of the attack were not observed because of bad weather, but allied airmen shot down two more escorting Japanese fighter planes and damaged three others in the latest foray.

All Planes Return.

"Our formation received slight damage and minor casualties," the communique said. "All our aircraft returned to their base."

While there was no official explanation of the destination of the Japanese convoy which includes transports, the communique indicated it was bound in an easterly direction toward the Solomons. Yesterday's communique had placed the convoy in the New Guinea area which is west of New Britain.

Rabaul on the northeastern end of New Britain is a big Japanese invasion base whence supplies and troops have been dispatched to the

Skipper Tells Tribune Man About Islands.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, Aug. 14 [Passed by military censor].—Japanese spies masquerading as trochus [marine snail] shell pirates, were scouting the waters of the Solomon Islands in large, motor powered sampans when the Pacific war broke out, the grizzled skipper of an island steamer told me today.

He said the crews of two of these vessels were seized and interned by island authorities after Pearl Harbor. The crews consisted of well educated men, most of whom could speak English.

"The captains of these boats were pretty brainy fellows," the skipper said. "And the crews certainly were not the type you would expect to find poaching for shells in British waters." [Some types of trochus shells are used to make pearl buttons.]

Jap Carpenters Flee.

Two Japanese carpenters who had worked for a number of years on Guadalcanal, one of the Solomon Islands where the invaders subsequently established a major air base, disappeared shortly before the outbreak of war. They were the only Japs in the Solomons and it is presumed they returned to Japan.

The skipper, who asked that his name not be used, said a number of Australian yachtsmen and merchant seamen who had sailed the Solomons waters were recruited by the allies prior to the launching of their present offensive to be used as guides and pilots.

Except for the area around Tulagi, which is the port of entry and administrative seat, the Solomons waters are not well charted.

When the Japs landed on the islands and pushed southward, 62 white women and children were brought to Brisbane, Australia, on the skipper's boat in February.

Ten Main Isles in Group.

On her last trip the skipper's vessel was attacked twice by a Japanese plane but escaped serious damage.

The Solomons consist of 10 main islands and many small ones lying in a double row over an area 900 miles long. Guadalcanal, the largest, is 90 miles long and 30 miles wide. It is covered with dense jungle with the exception of a number of coconut plantations. The country is rugged and mountainous, with peaks rising to 8,000 feet except for a strip along the east coast, where there is a comparatively level area 20 miles long and three miles wide, covered with high grass.

Here, at a place called Lunga, the Japs constructed their main air base. United States marines are reported to have landed on this island in the face of heavy enemy resistance.

There is a deep water anchorage off the east end of the island as well as off Tulagi, which is about 20 miles northwest.

500 Whites on Islands.

Along the coast of Guadalcanal there were a number of white planters, traders, and missionaries, as well as many native villagers. There are no roads except wagon tracks on the coconut plantations. Before the war there were about 500 whites in all the Solomons, 100 of whom were on Guadalcanal.

In addition to the production of copra and the gathering of shells from which buttons and similar articles are made, a start had been made on the mining of gold and the growing of rubber trees.

"The natives are numerous types of Melanesians and Polynesians," the skipper said. "They differ a lot. On Rennell Island they are like the Maoris of New Zealand. Some are big and husky, but soft. They die of homesickness if taken away very long."

In color they vary from deep black to light tan. The skipper said the best workers come from Malaita. "They're hard cases," he explained, "and take a lot of handling."

Sale of liquor to the natives is forbidden because "they go wild after a couple of beers," the skipper said. The natives are inveterate gamblers, he added. "They'd gamble even their clothes away. They like to roll dice and have a native game resembling roulette. I knew one boy who had a chest containing £1,000 [about $4,000] he had won gambling. Morally they're pretty strict, and a woman who is unfaithful to her husband is mutilated and condemned to death by the village chief.

"Around the settlements both men and women wear only knee length calico sarongs, and the employers must provide two such garments a year. Some of the men are beginning to wear shorts. Back in the bush the women don't wear anything at all but if they see a white woman approaching they tear a leaf from a banana tree and cover themselves. At the sight of a white man they flee into the bush."

Treat Women with Contempt.

The women are treated with a certain degree of contempt. "When a woman comes aboard the large canoes, she has to stoop down and crawl under the paddles," the skipper explained. "She is considered to have defiled the paddle if she steps over it."

"Yams, taro, and a few other crops are planted by men, but the women have to cultivate and reap. Most of the time the natives are half starved, but those working on plantations are furnished regular rations of rice, crackers, meat, tea, and sugar, and are permitted to eat as much coconut as they want."

One important crop is ivory nuts, which are gathered from a tree which bears only once in 10 years, then dies. The nuts are harvested by cutting down the tree, which is then split open. Mushrooms are grown in the split tree trunks.

No natives live on Tulagi, which is a small island about three miles in circumference in Florida Island bay. Here the white administrative officers had a club with tennis courts, a golf course, and billiard tables. A small telephone system also had been installed. American troops also are reported to have forced a landing at Tulagi.

Speak Pidgin English.

Many different languages are spoken thruout the Solomons, but whenever natives come in contact with the whites pidgin English is spoken. Oteqle is the name for piano on Tulagi. "Big black box fightem in teeth he sing," the natives say.

In slave trading days many skippers did a good business in "blackbirding" in this area. It went on long after the Civil war, blacks then being taken to Peru to work in the mines. Many skippers also carried the natives to Queensland to work.

The Solomons were opened to commercial exploitation in 1905 with the establishment of Lever's Pacific Plantations. Labor conditions were regulated by the British colonial office, which administered the islands.

In addition to providing food, sarongs, and housing, employers pay "light laborers" 14 shillings [about $2.80] a month. Full laborers get a pound [about $4]. The natives sign two year labor contracts, during which time the employers are also obliged to look after any dependents accompanying the worker.

No land may be purchased, but property may be leased from the natives under government supervision at rates beginning at 3 pence [about 5 cents] an acre for the first five years, and going up to 6 shillings [about $1.20] an acre from the 21st to the 33d year.

Accused Hotel Slayer Arraigned

Pleads Not Guilty

A plea of not guilty was entered yesterday in Criminal court for Mrs. Eleanor Williams, 25 years old, a former tavern dice girl. She is accused of killing her lover, Gordon J. McNaughton, 32, in a hotel room last Thursday after he deserted her for another woman. After the plea by her attorneys, Mrs. Williams told Judge Harold G. Ward "I'm not guilty of murder, your honor." The case was continued to Sept. 14.

CANADIANS GIVE LAKE FREIGHTERS FOR OCEAN DUTY

AN EAST CANADIAN PORT, Aug. 14 (AP).—Canada's inland shipowners from virtually every major lake port have assembled the largest fleet of lake freighters ever turned over to the admiralty for deep sea duty, it was learned today.

The owners said about $250,000 will be spent to put the ships in shape for ocean duty, which will include installation of life rafts, special lighting equipment to combat U-boat and other anti-submarine aids.

Most of the freighters, shipowners said, would be used to alleviate the shortage of boats for the coal and ore runs. The largest acquisition by the admiralty brings to nearly 70 the number of canal-sized lake freighters which have been taken for deep-sea duty.

Clash in New Guinea.

The ground position in the Kokoda area, 60 miles east of the allied base of Port Moresby in New Guinea, was about the same, an allied spokesman said.

Japanese and allied patrols had minor skirmishes there, and Kokoda's airdrome still was a "no man's land," he said.

Aside from the announcement in Washington that United States marine and naval-air action was "progressing satisfactorily" in the Solomons there was no official word here of that theater, 1,100 miles northeast of Australia.

Informed sources said press and radio reports from Australia purporting to give specific details of the battle were largely guess work. Since the offensive erupted a week ago, the Australians and Gen. MacArthur have released no news on the ebb and flow of the battle. All statements have come from Washington, D. C., or Pearl Harbor, the headquarters of Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, commander of the Pacific fleet.

Not MacArthur's Show.

Close as the Solomons are to Australia and vital as they are to strategy in the south Pacific, the operations there are not MacArthur's show. The general has confined his reports to the important but supporting action of American and Australian airmen under his command.

[Japan issued a revised and unconfirmed claim that 35 allied warships and transports were sunk and five damaged. Imperial headquarters in Tokio said 13 British and American cruisers, 9 destroyers, 10 transports, and 3 submarines were destroyed along with 58 allied planes. A cruiser, transport, and three destroyers were said to have been damaged. The Japanese acknowledged the loss of 21 "suicide" planes and slight damage to two cruisers.]

PLANE CRASHES KILL TWO CHICAGO FLYERS AND TWO COMPANIONS

Lieut. James W. Clements.

Two Chicagoans, a lieutenant in the air corps and a civilian instructor, were killed in plane crashes that claimed two additional lives, the army air force announced yesterday.

Lieut. James W. Clements, 21 years old, 237 East Delaware place, was killed near Gunter, Tex., late Thursday when a training plane in which he was flying with Cadet John P. Gray, 22 years old, of Detroit, Mich., also killed, crashed. Both were stationed at Perrin field, near Denison.

Victims of the second fatal crash, near Lakeland, Minn., were Robert Christianson, 24, whose address was given as 6637 Greenwood avenue, a civilian instructor, and his glider pilot student, Pvt. Bruce T. Lee, 21, of Hobbs, N. M. Observers said the training plane nosedived into the ground from a low altitude.

INJURED FLYER TELLS OF 10 DAY TREK IN ALASKA

New York, Aug. 14 (AP).—Capt. Edward Clark of Omaha, Neb., today told of walking with a broken ankle for 10 days over Alaskan mountains after his bomber had crashed.

The army plane rammed into a peak of the Aleutian range June 1 during a severe storm. Capt. Clark's co-pilot, Second Lieut. Joe Donaldson of Rosebud, Tex., suffered a compound break of the leg and two enlisted men were cut and bruised.

The four spent the first two days attempting to care for their injuries. Donaldson's leg was splinted with parts from the plane and he was wrapped in his parachute to prevent him from freezing.

Then the two enlisted men set out for help. After five days of waiting Capt. Clark bound his broken ankle tightly and decided to try to reach the shoreline.

Making his way across ice and jumping crevasses, cutting footholds down precipitate mountain walls, swimming streams, sliding down glaciers with his sleeping bag as a toboggan, the injured captain got below timberline in three days. Then he followed streams leading down to a valley. Seven more days and he stumbled into a fishermen's cabin.

Searchers located Donaldson. The enlisted men, meanwhile had made their way to safety.

New Zealand Farm Girls Get $2 a Week Pay Boost

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Aug. 14.—The New Zealand ministry of agriculture has extended its campaign for greater farm production by increasing girl workers' pay by the equivalent of $2 weekly. It is hoped the 30 per cent increase will attract farm recruits. Labor mobilization reached the school children yesterday with the announcement that children would have light occupations during school vacations.

Threaten to Seize Robes of 'Ousted' Norse Clerics

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Aug. 14.—Norwegian churchmen dismissed by Premier Vidkun Quisling who insist on conducting religious services will have their robes seized by the police, it was reported today from Oslo. The order was issued by the premier's church department today. It adds, however, that if churchmen resist the seizure they are not to be arrested.

LACK OF QUININE STIRS CHARGE OF LOBBY SCANDAL

Says Drug Trust Blocks Making Substitutes.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—The valiant struggle by American marines to dislodge the Japanese from their bases in the malaria infested Solomon Islands emphasizes again this country's shortage of quinine and charges that a superlobby in Washington is endeavoring to restrict production of synthetic substitutes.

Rep. Bertrand W. Gearhart [R., Cal.] told the house yesterday that "insidious influences" have blocked every attempt to reveal the facts of the quinine scandal.

"Even the probes of congressional committees have been halted," he said. He demanded for the sake of the health of more than 4,000,000 soldiers, sailors, and marines that the people be given the facts of the quinine situation, "displeasing tho the revelation may be to one of the most powerful and, as rumor has it, one of the highest paid lobbyists on Capitol hill."

Refers to Corcoran.

Rep. Gearhart's remarks referred to Thomas G. Corcoran, former No. 1 Brain Truster and chief political fixer of the Roosevelt administration, who is credited in well informed senate circles with blocking an investigation by the senate patents committee of Sterling Products, Inc., and its contracts and relations with I. G. Farbenindustrie, the great German chemical and dye trust.

Corcoran represented Sterling Products last fall in negotiations with the justice department, which approved a consent decree ostensibly breaking the drug patent monopoly. Corcoran's brother, David, is president of the Sydney Ross company, a Sterling Products distributing subsidiary which specializes in the Latin-American market. The Winthrop company, which controls the synthetic quinine patents, is owned jointly by Sterling Products and the General Aniline and Film corporation, a subsidiary of I. G. Farbenindustrie.

Altho the German owned stock in the Winthrop company has been seized by Leo Crowley, the alien property custodian, a responsible government official stated today that the quinine patents have not been released for general use by American drug manufacturers.

Committee Cancels Hearing.

The senate patents committee, which had heard sensational testimony by justice department officials concerning I. G. Farbenindustrie's patent and licensing agreements with Standard Oil of New Jersey, the General Electric corporation and the Du Pont company, voted 5 to 1 to terminate its hearings after Chairman Homer T. Bone [D., Wash.] had announced that the Sterling Products case would be investigated.

Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold, head of the anti-trust division who had assailed the Standard Oil of New Jersey, General Electric, and Du Pont agreements in hundreds of pages of testimony, urged the committee not to inquire into the Sterling Products case on the ground that such an investigation might impair relations with the Latin-American countries.

One Dissention Vote.

Sen. Bone cast the sole vote for further hearings. Sen. Scott W. Lucas [D., Ill.], Sen. Claude Pepper [D., Fla.], Sen. Worth Clark [D., Idaho], Sen. John A. Danaher [R., Conn.], and Sen. Wallace White [R., Me.], voted to discontinue the hearings.

The Republican members and Sen. Clark were eager to stop the hearings because of a feeling that they were being used to smear Standard Oil of New Jersey and other large industrial concerns. Sen. Pepper led the fight against investigating the Sterling Products case. Pepper was under obligation to Corcoran for help in his 1938 primary campaign, when the administration exerted all its influence, including the WPA, in his behalf.

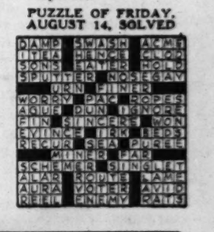
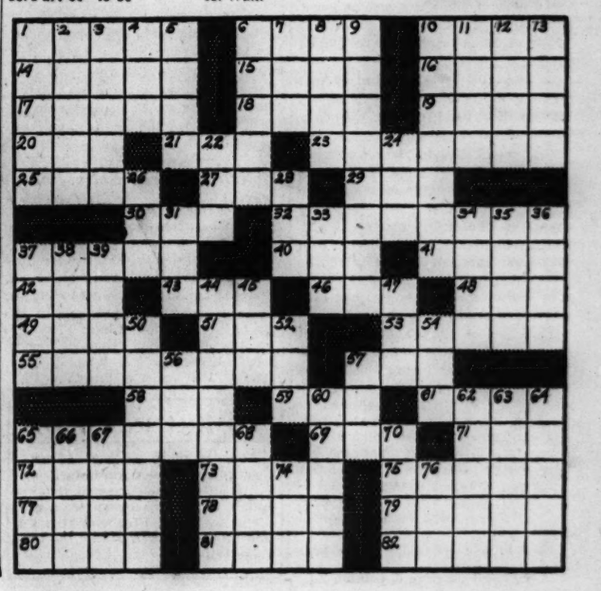
PUZZLE OF FRIDAY, AUGUST 14, SOLVED





ASSERTS ARMY DUBBED CHANCE TO BAG CARRIER

Magnuson Reveals Laxity Existed in Alaska.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 14 (AP).—Rep. Warren G. Magnuson [D., Wash.] asserted today upon his return from an inspection of Alaskan military bases that Japanese surface forces including an aircraft carrier which attacked Dutch Harbor in early June escaped possible annihilation because of a "temporary and unfortunate failure of army and navy coördination at the time."

"Failure on the part of one army command to interpret liberally standing naval orders regarding enemy contact resulted in a delay which gave the enemy an opportunity to remove itself," said the congressman who returned recently from active sea duty as a lieutenant commander in the navy.

"The army command was located within operating distance of the Japanese task force," Magnuson told interviewers. "I have information that it was notified soon after the Dutch Harbor attack that navy PBY's had a Japanese carrier under continual observation, and that they were waiting for the arrival of army land-based aircraft to make the kill.

Japs Slip Away.

"The army command, however, believed its orders were not sufficiently broad to warrant sending out a bombing force at this phase of the battle without definite directions.

"As a result, army planes remained on the ground, and before naval authorities could straighten the matter out, the Japs had slipped away from observation.

"Later the army did succeed in making contact, but not under as favorable circumstances as they might have found if the response had been earlier."

The congressman said he understood "this particular army command has been relieved."

"I am glad to say," he continued, "that there is no possibility of this happening again, and no one has done more to prevent this happening again than the army high command in Alaska itself. I think they'd welcome a Japanese task force at this stage of the game."

Situation Not Alarming.

Magnuson said the navy was in charge in the Aleutians and "army commanders are now working in the closest coöperation with naval authorities. The naval command itself has been greatly strengthened with new blood and experience. Communications are now better, our bases are rounding rapidly into shape, and all the time I was there I never heard the word 'defense' mentioned once."

His five day visit to Alaska, Magnuson said, left him "feeling the war situation in Alaska is serious but not alarming."

"I'm convinced the military plan is to pulverize Kiska out of commission or take it by invasion before winter," he said.

"The Jap invasion of the Aleutians is a scandal of the war. But, in one way, the Jap capture of Kiska helped us. It concentrated Jap forces we never would have been able to get otherwise. Our subs sank seven or eight destroyers; our planes got ships in the harbor."

Sees No Invasion Threat.

He said he saw no Japanese invasion threat, "but the Aleutians could serve as stepping stones for air raids on interior Alaska and the Pacific northwest," and that "air power—and more air power—is needed to smash the Nipponese from the islands."

However, he added, "at the rate the navy and army are moving in Alaska, the United States clearly is thinking in terms of offensive and not defensive warfare. There are plenty of troops in Alaska in case the military authorities want to take back Kiska by invasion.

"What is needed now is more airplanes."

CUBAN PARTIES DISAGREE; DOOM UNITY REGIME

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 14.—President Fulgencio Batista's attempt to form a national unity government in response to demands for a change in administration policy and a new cabinet appeared destined to failure today as the ABC party withdrew from negotiations and the Democratic party asked the president not to give a portfolio to Communists. At the same time the Democrats, presided over by Vice President Cuervo Rubio, denied reports that they demanded the premiership and several other posts and urged the president to appoint "capable men with technical knowledge."

After weeks of dissatisfaction culminating in a massmeeting of students late in July, the president called leaders of the seven coalition parties which elected him and invited opposition groups to help form a national unity government. Ex-President Ramon Grau Sanmartin's party refused the invitation. The ABC accepted and presented a war program.

Demands by Communists for a cabinet post and the inability of coalition parties to agree prolonged negotiations. In its statement today the ABC said it was withdrawing until the coalition reached an accord.

Miss Betty Brunk will represent Chicago in Atlantic City, N. J., on Sept. 7 in competition with many other beautiful young girls for the national title of Miss America. Miss Brunk, a shapely blonde, was selected as Miss Chicago Thursday night in a finals contest with a dozen other aspirants. She won out over an original field of more than 200 girls. Miss Brunk is 18 years old, and lives at 4811 North Ashland avenue. Adding a war touch to her title, she will assist in recruiting of naval aviation cadets, and during this effort will wear a pair of wings presented to her by representatives of the naval aviation cadet board.

FULL-TIME NAVY SECRETARY FOR U. S. IS DEMANDED

Schafer Says Knox Is Too Busy for Job.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 14 [Special].—A demand that congress provide the nation with a full time secretary of the navy was made tonight by former Congressman John C. Schafer, candidate for the Republican nomination for congress in the 4th district. He said the secretary of the navy should not divert time needed for the security of the navy to writing magazine articles or advising a newspaper.

Favors Vinson for Job.

He favored replacing Secretary Frank Knox with Rep. Carl Vinson [D., Ga.], chairman of the house naval affairs committee. "With his vast knowledge and experience of naval problems, he should be appointed secretary of the navy without delay," Schafer said.

"Under the Constitution of the United States congress has full power to provide and maintain a navy and to make rules for the regulation of the land and naval forces," Schafer said.

Can't Serve 2 Masters.

"Under this power congress should, without delay, provide for a full time secretary of the navy. No man can serve two masters. An officer in charge of a gun crew fighting a submarine cannot properly serve Uncle Sam if he has to say: 'Wait a few minutes until I finish a magazine article which I have sold,' or 'until I have given some advice to a newspaper which pays me four times as much as Uncle Sam does.'

"I believe it would be a great contribution to winning the war if Vinson should be appointed secretary of the navy without delay."

SAYS JAPS DUE FOR SURPRISE IF THEY HIT ALASKA

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PEARL HARBOR, T. H., Aug. 14.—The Japanese occupation of the Aleutian Islands is a potential threat but not an immediate danger, a high navy officer said today in the first interview on the Aleutians granted here. The officer has just returned from 30 days of operations off the islands.

This officer said there was no way of telling what the Japs plan to do, or whether they intend to seize Dutch Harbor in an attempt to sweep eastward. "I think they'll get a surprise if they try a major attack," he added.

10,000 Japs on Kiska.

He said it is possible that there are 10,000 Japs on Kiska Island, but declared they would find it difficult to dig in because of the rock formations.

The officer compared weather conditions off the Aleutians with those during fall and winter in the North sea and English channel.

"Weather conditions make operations a constant battle demanding the greatest resource and courage of the forces participating," he said. "During 30 days in the area there was only a one or two day period of visibility during which we could see the horizon on all sides, and one other day during which unlimited operations were possible.

Little Damage at Dutch Harbor.

"We roamed the Aleutian chain in weather so thick that the bombardment force which took a recent poke at Kiska got close to the beach in ultraheavy weather, with our ships alongside so fog shrouded they could hardly see their blinker lights. They couldn't observe the results."

He said the Japanese have done no real damage to Dutch Harbor installations because the air station there is alert.

HINTS CHILEAN CHIEF MAY CLEAR UP STAND ON AXIS

SANTIAGO, Chile, Aug. 14 (AP).—President Juan Antonio Rios will leave about mid-October to visit the United States at President Roosevelt's invitation, an informed source said today, and a prominent newspaper pointed out he would have a chance to "clarify our present position" regarding the axis.

El Mercurio said "It is no secret our relations with the North American democracy has suffered thru an erroneous interpretation which some circles have given on the attitude of Chile toward the war. It seems necessary to seek new methods to clarify our present position and there is no doubt the personal contact of the Presidents of Chile and the United States will bring a complete understanding of our respective viewpoints."

Chile and Argentina are the only South American nations which have not cut diplomatic ties with the axis. President Rios' acceptance of President Roosevelt's invitation opened the possibility that Chile would break relations with the axis.

BOMBER MAKER ASSAILS KAISER TRANSPORT PLAN

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—J. H. Kindelberger, a pioneer airplane designer and president of the North American Aircraft corporation, said here today that at least five years would be required to put into production the 200 ton air transports advocated by Henry J. Kaiser, west coast shipbuilder.

Kindelberger advocated maximum production of the current new types of proven transports of the 32 ton, four engine variety.

The plane manufacturer, whose personal concern is entirely limited to the building of the B-25 medium bomber, the P-51 attack plane and the AT-6 advanced trainer—gave the views of the airplane industry, declaring "the whole idea is impractical." He cited the experiences of Glenn L. Martin, producer of the Mars, 70 ton flying transport, and of Henry Ford who has built a giant factory for mass production of bombers.

Ford, according to Kindelberger, has run into many unforeseen production difficulties despite priorities that give him materials. Martin, he said, "would not today take a contract to produce 25 of the 75 ton ships a month in less than two years."

Chief U. S. Censor Praises Press for Its Co-operation

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 14 (AP).—Director of Censorship Byron Price described censorship today as a "necessary evil of wartime," but declared that it was a vital weapon to attack and hamper the enemy and one which would be used in an American way for military reasons alone.

"In a democracy, the public is entitled to know about the tough realities of this war, and it must not be subjected to such a black-out of news as now pervades totalitarian countries," he said in an address at a meeting of the Indiana State Bar association.

"In its approach to this problem," he added, "the government has followed consistently the democratic belief that American news columns and American broadcasting can remain the freest in the world and still keep vital information from the enemy."

Praises Coöperation of Press.

Price praised the "loyal coöperation" of newspaper publishers and radio broadcasters, saying that it had been so universal that "incalculable good is done every day by the withholding of information about troops and ships, and munitions and tanks and planes."

Simultaneously, he inquired whether it "is too much to ask that the process now be carried one step further and that the public itself participate in censorship?"

"In a sense," Price said, "every one of us became a broadcaster as soon as he was old enough to talk, and he became a publisher as soon as he learned to write. No American is doing his share unless, as a part of his self-discipline, he remembers always that the enemy is listening and is thankful for even the smallest scraps of military information."

Censors Not Moral Guides.

He declared that there was nothing inconsistent between the operations of censorship and the processes of freedom. "The binding link between the operations of censorship and the operations of our armed forces," he said, "should never be forgotten, nor should any censor be permitted to forget that he is dealing simply and solely with the processes of war.

"Censorship is neither a guardian of private morals nor a snooper into the violation of peacetime laws. Every member of our staff keeps constantly before him this basic principle: What does not concern the war does not concern censorship."

Price maintained that "absolute discretion" in censoring the mails and cables was essential to keep open this country's lines of communications. "There is no time to convene a grand jury or submit to the ordinary legal requirements of ordinary times," he observed. "The exigencies of war are breathless upon our doorstep and will not wait."

Interprets First Amendment.

He told the bar association that "in a broad sense, the freedom guaranteed by the first amendment has been accepted as a freedom to criticize, to protest, to petition, to speak opinions freely; but not as a right to play fast and loose with facts."

"In the realm of opinion and criticism," Price contended, "it is highly essential that there be no arbitrary action by the government. . . . This entire field lies beyond the purview of censorship. It is one of the responsibilities of the general statutes and of the regular law enforcement agencies of the government."

ARM JEWS, LET THEM DEFEND JERUSALEM, SAYS BRITISH LABORITE

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Aug. 14.—Despite the announcement in parliament last week by War Secretary Sir James Grigg of a plan to create separate Jewish and Arab infantry battalions, Lord Wedgwood, Laborite member of parliament, told the Zionist society today that he would rather put defense of Jerusalem in Jewish than British hands.

"Why has there been nearly two years' delay in arming Palestine?" he asked. "Because," he said, "fighting was considered a job only for the British.

"It is only when we see that nation in arms that we will drive out anti-semitism and restore to the Jews their own respect. If the Nazis get Palestine it will not be the Germans who will kill off the Jews, it will be the Arabs. A hundred thousand Jews want to fight but they have no arms."

FIRE CAUSES $200 DAMAGE.

2 AWOL SOLDIERS GET PRISON FOR KIDNAPING GIRL

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Aug. 14 (AP).—Two AWOL soldiers who confessed the abduction of 16 year old Margaret Rollie, Hesper, Ia., farm girl, were sentenced in federal court here today when they pleaded guilty before Judge Charles E. Dewey.

Elmer Kuske, 23, of Denver, Colo., drew five years on each of three counts in the indictment. Two of the terms will run concurrently, giving him a total of 10 years to serve. Andrew Westman, 19, Trinidad, Colo., was sentenced to five years on each count, all sentences to run concurrently.

The indictment charged violation of the federal white slave [Mann] act, the national motor vehicle theft [Dyer] act, and the Lindbergh kidnaping law.

Both were AWOL from Fort Sill, Okla., on the night of June 30 when they forced the Iowa girl's escort from his car near Decorah, Ia., robbed him and sped away with automobile and girl. Nine days later they were arrested in Colorado.

HOW WATCHDOGS OF WAR PATROL EGYPT'S DESERT

times magnifies and sometimes shrinks distant objects.

This time it was two squat bushes, desert rarities.

"It's usually bushes or petrol tins," the commander remarked, "but the time the desert really catches you is when you say, 'they're probably only bushes.' That's always the time when they turn out to be the enemy."

All day the hunt continued according to careful plan, back and forth, in and out of wadis [dry channel beds]. Sometimes one group was detached to prowl thru a large wadi while the commander took the rest of the force around behind in case they scared up anything.

In the desert it is astonishing how easily a large group of vehicles can hide in depressions. One enemy patrol often passes within half a mile of another without seeing the hidden group and in the great expanses of the desert half a mile is only a drop in the bucket.

Off to the Attack.

The rest of the force rolled after them in fighting formation, strung out across the plain.

As the first "enemy cars" grew nearer we saw them swell in the mirage until they seemed gigantic, and it was only then we realized we were charging a row of grassy hummocks, magnified and distorted by the mirage, which also gave the impression of movement.

In these wide reaches without points of comparison, it is most difficult to judge the size or distance away of things you see, or even to tell whether they are moving, particularly if you are moving yourself. Puffs of dust behind a vehicle are usually the only reliable indication of movement, but the mirage causes a glare which distorts the base of any thing standing on the ground in the distance, and makes it look much like dust around a moving car.

Back to Camp.

We turned homeward as the sun got low, this time cutting straight across country to the camp by compass.

The men of this unit are Sikhs, magnificent, strapping fellows with fierce black beards plaited up into the hair around their handsome faces.

They stood upright in the open turrets, swaying to the cars' motion and signaling with their arms to cars around them. Long shadows galloped grotesquely beside us, leaping and diving over mounds and hollows as the cars at last swung into camp and took their appointed places for the night in various wadis.

As the roar of engines and whine of gears died down leaving the desert in peace, the commander climbed down from his car, stretched and said ruefully, "You've seen how it's done but I'm afraid I've failed you. There had been enemy patrols there but they had gone before we arrived. I feel as if I had invited you to a shoot and couldn't scare up any birds."

Proved Area Was Clear.

Without scaring up any birds, he did a thoro and efficient job. He was ordered to clear a certain area. Tho he did not meet the enemy, he did prove the area was clear.

Motor patrols like this are the watchdogs of the desert. In little detachments they often camp deep in the desert many miles from bases or reenforcements. There they watch over desert tracks and passes where cliffs or salt bogs cause defiles.

Their job is to prevent the enemy from infiltrating by the back door. The desert is too vast for a solid defense line, but it isn't necessary anyway. The patrols can cover the key points.

At the same time these desert units snoop into enemy territory, gathering data for their own forces—correcting maps, finding new tracks, and reporting on enemy strength and movements.

They are roving detachments working far from their bases but can make instant contact with headquarters, thanks to the radio. Often they do not use the radio except in emergencies, however, lest the enemy discover their whereabouts.

Hitch-Hiked to Join Squadron.

The officers are alert and eager for action, and so are the men.

Our patrol commander told me of one Sikh crew which had been sent to the Gazala, Libya, front from the base but arrived after he [the commander] had moved on. The Sikhs arrived in the thick of battle and joined in. They fought until ordered to retreat with the others. They continued fighting in the rear guard until their car was knocked out.

They then hitch-hiked until they found the squadron and reported they had lost their car but managed in the heat of battle to save machine guns, pistols, ammunition, code books, maps, and all their personal equipment.

Another car was overtaken by the Germans in the midst of battle when it struck a patch of soft sand. It was just getting dark and the crew escaped in a second car, but the driver stayed behind. He was a pathan accustomed to frontier fighting.

He crawled away in the dark and fired a signal rocket a few hundred yards away. When the Germans rushed there he went back and dug his car free. Just then the Germans returned, so he went in another direction and fired another signal. While they were investigating that he slipped back quietly and drove home. It was all in the day's work.

U. S. ARMY BOMBERS DESTROY 2 BRIDGES, BLAST BURMA AIR BASE

NEW DELHI, India, Aug. 14 (AP).—The United States army air forces today announced a continued series of bombings in Burma that destroyed two railroad bridges and was keeping the Japanese from using the Mytikyina air base.

The announcement said that on Aug. 2 the Jap air base still was unusable. A medium bomber on Aug. 2 scored a direct hit on a railroad bridge south of Wuntho and both spans were seen to fall. On the same day another medium bomber dropped several bombs on docks and warehouses at Katha.

"On Aug. 8 a single medium bomber secured a direct hit and destroyed another railroad bridge between Tausui and Pinbaw, southwest of Mogaung," the communique said. It added that "in all these operations we sustained no loss in planes or personnel."

U. S. FLYERS TELL HOW THEY RAIDED ITALIAN WARSHIPS

One Knocked Out for a Long Time.

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 14 (AP).—Flyers who took part in the American air force bombing of three Italian cruisers at the Greek harbor of Pylos reported today that one of the ships, hit squarely with two 1,000 pound bombs would be out of operation for a long time.

A second cruiser was set afire and a third damaged in the 1,300 mile round trip attack which put a big new dent in Premier Mussolini's battered navy.

Taking off Tuesday afternoon from a secret airfield somewhere in the middle east, four motored B-24's of the 98th bombardment group under Col. Hugo Rush winged to the attack across the Mediterranean and over the southern tip of the Peloponnesus to the Ionian seacoast port.

Aim 2 Bombs at Each Ship.

Four cruisers were moored in a straight line in the long, narrow harbor.

The American planes swooped in, still retaining high altitude, moving diagonally across the target. Two planes cross each cruiser, dropping 1,000 pound explosives.

The pilots said two direct hits on one cruiser were certain. Another was set ablaze either by a direct hit or a near miss, they reported. Bombs which fell alongside the third cruiser caused a terrific explosion as fragments apparently struck oil or munitions stores.

Little Opportunity to Raid.

The only opposition the Americans encountered was scant anti-aircraft fire from the vessels. No fighter planes were encountered as the B-24's [or Liberators] flew home.

The harbor was described by the flyers as simply a mooring place protected by a boom alongside the hilly Pylos peninsula. Presumably the Italians put their cruisers there for safekeeping between ventures out to sea.

Meanwhile, little action was reported from the Egyptian land front, altho the British communique reported casualties were inflicted on enemy patrols and working parties.

DECLARES POLISH ARMY TURNS INTO ARMORED CORPS

LONDON, Aug. 14 (AP). — Gen. Wladyslaw Sikorski, Polish premier, in an order of the day today announced that "our army corps in Scotland, strengthened by compatriots from America and from Russia, is being converted into an armored motor corps and will be a strong implement in the future offensive on the continent."

His order, issued in connection with observance of Polish "Soldiers' day" tomorrow, added: "Everything is being done in order that this corps, when it is on the continent and we come into contact with the mass of Poles, can be developed quickly into a Polish western army. A new type of our troops, the parachute troops, have become larger.

"In the middle east, the Carpathian brigade of Tobruk and Gazala fame has been organized into a division side by side with which stand other Polish divisions."

CRUISER, CARRIER LOST, BUT BRITISH GET CONVOY THRU

Ships Reach Malta; Defy Heavy Attacks.

LONDON, Aug. 14 (AP).—A British convoy defied swarms of axis warplanes, submarines, and torpedo boats and fought its way thru bomb splashed seas to deliver supplies to the embattled mid-Mediterranean fortress of Malta at the cost of the cruiser Manchester and the aircraft carrier Eagle, the admiralty announced today.

Axis claims of sinking 21 cargo ships, two destroyers, and three cruisers as well as the Eagle were curtly branded as known exaggerations by the admiralty statement. The axis also claimed damage to two battleships, two carriers, and an unspecified number of other ships.

The bulk of the British ships, shepherded by several British battleships as well as aircraft carriers, weathered what was believed to have been the heaviest air attack yet directed against a Mediterranean convoy. The admiralty statement said the report was incomplete and that further losses might be expected.

Italians Flee Battle.

A force of Italian cruisers hanging on the flanks of the convoy made a distant pass as if to interfere with the great sea train, but turned tail swiftly and ran when attacked by British aircraft.

Two torpedoes were rammed into the fleeing cruisers by a lurking submarine. Two enemy submarines were sunk, the admiralty said in its incomplete account of damage to the attackers.

Many of the 700 man crew of the sleek 9,400 ton Manchester were saved, the admiralty said. Only 11 months ago the 4 year old Manchester was refitted at Philadelphia—the second British warship to be serviced in United States ports.

The heaviest sea and air fighting was in the narrow bottleneck of the Mediterranean between Sicily and the African coast on the approaches to Malta.

Bombing of Wasp Unverified.

There still was no substantiation of German claims that the United States carrier Wasp had been set afire by six bomb hits and was trying to reach Malta.

The Rome radio declared that "the joint effort by British and United States pooled resources was the greatest ever attempted in the Mediterranean." It added that three battleships, four carriers, and many cruisers were in the armada, but the Wasp was the only identified United States warship. On two previous occasions, the Wasp had ferried fighter planes to Malta.

Report Ships Reach Gibraltar.

MADRID, Spain, Aug. 14 (AP).—Reports from La Linea said tonight that the British aircraft carriers Furious and Illustrious, a battleship of the Rodney type and five destroyers entered Gibraltar harbor today from the western Mediterranean. The Illustrious was said to have carried a number of wounded. The battleship's prow and sides were reported damaged and several anti-aircraft guns torn. One of the destroyers was reported listing to starboard.

Deny Laval Has Disclosed Stand on Second Front

VICHY, France, Aug. 14. — The French government issued an official denial today of reports that Pierre Laval, chief of government, had at any time made any declaration concerning the attitude of France in the event of an Anglo-American landing on French soil. The communique said foreign agencies had published unfounded reports on the subject. The statement is believed to have been communicated to Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles by the French ambassador, Gaston Henri-Haye.

VIOLENCE FLARES IN INDIA, ENDING PERIOD OF QUIET

Demonstrators Fired On by Calcutta Police.

BOMBAY, India, Aug. 15 [Saturday]—(AP).—Eight demonstrators were wounded today when police fired into a crowd in Calcutta, ending a period of quiet in the All-India Congress party's campaign for independence.

The demonstrators interfered with street car service, cut telephone wires, and smashed fire alarm boxes.

New Delhi, the capital, was quiet, but two big textile mills and one flour mill still were closed.

Before the latest flareups, Mohandas K. Gandhi's campaign for immediate independence had slowed almost to a standstill last night, altho there were signs of a quiet boycott against British rule.

Boycott Seen in Markets.

Evidence of a boycott was most pronounced in such commodity markets as rice and wheat. The markets remained open, but buying and selling was markedly reduced.

Some Indians and newspapers suggested the time had come for the government to consent to negotiate a settlement, but there was no indication of such a move in New Delhi.

Reports continued to come in of casualty totals from outbreaks in scattered sections earlier this week. An official compilation from old Delhi said 40 persons had been killed and 55 injured there between Tuesday and this morning.

Japan Hints at Action in India.

TOKIO, Aug. 14 [from Japanese broadcasts] (AP).—Tomokazu Hori, government information bureau spokesman, said today that "present conditions in India are such that India is being used for allied war purposes, and Japan cannot tolerate such a situation. It is a different question when and what steps Japan will take."

The war ministry, meanwhile, announced that Lieut. Gen. Masaharu Homma had been relieved of his post as commander of Japanese forces in the Philippines to permit his assignment elsewhere. His place has been taken by Lieut. Gen. Shizuichi Tanaka, former military attaché of the Japanese embassy in Washington, D. C.

HOMMA VISITED INDIA.

Gen. Homma's background implied a possible connection between his new, unspecified assignment and the Japanese spokesman's hints of action against the British in India.

Homma was one of the few high Japanese officers permitted to enter India as a special attaché with British forces.

MARINE COLONEL PRAISES SERVICE OF PAUL DOUGLAS

The progress of Pvt. Paul H. Douglas, United States marine corps, formerly alderman of the 5th ward and professor of economics at the University of Chicago, was told in Chicago yesterday by Col. Frank Halford, marine corps recruiting officer. He said Douglas was a success at Parris Island training camp.

"Altho he was hoping to get into combat duty," the colonel said, "his eloquence led us to keep him at Parris Island as a lecturer."

However, the officer added, Douglas will probably get his wish in the next two or three months. The 51 year old professor is still a buck private, but is scheduled to receive at least a sergeant's stripes soon.

PHILLIPS HOLMES, U. S. SCREEN ACTOR, KILLED IN CANADA AIR CRASH

New York, Aug. 14 (AP).—Taylor Holmes, stage and screen actor, today received news that his son, Aircraftsman Phillips Holmes, had been killed yesterday in a collision between two royal Canadian air force planes in Ontario.

Phillips Holmes.

Phillips Holmes, 33 years old, abandoned a career as a leading man in films to join the Canadian air service last year, following in the footsteps of his brother, Pilot Officer Ralph Holmes, husband of Libby Holman, singer.

Young Holmes was known for his screen performances in "His Private Life," "The Return of Sherlock Holmes," "Pointed Heels," and "Only the Brave."

POLICE PROHIBIT SLAV CONGRESS IN ARGENTINA

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Aug. 14.—The Slav congress which had been scheduled to assemble in Buenos Aires today to discuss problems of Slav emigres has been prohibited by the police. No reason was given but it may be surmised that the police have somehow connected the congress with communism.

This supposition was supported when El Pampero, the chief German propaganda organ, today accused the congress of being an instrument of Russia.

No publicity had been given to the Slav congress here with the result that most people learned of it for the first time when they read that it had been prohibited by the police. It was known, however, that many Slav organizations in Argentina were to be represented and speakers were to have included some Argentine deputies, among whom were Damonte Taborda, former chairman of the chamber of deputies committee investigating anti-Argentine activities, and the Socialist deputy, Americo Ghioldi.

ROOSEVELT HAILS ATLANTIC PACT ON ANNIVERSARY

Note Terms It Promise of Happier World.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14.—President Roosevelt today observed the first anniversary of the Atlantic Charter—the document he and Winston Churchill, British premier, drafted a year ago in a secret meeting at sea—and reaffirmed his faith in its eight principles as certain to "bring us to a happier world" when victory comes.

Mr. Roosevelt sent a message to Churchill to mark the signing of the charter, which since has been adopted by all the united nations as an expression of postwar aims. The United States was not at war at the time of the sea meeting.

"When victory comes we shall stand shoulder to shoulder in seeking to nourish the great ideals for which we fight," the President wrote. "It will be so recognized thru all the ages, even amid the unfortunate peoples who follow false gods today. We reaffirm our principles. They will bring us to a happier world."

The Eight Principles.

The eight principles of the charter are as follows:

1. No territorial or other aggrandizement.
2. No territorial changes without consent of the people concerned.
3. Right of all peoples to choose their form of government.
4. Equal access to raw materials and world trade.
5. Fullest economic collaboration to bring about improved labor standards, economic advancement, and social security.
6. Establishment of a sound, lasting peace which will afford freedom from fear and want.
7. Freedom of the seas.
8. Abandonment of the use of force.

The charter was criticized upon its promulgation for omitting a religious article from its principles.

In his message to Churchill Mr. Roosevelt recalled that in signing the document a year ago the two had based their hopes for a better future for the world.

United Stand Described.

A year ago, he continued, the nations resisting aggression were alone or in small groups, but today they stand together in "a great union of humanity, dedicated to the realization of common principles.

"Their faith in life, liberty, independence, and religious freedom, and in the preservation of human rights and justice in their own lands as well as in other lands, has been given form and substance and power thru a great gathering of peoples now known as the united nations," he said.

"Freedom and independence are today in jeopardy—the world over. If the forces of conquest are not successfully resisted and defeated there will be no freedom and no independence and no opportunity for freedom for any nation.

"It is, therefore, to the single and supreme objective of defeating the axis forces of aggression that the united nations have pledged all their resources and efforts."

PELLEY ELECTS TO GO TO PRISON DESPITE APPEAL

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 14 [Special].—William Dudley Pelley elected today to go to federal prison immediately to begin serving a 15 year sedition sentence pronounced by Judge Robert C. Baltzel in United States District court here instead of remaining in county jail pending disposition of his appeal to the federal Circuit court at Chicago.

Pelley also is under sentence in North Carolina on a blue sky law conviction.

Lawrence A. Brown, editor of the numerous Pelley publications and secretary of Pelley's Fellowship Press, Inc., at Noblesville, Ind., likewise elected to begin his five year term immediately, pending outcome of his appeal.

The third defendant, Miss Agnes Marian Henderson, Pelley's secretary and the treasurer of Fellowship Press, is at liberty under a suspended two year sentence.

RAF RAID RUINS CATHEDRAL AT MAINZ: NAZIS

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

BERNE, Switzerland, Aug. 14.—The historic cathedral of Mainz, one of the city's landmarks, was totally destroyed by incendiary bombs during the recent British royal air force raid, German military authorities reported today. The archepiscopal palace and five other churches were also completely ruined, it was said. More than 8,000 persons were made homeless by the RAF raid on Saarbrueckeen, principal industrial city of the Saar basin, the Germans admitted.

Drive for Teachers

Lieut. Col. Carl Swyter explaining a radio device to Helen Augustiny, one of the civilian instructors at the Chicago army air force radio school.

A shortage of civilian instructors seriously threatens success of Chicago's new army air force radio school in the former Stevens and Congress hotels, Brig. Gen. Arnold N. Krogstad, post commander, said yesterday.

Lieut. Col. Carl Swyter, in charge of training for the school, said yesterday that 1,500 civilian teachers are needed in Chicago, about 3,000 more at new radio schools in Madison, Wis., and Sioux Falls, S. D., and hundreds more at Scott field, the parent school.

Application for these jobs in the Chicago school should be filed with the civil service commission, room 1115 in the new postoffice building. Applicants outside Chicago should contact local postoffices or the civil service commission secretary in their towns.

To qualify as a student instructor, the applicant must have one or more of the following to his credit: 20 hours of mathematics and six hours of physics in a recognized university or college, or 20 hours of physics; a year's experience as a professional in the radio field; a commercial or amateur radio operator's license; six months of study in a radio school; or a diploma from a radio course in the defense training program.

CHARGE ENGLISH FIRED ON FRENCH PLANE, KILLING 2

RAF Also Accused of Attacking Boats.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, Aug. 14.—The French government tonight lodged two official protests against alleged British attacks on a French trans-Mediterranean seaplane and fishing boats off the Atlantic coast, it was disclosed tonight.

Usually the American embassy handles the transmission of these protests. However, it was indicated that the French protest was lodged by France's ambassador to Spain, Francois Pietri, with Sir Samuel Hoare, British ambassador to Madrid.

Two Killed in Attack.

The announcement said two civilian passengers were killed and five wounded when a hydroplane of the French air company, Air France, was attacked by royal air force fighters yesterday. The French plane evidently was flying over the area in which a British convoy was being attacked.

The French plane was 45 miles north of Algiers, Algeria, when the attack occurred, the communique said. No ships were in sight. British fighter planes followed the French plane for several minutes and then fired. After a few minutes, the patrol disappeared, but one plane turned back and again machine gunned the French commercial plane. Despite considerable damage, the French craft reached Algiers.

Attack on Boats Charged.

The French maintain that the weather was clear and that the circumstances preclude the possibility of a mistake.

The occasion of the second protest to the British was the machine gunning of French fishing boats off Concarneau, France, on Aug. 12. A score of tuna boats were machine gunned by British planes, with the result that several persons were killed and wounded, it was alleged.

Yanks Who Want to Wed in Britain Told: 'Cool Off'

LONDON, Aug. 14 (AP).—A three months' cooling off period for soldiers who want to marry British girls was ordered today by United States army headquarters.

HURT BY AUTO DOOR HANDLE.

Fred Gabiner, 15 years old, 1823 South Drake avenue, suffered a severe cut on his face and a possible skull fracture late yesterday when he was struck by the door handle of a passing automobile in front of 3306 West 16th street.

RALLIES FRENCH TO PREPARE FOR ARMED STRUGGLE

LONDON, Aug. 14 (AP).—The spirit of rebellion appeared to be on the rise today in Nazi trampled Europe despite executions and reprisals.

From Norway, Czecho-Slovakia, Holland, France, and Greece came reports of punishment for sabotage and anti-Nazi activities, while via the Moscow radio the French were advised to "prepare for armed struggle" because "the real fight is at hand." Dispatches from the soviet capital quoted Roger Garreau, "Fighting French" representative in Moscow, as making the plea to prepare for open insurrection.

The greatest tension was experienced in Holland where a midnight deadline had been set for the arrest of saboteurs who last week wrecked a Nazi military train near Rotterdam. The execution of an unannounced number of 1,600 hostages was threatened by the Nazis unless the saboteurs surrendered or their identities were disclosed.

Greater Death Toll Feared.

Dutch officials feared more victims than originally faced execution might be killed because of an attempt to blow up a Nazi operated radio station.

FRANCE—Three persons opposed to the Petain-Laval policy of collaboration were condemned to death at Clermont Ferrand.

GREECE—David Tiano, former chief clerk in the United States consulate at Salonika, shot as a hostage. American sources here said Tiano was one of 20 shot in January. He was a naturalized Greek of Spanish Jewish ancestry.

Execute 10 Czechs.

CZECHO-SLOVAKIA — Ten Czechs executed at Prague and Bruenn in two days this week.

BELGIUM — Belgian patriots reported to have attacked a German military airdrome in the Liege district, burning four planes and killing 16 Germans. Forty workers reported seized in the hunt for saboteurs who wrecked two blast furnaces in a metallurgical factory.

NORWAY — A Norwegian reported to have been executed Wednesday for having written against the Nazis and circulated the work among his friends. The Oslo radio said the Germans executed three Norwegians on Aug. 10 for providing food and clothing to two soviet marines stranded on an island.

JUGO-SLAVIA—Reuters said Italians "blasted the village of Ravnik out of the ground" because of patriot activity. Most of the males were shot or driven away to Italy, the British news agency said.

YANK SEES FIRST GERMAN PLANE; SHOOTS IT DOWN

LONDON, Aug. 14 (AP).—The first German plane they ever encountered has been shot into the sea by two Royal Canadian air force pilots, one of them from the United States.

Sergt. T. C. [Rusty] Gates of Miami, Fla., and Pilot Officer Johnny McKendy of Bathurst, N. B., said they intercepted a Dornier 217 headed toward England with a load of bombs. When they fired on the bomber it jettisoned its load and turned tail, dropping to within a few feet of the sea.

Gates and McKendy kept after the Dornier, firing until their ammunition was virtually spent. Then, they said, the bomber suddenly seemed to disintegrate and crashed into the sea.

NAZI NIGHT RAIDERS POUR THOUSANDS OF FIRE BOMBS ON BRITISH

LONDON, Aug. 15 [Saturday] (AP).—Small groups of raiders bombed the south coast of England and East Anglian towns last night and early today, dropping thousands of incendiaries. The planes broke thru heavy anti-aircraft barrages.

Soon after midnight, raiders dropped fire bombs near an East Anglian town. Fire guards in the field, which are ready for harvest, went into action against the missiles.

The guards quickly extinguished fires in corn fields. No serious damage was reported from the various incendiary attacks.

SUGGEST BRITAIN WED INDUSTRIES TO RURAL BEAUTY

Officials Urge a Better Life for Country.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 14.—A picture of rural Britain's possible future is contained in a report just completed by a committee set up by the minister of works and buildings in consultation with the minister of agriculture.

The committee, formed by Lord Reith in October, 1941, and headed by Lord Justice Scott, covered the whole field of rural construction, development and the location of industry with regard to the economic and social well being of the inhabitants, as well as preservation of the beauty of the countryside.

The committee recommends that living conditions and wages of rural workers be put on a parity with those of workers in towns, and urges a huge program of rural housing.

Electricity, the committee asserts, should be as cheap in the country as in the city, while larger villages should have a main water supply. All farms should have water piped in the house, and gas service should be extended to the country. Establishment of communal centers for social and athletic activities is recommended.

The committee declares the introduction of carefully regulated industry into the country would be beneficial, but warns against indiscriminate locating of factories.

MOVE TO INDICT SIX HELD HERE ON TREASON CHARGE

Indictments on charges of treason and violation of two other federal statutes will be sought next week before the grand jury against six men and women accused of aiding one of the Nazi U-boat spies electrocuted in Washington, United States Attorney J. Albert Woll announced yesterday.

The six suspects, held in the county jail for allegedly assisting Herbert Hans Haupt, while knowing him to be a saboteur, are his parents, Max and Erna Haupt, 2234 Fremont avenue; his uncle and aunt, Walter Wilhelm and Lucille Froehling, 3643 North Whipple street, and Otto Richard Wergin and his wife, Kate Martha, of 5416 South Wood street.

In addition to treason, Woll said he would seek indictments for misprision of treason, which carries a maximum penalty of seven years' imprisonment or a $1,000 fine or both for persons convicted of failing to reveal their knowledge of intended treason by others, and for violating the foreign agent act.

Attorney Benedict J. Short, attorney for the Haupts and Froehlings, revealed that Mrs. Haupt had learned of her son's execution, despite precautions taken in the jail to prevent the suspects from hearing of the trial. He said she took the news "calmly."

GEN. HAMMOND NAMED CHICAGO ORDNANCE CHIEF

Wins Second Promotion in Seven Months.

The promotion of Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Hammond from deputy chief to chief of the Chicago ordnance district was announced yesterday at the district office.

Gen. Hammond.

Gen. Hammond will succeed Brig. Gen. Donald Armstrong who at the end of August will become chief of the new ordnance automotive center at Detroit, with world-wide jurisdiction over production, supply and maintenance of everything on wheels in the army.

The promotion is the second advancement that Gen. Hammond has had since he resigned as president of the Whiting corporation at Harvey, last Jan. 21 to become production advisor of the ordnance district.

Served in World War.

Gen. Hammond served on the Mexican border in 1916 and was commissioned a first lieutenant. He entered the World war as an artillery captain with the Rainbow division and was a lieutenant colonel at its termination.

He was a founder and chairman of the Chicago chapter of the America First committee, leading noninterventionist organization prior to the United States entry into the war. Like a number of other leaders of the committee, he offered his services to the nation after Pearl Harbor.

The district which Gen. Hammond will direct already has let 2 billion 713 million dollars in contracts since the beginning of 1941. It has 6,022 civilian employés and 123 officers.

Shift Officers to Combat.

Details of a plan to free army men for field duty by appointing civilians to all ordnance district positions was also revealed at the press session as part of a move to decentralize and consolidate combat automotive equipment duties.

Gen. Hammond said that army and reserve officers would be shifted from ordnance to field duties gradually in accordance with policies dictated in Washington. He himself will be the first civilian to displace an army man as active head of an ordnance district.

Design, production, supply, and maintenance of army fighting and nonfighting vehicles in the future will be handled by the new Detroit ordnance center.

KUNZE BRANDED LIAR AT PASTOR'S SPY PLOT TRIAL

Ex-Bundsman Takes Stand for Defense.

Hartford, Conn., Aug. 14 (AP).—Gerhard Wilhelm Kunze, confessed spy ring member, testified today that the Rev. Kurt Molzahn had played no part in a plot to deliver American military secrets to the axis. Prosecutor Thomas J Dodd Jr., accused the one time bund leader of being a liar and a Nazi who had hated America from childhood.

Dodd, who cross-examined Kunze after he testified for the defense, also charged that Kunze was attempting to exculpate the Philadelphia Lutheran pastor "because you have been ordered to."

Kunze, who is awaiting sentence under the espionage conspiracy indictment on which Molzahn is on trial, denied the allegations and laughed at some of the charges.

Life of Lies Charged

"No, sir," Kunze replied.

Q.—You're a Nazi, aren't you? A.—I haven't had the opportunity to become one.

Q.—You want to be a Nazi, don't you? A.—In the old country, yes.

Kunze asserted he had sent his wife and child to Germany in January, 1941, because "I made up my mind that no child of mine would go thru what I did in 1917."

"You began to hate America as a child, didn't you?" Dodd shouted.

"No," replied Kunze. "I hoped to strengthen the German-American element in this country so there would not be a repetition of what happened in 1917."

Taunted by Schoolmates.

Kunze's father, a Philadelphia church organist, testified recently his son was unhappy and frequently fought with schoolmates during the World war period because they taunted him with his German name.

Dodd accused Kunze of planning, while in Mexico earlier this year, "a rendezvous with Nazi submarines that have been taking such a terrible toll of lives up and down our coast," and snorted incredulously when the witness said he intended to sail to Europe in a 26 foot boat he had ready when Mexican police arrested him late in June.

The government charges that Kunze was attempting to flee with military secrets gathered in this country when he was arrested.

Mrs. 'Teddy' Roosevelt Jr., Reaches Post in London

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 (AP).—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt Jr., recently appointed to the American Red Cross staff assigned to Britain, has arrived in London, the Red Cross announced today. She is the wife of Brig. Gen. Roosevelt.

YANKEE SOLDIER IS CONVICTED OF SLAYING BUDDY

LONDON, Aug. 14 (AP).—A United States army court martial convicted Pvt. Louis Stevens of Brooklyn of manslaughter today in the death of Pvt. Bernard Soffer, a military policeman, and sentenced him to six months hard labor. For Stevens' defense it was said he "suffered more hell than any judgment or sentence the court could impose, as he had lost his best buddy thru this accident." Witnesses testified that Stevens was cleaning his gun in his barracks when it went off and that Soffer cried out, "I have been hit."

1,402 HELP WAR CAUSE AT MUSIC FETE LUNCHEON

Then Gayety and Melody Reign as of Yore.

Grave and gay best describe the sixth annual Chicago Music Festival luncheon, which was held in the grand ballroom of the Palmer House yesterday. It attracted a throng that overflowed the ballroom into the foyer outside.

Exactly 1,402 persons were present. There would have been many more if wartime necessities had not closed the Stevens hotel, where the festivities are customarily held. Among these were musicians, music lovers, civic leaders, and visitors from many cities.

This first wartime music festival luncheon was grave in that the guests did not forget the war. The posting of the colors by the Milwaukee Kilty Girls' Drum and Trumpet corps, directed by Capt. Frank C. Hoffmann, and the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner," directed by Frank Bennett, had a deeper significance than in peacetime.

This was especially true of the invocation delivered by Chaplain Erling C. Grevstad of Fort Sheridan.

Merry Mood Follows.

But it was not long before the familiar gayety of other festival luncheons began to show itself. Nine year old Nancy Rose Zeller sang "We Did It Before and We Can Do It Again!" Ruby, Stella, Irene, and Harriet Johnson, introduced as a women's barber shop quartet, did a bit of close harmony for the guests. Then there was rollicking community singing led by Carl Craven.

There was a serious interlude as Earl Thiel, 1941 winner of the festival's male vocal contest, sang the "Eri Tu" from Verdi's "The Masked Ball." He followed it immediately with the gay little song, "Shortnin' Bread."

Laughter rippled thru the ballroom as 3 year old Polly Potteiger, daughter of the 1936 vocal contest winner, Helen Burt Potteiger, stood on a table with the poise of a great lady to be crowned festival queen by the oldest guest at the luncheon—W. P. Pierce, 86, of 6219 Kenwood avenue.

Philip Maxwell, master of ceremonies, succeeded in injecting humor into one of the luncheon's most serious episodes—the raising of money for army and navy relief. A total of $1,029.45 was raised.

Chanute Field Chorus Heard.

There was light and serious music by Melville Clark, playing the Irish harp, by Clair Omar Musser, playing the marimba and the vibraharp, and by the Wing chorus of Chanute field at Rantoul, directed by Capt. F. E. Hammond.

The mixture of seriousness and gayety persisted almost to the very end. The pianist, Rudolph Ganz, one of the guests of honor, told stories, paid tribute to American musical youth, and played two solos. The soprano, Maria Kurenko, the other guest of honor, praised the Chicago Music Festival for conducting its contests in a sportsmanlike and thoroly American manner, and sang two Russian songs. The afternoon ended with the whole throng joining in "Auld Lang Syne."

FESTIVAL TO GIVE GREATEST MUSIC PAGEANT TONIGHT

Big Spectacle Will Jam Soldiers' Field.

entations will be the great Festival Imperial Marimba orchestra, which, under the direction of Omar Clair Musser, will offer a unique spectacle.

Hammers to Crash.

In its fourth and climactic number, "The Anvil Chorus" from Verdi's "Il Trovatore," the massed orchestra of 160 massive marimbas will be accompanied by the crash of six foot sledge hammers upon 10 eight foot anvils, believed to be the largest ever constructed. Bursts of electric fire will mark the beats, which symbolize America's war industry.

On each marimba will be an electric device into which have been set a fragment of the famous Biela comet of 1774 and dust from three celebrated meteorites. As the music changes tempo and expression, these fragments will send out showers of dazzling star dust that will light up the arena.

On the field, just before the great fireworks finale, one of America's spectacular weapons of war, the flame thrower, will be demonstrated by men of the United States army.

Just Like Battle Maneuver.

Sheets of flame will shoot more than 75 feet thru the air, just as when directed against Japanese and German tanks on the battlefield. In the blackout of the field, this demonstration will be one of the most startling of the evening.

The fireworks exhibition, with its patriotic set pieces showing the aircraft carrier Lexington's planes sinking Jap carriers, the battlements at Corregidor, and two famous TRIBUNE cartoons, will be the most elaborate ever seen at a music festival. As a closing salute, the heavens will be filled with bursting bombs and colored fire.

In addition to these four great spectacles, the massed bands and choruses, the magnificent dance pageant, the vocal contests and accordion and plectrophonic orchestras all will be there as in other years.

FUGITIVE'S WIFE FIGHTS WITH INK AT ARRAIGNMENT

Mrs. Mary Morbette, 30 years old, wife of a fugitive sought since May 29, 1941, became hysterical before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker yesterday when she and three other persons were arraigned on charges of harboring a fugitive.

She attempted to throw a half pint ink well at a photographer. Five deputy marshals quieted her, altho two of them had their light suits splattered with ink.

Mrs. Morbette was accused of shielding her husband, Tony, 39 years old. He had disappeared when his appeal on a six year prison sentence for violation of the alcohol tax laws was denied by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. She was held in $1,000 bond for a hearing Aug. 28, as were Morbette's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. August Burda, who were seized with her in their home at 1309 Haddon avenue. A bond of $2,500 was set for Miss Jeannette Leszczak, who was arrested after Morbette was seized yesterday in her apartment at 1544 Clybourn avenue.

United States Marshal William H. McDonnell said Morbette would be arraigned next week on six indictments charging him with violation of alcohol and narcotics laws.

AUTO TOPS TRAIN ON RAILS: HAS ITS OWN TURNTABLE

A new railcar which carries its own turntable was demonstrated yesterday by the Illinois Central railroad to a group inspecting the road's freight facilities in the Chicago area.

The railcar is a converted seven passenger automobile equipped with flanged wheels. It is used by Joseph T. Stanford, Chicago terminal manager for the Illinois Central, to get to various parts of the terminal area in a hurry.

The turntable, carried as permanent equipment beneath the frame of the car, makes it possible to turn the vehicle around in a hurry.

Altho the car is handled in about the same way as an automobile, it carries some of the equipment of its big brother steam locomotives. It has a bell and a cow catcher and it has the standard signal equipment used for regular trains. Besides the bell it has a siren horn.

MINNESOTA FLYER DROWNS.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 14 (AP).—The accidental drowning in Canada of Leading Aircraftman Otto William Johnson, son of Mrs. J. G. Johnson of Detroit Lakes, Minn., was among casualties reported tonight by the Royal Canadian air force.

OUSTED TEACHER ASKS COURT TO REVIEW HEARING

A writ for a bill of review was filed in Circuit court yesterday by Attorney Maximillian St. George for Mrs. Rose K. Joyce, Chicago teacher dismissed by the board of education June 25 for allegedly making seditious statements to her class.

The petition asked the court to review the trial, presided over by School Board President James B. McCahey, that led to her dismissal, and requested she be restored to her position as a teacher of history in the high schools.

Mrs. Joyce was accused of saying: "We got what was coming to us," and, "We were unfair to Japan," to her class in the Hyde Park High school last Dec. 8. She denied the charges.

In the petition Mrs. Joyce attacked the status of several board members, charging they could not under the law hold board positions as they are otherwise engaged in city, state, or government positions.

Dr. John A. Lapp of the Chicago Civil Liberties committee said he was "astounded at the dismissal." Mrs. Joyce said her husband, Thomas, may soon enter the army.

Skilled Workers Wanted for Panama Canal Jobs

Skilled and semiskilled workers of many classifications still are needed for wartime work in the Panama Canal zone, J. A. Connor, acting manager of the 7th United States civil service district, said yesterday. He urged qualified men to file applications with his office immediately.

Stilwell's Aide Awarded Medal for Burma Action

NEW DELHI, India, Aug. 13 [Delayed]—(AP).—Lieut. Col. Frank Dorn of San Francisco, aide to Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, was awarded the silver star today for gallantry in action in Burma last April. The citation said that on April 23 during an attack by the Chinese 200th division on Japanese positions at Taunggyi, Dorn "voluntarily exposed himself to great danger in front lines which were under severe enemy fire."

32 NAVAL CADETS SWORN IN DAY TO SET NEW RECORD

The naval aviation cadet board, in the Board of Trade building, announced 32 men were sworn in as air cadets Thursday to establish a new record for Chicago's "Fly for Navy" recruiting drive, started this month. This brought the number of enlistments for August to 209, with many additional applicants in the process of examination.

A highlight of the "Fly for Navy" drive will take place in Soldiers' field tonight, when 200 cadets will be inducted as a part of the 13th annual Chicago Music festival, sponsored by THE TRIBUNE.

The 9th naval district office announced organizations of Great Lakes yachtsmen today will send out letters to their members telling of a new navy recruiting program, under which officers selected will be "earmarked" for local defense work in coastal waters. They will be assigned to small craft patroling the coasts for submarines. A number of leading yachtsmen are participating in the drive.

Turkey Names Veteran Diplomat Foreign Minister

ANKARA, Aug. 13 [Delayed]—(AP).—Numan Menemenioglu, former minister of justice, was appointed foreign minister of Turkey today, succeeding Sukru Saracoglu, who now is premier. The 50 year old Menemenioglu is a veteran of 30 years in the foreign office.

32 MICROPHONES TO COVER MUSIC FETE FOR W-G-N

In presenting the 13th annual Chicago Music Festival to millions of radio listeners thruout the nation tonight, W-G-N and the Mutual network will face one of the most difficult and intricate broadcasting tasks ever undertaken.

To capture the broad and sweeping scope of the performance 32 microphones, strategically placed thruout Soldiers' field, will be used.

Manning the microphones and the control boards will be crews of technical experts and radio engineers under the direction of Lou Jackobson, W-G-N producer.

W-G-N will broadcast the full two hour performance, from 8 to 10 p. m., while the first hour of the program will be heard coast to coast over the Mutual network.

Jack Brickhouse will be the commentator for the W-G-N and Mutual audience, and the background for the various acts will be explained to listeners by Philip Maxwell, festival director. Army camps and naval stations thruout the world will hear this great broadcast from America's middle west.

Navy's Public Relations Chief to Speak in Chicago

Capt. Leland P. Lovette, director of the office of public relations for the navy, will speak in Chicago next Friday at a luncheon of the Chicago Association of Commerce in the La Salle hotel.

War Heroes' Relatives to Be Honored at Fete.

There will be nearly 60 of them in all, in a special section in Soldiers' field tonight as the honored guests of the 13th annual Chicago Music Festival. And they will be the most revered and cherished of all the honor guests who have been brought to the festivals since the first one in 1930.

They are the mothers, the wives, the fathers, and the families of America's heroes of World War II. Some of them, like Mrs. Ella Dreesbach and her husband, Arthur W. Dreesbach, live in homes where a golden service star hangs in the window.

They Remember Pearl Harbor.

Two years ago Herbert A. Dreesbach was 22 years old; a happy young fellow learning his trade as a machinist. On Oct. 8, 1940, he enlisted in the United States marines. On Dec. 7, 1941, he was killed by the rain of Jap bombs that struck the battleship Arizona at Pearl Harbor. He was among the first Chicagoans to be reported lost in the treacherous Sunday morning raid.

Others to be honored have sons, fathers, or brothers missing in action, wounded, or still serving on many fronts.

17 Families Represented.

Among the 60 there are 17 families represented. Those in whose names the invitations were issued are: Mrs. C. L. Hildebrandt, 6946 Oakdale avenue; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Fischer, 4840 North Winchester avenue; Mrs. Gertrude Schnitzius, 471 Addison avenue, Elmhurst; Mrs. George E. Reed, 7638 South Laflin street; Mrs. Clarence Hill, 307 Elm avenue; Mrs. Walter E. Morris, Dwight, Ill., and Mrs. E. G. Greenman, New Lenox, Ill.

Also Mrs. Dorothy N. Ditt, 1900 Fremont street; Agnes Jordan, 2038 Cullom avenue; Mrs. H. G. Gansz, 5831 Winthrop avenue; Walter Eatherington, 2918 Elisha avenue, Zion, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Witt, 3735 Bosworth avenue; Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Siljestrom, 266 North St. Johns avenue, Highland Park; R. E. Bonsen, United States Naval hospital, Great Lakes; Mrs. John Rotter, 3521 North Kilpatrick avenue; Mrs. Laura Klein, 833 Roscoe street, and Mr. and Mrs. Dreesbach and their two surviving children.

Guards at Inland Plant Under Army Supervision

Guarding of Inland Steel company's Indiana Harbor plant was placed under army supervision yesterday when more than 100 guards of the plant were inducted into the civilian auxiliary of the military police in a ceremony conducted by Maj. Arthur G. Coulson of the Chicago Ordnance district. The guards were charged with the protection of war materials, war premises, and war utilities in a ceremony similar to those which have taken place at other plants in the Chicago area.

It couldn't be as good as she would fix..... and she'd be just a little proud of that.

But she'd be free of oven heat and kitchen tasks and pots and pans and dishes to be washed..... and free of marketing and planning Sunday's feast..... and she'd be glad of that.

And we promise that it would be good..... better than most..... and served generously and quietly..... and you'd both be glad of that.....

FIGHTER WHITE LOSES DECISION; IS KNOCKED BACK TO ALIMONY ROW

Charley White.

Charley White, 51 years old, who failed to become lightweight champion of the world because he lost too many decisions, lost another in Judge John P. McGoorty's Superior court yesterday when he caught a six months' sentence to alimony row right on the button.

The court sentenced Charley for being $400 in arrears in his alimony to his wife, Stella, of 925 Forest avenue, Evanston, and their two daughters. It was his second such sentence. Once, back in 1934, when his wife's suit, charging cruelty, was pending, he was sent to alimony row for several days for being $360 behind, but he got out in a few days and was able to maintain his freedom.

HOME CANNING USES 2 MILLION POUNDS OF SUGAR

Chicago area housewives used more than two million pounds of sugar in canning and preserving in the last three months, Michael F. Mulcahy, metropolitan area Office of Price administration director, reported yesterday. For canning, housewives are permitted one pound of sugar for each four pounds of canned fruit and one additional pound a year for each member of their families.

Sugar applications and allotments for home canning were:

	May.	June.	July.
Applications approved	4,532	64,676	68,432
Sugar issued [pounds]	94,114	1,025,328	1,128,749

The peak canning months are July and August.

TANNED FARMER FROM IOWA WINS TENOR CONTEST

A sunburned Iowa farmer, who was taught to sing by his father in the parlor of their farm home, made 500 listeners crowded into the grand ballroom of the Drake hotel last night forget his calloused hands and work bowed shoulders as he sang his way into the finals of the outside of Cook county division of the Chicago Music Festival vocal contests. He is Evan Davies, 29 years old, who placed first in the dramatic tenor division. He farms 500 acres near Castana, Ia.

Ninety-nine contestants from 15 states took part in the preliminaries last night. Winners will compete at 8:30 a. m. today in the Drake hotel for a chance to appear at the Chicago Music Festival in Soldiers' field tonight.

Father a Music Graduate.

Davies, who said he sings as an interesting hobby but would take it up professionally if he "got a break," learned to sing from his father, who is a graduate of the Chicago Musical college. He studied later in Chicago and New York, sang in the Chicago Music Festival in 1935, and has been active in Iowa rural operas.

Robert Fitzgerald of Highland Park was second to Davies in the dramatic tenor classification, and Anthony A. Zellowick of Elmhurst was third.

Arizonan Wins Bass Contest.

Winner of the bass classification was Aram Philibosian, 22, of Tucson, Ariz., where he studied under Rollin Pease, formerly of Chicago. Philibosian came to Chicago three months ago, determined to compete in the music festival. Second place in the bass classification was won by Jack Koska of Lake Forest.

Mrs. Marion Cole Pruessing, a Milwaukee housewife, won the lyric soprano division over Virginia May Vincer of Rockford, who was second, and Charlotte Alsover of Rockford, third. Mrs. Pruessing, wife of a Milwaukee grocery clerk, studied at Northwestern university, and the Chicago Musical college and now sings in the St. James Episcopal church in Milwaukee.

Milwaukee Coloratura Wins.

The coloratura soprano winner was Miss Marianna Kaap, 19, an apprentice with the Port players, a stock company, in Milwaukee. Miss Kaap, a tall, blue-eyed blonde, credited much of her singing ability to high school operetta work and some Chicago study. She has been guest soloist in the Temple of Music in Milwaukee and has been singing on radio programs this summer.

Elizabeth Ann Smith of Bessemer, Ala., was second to Miss Kaap, and Marian Leissring of Butler, Wis., was third.

Russ Alvaro, 23, of New York City won the bass-baritone contest over A. E. Fredenberg of Clintonville, Wis., and Dwight Merrill Johnson of Joliet. Alvaro, a former Chicagoan who went to New York eight months ago to work as an apprentice tailor with an uncle there, studied at De Paul university and the American Conservatory of Music.

Mezzo Winner Is Major's Wife.

Mrs. Helen Richards of Naperville, wife of an army air major and mother of two children, won the mezzo-soprano honors. She has sung over the radio and once won a national radio singing contest. She loves to sing, she said, but she is busy caring for a son, 6, and a daughter, 3, and a 28 acre farm. Second and third places in the mezzo-soprano class went to Shirley Belle Pitts, Waukegan, and Pacholski Angel, Milwaukee.

The contralto victory went to Miss Marion Roecker, 22, of Milwaukee. Esther Grossman, Milwaukee, was second, and Hazel Fisher Turner, Roselle, Ill., was third. Miss Roecker, a student at Milwaukee State Teachers' college, hopes to enter opera.

Dramatic Soprano Winners.

Gertrude E. Bartelt, Milwaukee, won in the dramatic soprano division over Mary Manning Konecczny, Detroit, Mich., and Phyllis Braid, Rockford, who were second and third, respectively. Miss Bartelt is 19, and said her victory "surprised and thrilled" her.

Baritone honors went to Warren G. Schmoll, 22, of Plymouth, Wis., over Joseph P. Di Frances, Shorewood, Wis., second, and Gerald Greenlee, Kankakee, third. Schmoll will become a senior in Oberlin college next month. He has been studying singing and a pre-law course. His victory has determined him to make singing and not law his career, he said.

Milwaukee Lyric Tenor Wins.

Edward Reichert, 26, of Milwaukee topped the lyric tenor class, followed, respectively, by Nino Mancuso, Milwaukee, and John F. Haver, Indianapolis, Ind. Reichert hopes to be a concert singer. He has studied voice three years and has sung with the Milwaukee Grand Opera company.

Judges of the out of Cook county preliminaries were Lola Fletcher, Mrs. Ernest Kruetgen, and Richard De Young. States represented by the 99 contestants were Illinois, Arizona, Wisconsin, Iowa, Michigan, Ohio, Texas, Indiana, Louisiana, Minnesota, Alabama, New York, Kansas, Missouri, and Virginia.

The Inquiring Camera Girl — BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Mrs. Dell Rogers, 5942 South Justine street.]

THE QUESTION.

Did you ever offer an excuse for tardiness or absence that didn't sound genuine?

WHERE ASKED.

The Chicago building, 7 West Madison street.

THE ANSWERS.

Louis M. Piaskowy, clerk, 2600 West 24th place—The first time I had to call up my boss and tell him I overslept because my alarm didn't go off I felt very foolish. The same thing has happened several times now and the excuse has lost its punch. The last time I used it he gave me a sideways glance.

Ralph Beauchamp, student, 1416 North Linder avenue—On the afternoon of a big out of town football game most every one was skipping school to go to the game. I asked to be excused to visit my aunt who was sick in the hospital. The teacher called it the best excuse of the day, but it was genuine.

Evelyn Webb, student, 238 North Latrobe avenue—My parents had given me instructions to be home by 11 that night. When I arrived 2 hours late I knew my excuse sounded flimsy and I was almost tempted to make up a better one. I had to tell them that when we went riding we lost our way.

Tony Caroselli, baker, 640 North Troy street—When I was working on the night shift I had to be there very early in the morning. After I started driving I ran out of gasoline and was stalled a long distance from a gas station that was closed anyway. I had to call the office and offer that for an excuse.

Betty Lans, student, 1242 Argyle street—The other day I was 15 minutes late for my first class at school. It wasn't a very convincing excuse when I had to tell the teacher that I took the nonstop bus to town and couldn't get off. I've always lived here, so I should have known better.

Audrey Thomas, stenographer, 5348 South Christiana avenue — There's nothing I hate to do worse than break a date, especially with the bashful type. That was my misfortune with the last one. I called him and said I had a headache. He hasn't called me since. I'm afraid he thought it was just an easy way out for me.

STATE'S LIQUOR BOARD SUMMONS 34 FROM PEORIA

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 14 [Special].—Subpenas for 34 Peorians, including Mayor E. N. Woodruff and Police Chief Edward Wombacher, ordering their appearance next Friday before the liquor control commission in an investigation of gambling here, were brought to Peoria tonight by William Buchanan, supervisor of the commission's office in Springfield.

The subpenas were issued on the order of Commission Chairman Arthur S. Smith on the basis of charges made before the commission last week by Mrs. Helen Lee Lichtweis and Mrs. Susie M. Warren, that wide open gambling is flourishing in Peoria taverns.

Buchanan, who is also a Peoria alderman and one of those subpenaed, said he would confer tomorrow with Smith about Mrs. Lichtweis' request for 22 additional subpenas and a request by the other side that certain persons be called in their behalf.

Free Engineering Courses to Be Offered in 48 Cities

Free night courses in engineering skills and supervising practices will be offered in 48 Illinois cities, starting next month, as part of the plan to train more workers to expand the state's war industries. Last year the courses were given in 29 cities. According to H. C. Rountree, supervisor of the engineering section of the division of university extension, University of Illinois, applicants should have high school education or its equivalent.

KEN BAKER GOES ALL OUT ON IOWA WAR FARM FRONT

Devotes 12,500 Acres to Bumper Crops.

BY GAIL COMPTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Wapello, Ia., Aug. 14.—When Kenneth Baker, local hotel operator, takes you out to look over his farm you start at 5 o'clock in the morning. When you return in the late evening you have covered 165 miles by car, 12 miles on horseback, and 12,500 acres.

Strung out along the juncture of the Iowa and Mississippi rivers, the farm includes thousands of acres of unbelievably fertile bottom land—land that enables Baker to speak casually of 90 bushels of corn to the acre.

The war department is actively interested in the farm for it has leased 6,500 acres to Baker in its drive to produce bumper crops for the job of feeding this nation and its allies.

Expect Big Yields.

This year the farm will produce a minimum of 55,000 bushels of corn from the 1,000 acres devoted to that crop. The 800 acres that were planted to small grains have yielded 15,000 bushels of oats and 5,000 bushels of wheat. There are 1,500 acres in soy beans to be harvested this fall that Baker expects will yield from 20 to 25 bushels to the acre.

Every farm yard on the huge tract is swarming with live stock. There are more than 300 sows raising big families. The farm will market around 250,000 pounds of pork alone this year.

Aside from hogs and poultry there are 500 beef cows and calves grazing on the hundreds of acres of pasture. Baker expects the farm to market approximately $150,000 worth of live stock this year.

Has Three Foremen.

The farm is split into three sections, each run by a foreman directly under Baker's supervision. From 25 to 30 men are employed the year around, and now, during the harvest season there are more than 60 workers in the fields each day.

To handle the work there are 10 tractors, five combines, one threshing machine, two corn pickers, two baling machines, and 80 head of horses. The draft horses are bred, raised, and trained on the farm as are a large number of saddle horses.

Altho the levee along the Mississippi protects much of the land from inundation each year, two pumps are kept working constantly to keep it dry.

Baker started his collection of land during the depression days of 1930. Starting with the family "40," he began to buy up bankrupt farms in the county. Then he interested several others in the project, and with their combined capital expanded the farm to its present size. The farm has made good money every year.

Carries Office in Head.

To supervise the planting and harvesting on such a tremendous scale requires a great deal of work. Yet Baker carries his plans in his head, knowing each field and its possibilities accurately. He has done considerable experimental work, and always welcomes a new crop or way of farming.

To demonstrate the tremendous productivity of the rich bottom land, he has kept one field in corn for 27 years straight. The field still is producing 40 bushels to the acre. On another plot he planted corn only two and a half weeks ago in the belief the ground would mature the corn before frost came. The newly planted corn now is over waist high.

SHIPS LEAVE U. S. WITH GOODS FOR VICHY COLONIES

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 (AP).—The Office of War Information announced tonight that two French merchant vessels had been permitted to sail for Vichy-governed North Africa carrying American goods said to be in "great need" there.

The ships left the United States on Aug. 9. In exchange, two vessels sailed from Casablanca on Aug. 11 with goods destined for this country. Included were cork and olive oil—both scarce here—tartar and other North African products.

American consular agents in Morocco, Algiers, and Tunisia will supervise the distribution of the "non-military, consumer goods" shipped from here to see that they are used by the local populations and are not reshipped to other countries, OWI stated.

The Ile de Noirmoutiers and the Ile de Cusessant carried a mixed cargo to North Africa, made up of brown sugar, copper sulphate, cotton cloth and thread, condensed milk, leaf tobacco, tea, fuel, etc. Five thousand tons of coal and 1,200 tons of kerosene for lighting and heating were aboard the Ile de Cusessant.

ONCE A DAY MAIL DELIVERY, FEWER PICKUPS IN SIGHT

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 (AP).—Once a day home delivery of mail and fewer collections from corner boxes are in prospect in many cities, postoffice officials said today, because of approaching shortages in personnel, tires, and trucks.

Officials said the changes could be ordered locally by postmasters to meet individual situations. Adequate mail service would be maintained, however, they added.

Generally there now are two home deliveries daily and in many cities there are three deliveries in the business sections. These will be reduced to one and two, respectively, as the need arises. Trucks now make as many as nine collections a day from mail boxes. Collections must be reduced because the postoffice department is unable to buy trucks.

NEGRO SOLDIER SHOT; 2 POLICE FACE U. S. CHARGE

Attacked in Texas After Row Over Bus Seat.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 (AP).—Attorney General Francis Biddle announced today the government had initiated federal court action against two Beaumont, Tex., policemen for violating the civil rights of a Negro soldier.

Biddle said he had ordered an information filed in federal court in Houston against the two, Clyde Brown and Bill Brown, for allegedly mistreating Pvt. Charles J. Reco July 28 after Reco had been ordered off a bus for taking a seat reserved for white passengers.

Reco was beaten when he alighted from the bus and was shot twice while being taken to police headquarters, Biddle said in a statement made public by the Office of War Information.

Federal Charges Scheduled.

The defendants will be taken into custody as soon as practicable, Biddle said, and will be charged with violating the civil code which provides that no citizen shall be deprived of his civil rights "under the color of state laws." Biddle said he had acted upon the request of the war department.

The offense is a federal misdemeanor, and as such may be brought directly into court thru filing of an information, without recourse to grand jury proceedings.

Maximum penalties upon conviction are one year's imprisonment or a fine of $1,000, or both.

Slugging and Shooting Described.

The justice department's statement gave this account of the incident:

"The information charges that Reco was ordered off a Beaumont bus because he had taken a vacant seat in a section reserved for white passengers; that after he had alighted from the bus one of the defendant police officers struck him several times with a nightstick and forced him into the back seat of a police car; that during the trip to police headquarters one of the officers shot him once thru the shoulder and once thru the arm.

"Reports to the department of justice indicate Reco had caused no disturbance on the bus and that he had not resisted the police officers until after he had been struck several times."

Chief Backs Police.

In Beaumont, Ross Dickey, police chief, said at the time of the arrest that he would stand back of his officers. He had nothing to add today, and the two policemen were not available to comment.

"I am not going to have my men beaten or cut up as they have been in the past," Dickey said during an investigation of the incident.

J. W. Kirl, the bus driver, said Reco cursed him and drew a knife when he stopped the bus and ordered him to change seats. Kirl said he reported the incident to police after Reco left the bus. At the time of the incident police said Reco resisted arrest and that it required four policemen to take him to the station. A state charge of using abusive language is on file against him.

3 MORE VESSELS SENT TO BOTTOM IN U. S. WATERS

87 Rescued; Ship Toll Rises to 425.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The rescue of 87 seamen from three torpedoed merchantmen attacked by 425 enemy submarines in western Atlantic waters was disclosed in dispatches from Recife, Brazil, yesterday.

The latest victims of undersea raiders—the 4,694 ton British freighter Treminnard, the 6,221 ton British tanker Tricula, and the 6,161 ton Norwegian tanker Havsten—raised the Associated Press count of announced allied and neutral ship losses in the western Atlantic to 425 craft since Dec. 7. These attacks have cost the lives of 2,374, with 1,656 missing and 13,025 rescued.

Rescued by Argentine Ships.

Two Argentine ships made the rescues. The motorship Rio San Juan picked up 57 crew members of the British vessels, and the tanker Juncal arrived at Recife with 30 survivors from the Norwegian cargo carrier.

The dispatch did not make clear whether the ships had been sunk by submarines or by an axis surface raider which has been reported in the South Atlantic. Warships and planes were reported to be on the hunt for the raider after two vessels radioed they had been attacked 1,000 miles east of Rio de Janeiro.

Sinking of a Brazilian tanker by a Nazi submarine operating in the Caribbean was disclosed in reports from that area yesterday, but this loss of neutral Brazil's 12th merchantman since America's entry into the war was withheld from the tabulation pending further details of the attack.

Two Americans Saved.

Also being withheld from the Atlantic ship loss compilation pending additional details was the torpedoing of a vessel in the South American area whose 24 survivors included two members of the United States field service. The Americans, C. A. Chapman of Barrytown, N. Y., and Winslow Martin of Providence, R. I., spent several days in a lifeboat with 22 others before being rescued and brought to Georgetown, British Guiana, reports from that city announced.

ORDER AXIS ASSETS SEIZED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 14.—President Fulgencio Batista tonight ordered the confiscation of property and assets belonging to German, Italian, and Japanese citizens here in quantities sufficient to indemnify the victims of the recent torpedoing of two Cuban merchantmen somewhere on the Gulf of Mexico.

The full cost of the steamers Manzanillo and Santiago de Cuba, plus a sum for damages, will be paid to the Compania de Navegacion Cubana, owners of the 4,750 gross ton vessels, and $10,000 cash will be paid to the nearest relative of each of the score or more officers and sailors who lost their lives in the sinkings or who disappeared and today were given up as definitely lost at sea.

TELL HOW 'WOLF PACK' OF U-BOATS RAIDED CONVOY

LONDON, Aug. 14 (AP).—Allied seamen arriving at a British port today reported a submarine "wolf pack" repeatedly attacked a large convoy returning from a Russian port.

The men, whose ship was sunk and who were rescued by escorting naval vessels, said the submarines attacked three times and dogged the convoy constantly.

The convoy was bound to Britain after delivering goods to Russia when the submarines picked up the trail, the survivors said. The first attack was by daylight, and other attacks came two days later, they said, but depth charges and guns replied to every enemy thrust. Nine Greek sailors were among the few casualties.

CHICAGO SAILOR'S SAGA OF 32 DAYS ON A LIFE RAFT

Merchant Cadet Tells Privations.

Thirty-two days of thirst, hunger, and horror aboard a lifeboat and life rafts in Atlantic waters were described yesterday by Nathan Kaplan, 6727 East End avenue, one of 47 survivors of the sinking of an American merchantman by a Nazi submarine last June 27.

Nathan Kaplan.

Kaplan, who lost 35 of his 180 pounds during the ordeal, is spending a short time in Chicago, gaining a pound and a half a day, and awaiting return to New York to ship out again. Despite his experience, Kaplan said he will be glad to get back aboard ship.

The Chicagoan, 21 years old, and a cadet in the merchant marine, said 6 of the 55 officers and men aboard his ship were killed as the submarine sent two torpedoes into her port side.

Ship, Planes Overlook Them.

Two of the men who escaped from the sinking ship died before reaching land. One husky crewman was bitten by a shark as he washed out a cup in the ocean, and died 10 days later. Another, a 65 year old Negro baker, died just as civilization came into view.

Given their bearings by the sub commander, who spoke excellent English, the survivors tied their lifeboat and three rafts together and set sail for land. One by one the rafts were lost, and their occupants taken into the lifeboat.

The 18th day all food was gone, and on the 28th day their water was exhausted. Crewmen had received only a few ounces of water a day, getting much of this from sails during rainstorms. A number of planes and one steamer were sighted, but traveled on without noticing the lifeboat.

The survivors, confident in the ability of their skipper, Capt. Jack Lapoint, were in good spirits much of the time. They sang Negro spirituals and cowboy songs, and swam in the ocean twice daily to refresh themselves, risking attacks by sharks.

Find Wild Grapes.

On the 32d day the sailors landed on an uninhabited island, found water and such food as beach grapes and cactus pears. After sailing to a third island, and getting their first civilized food, they were picked up by the yacht of Miss Betty Carstairs, English speedboat enthusiast, as they were en route to Nassau in a schooner.

Three armed robbers who invaded a grocery at 1823 West 19th street yesterday took $300 from Joseph Battaglia, 2659 South Hamlin avenue, a fruit merchant making a delivery in the store.

HURDY-GURDY IS MUTE TODAY; ROSIE'S DEAD!

Neighbors Mourn with Joe at a Tiny Bier.

BY ORVILLE DWYER.

Joe Puma, 53 years old, is an organ grinder. He lives in three bare rooms at 1056 West 11th street, a flat that seemed particularly melancholy and cold last night despite the presence of kindly neighbors.

For Rosie, Joe's small monkey, his pet and for the last six years his associate in business, was dead. Her body lay in a diminutive flower draped coffin in the corner.

Joe sat silently near the little white casket, sometimes dashing the back of a fist across an eye. To friends he explained the gesture by saying he was still ill. He and Rosie, he said, became ill about two weeks ago. And Rosie died yesterday.

Children Weep at Bier.

A steady stream of men and women passed thru the second floor rooms. Children were tearful as they looked at Rosie, who had chattered odd monkey talk at them every day.

Joe had dressed her in the red jacket and hat she always wore when they went out on the street with the hurdy-gurdy. All around the box were softly burning candles — the only lights in the room. Inside the casket and on it the people had scattered flowers from the garden patches of the neighborhood.

She Was a Friend to All.

The neighbors and the children told each other how smart Rosie was—how she smoked a pipe with real tobacco, how she shook hands and "talked" with everybody. Joe's eyes would brighten when he heard that talk.

Joe said he first thought of giving Rosie a real funeral, such as people have, but decided against it. He added that sometime during the night, when all the children were in bed, a friend with an automobile would come for him. Then he would place Rosie's casket in the car and they would drive far out into the countryside, and there take leave of Rosie.

DIES OF KNIFE WOUNDS.

Knife wounds suffered in a fight at Clark street and Grand avenue early yesterday were fatal to Waler Midol, 40 years old, 2330 North Avers avenue, a maintenance worker.

200,000 in 20-44 Draft Class Still to Be Classified

It will be three to eight weeks, and in some cases longer, before Illinois selective service boards complete classification of all men between 20 and 44 years old, Paul G. Armstrong, state selective service director, said yesterday. He estimated considerably more than 200,000 remain to be classified in Chicago alone.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

J. W. H. Jr. asks: "Isn't a commissioned officer eligible to apply for the government life insurance?"

ANSWER: All men in the armed forces, including commissioned officers, are eligible to apply.

C. M. writes: "I am in the coast guards and own a 20 foot high speed runabout that I used in commuting on the lake. If I turned it over to the government for inland patrol, could I be assigned to this patrol duty with my own boat? Whom would I see?"

ANSWER: Speed boats for the use you mention must be of a minimum of 30 feet in length and really be fast. If you wish to transfer to the coast or inland patrol, you should discuss the matter with your commanding officer.

L. B. writes: "I am a machinist in the employ of a large railroad and I know I will ultimately be called for armed service sometime and I want to enlist. But my fellow workers and my foreman tell me that I must wait until I'm drafted or I'll lose my seniority and not get my job back after the war. That isn't right, is it? Why should they draft a man and yet prevent him from enlisting?"

ANSWER: Only if you are drafted will you be assured of retaining your seniority and job after the war is over. If you are drafted, you will have the same chance for service in the branch in which you are best qualified to serve as you would if you enlisted.

O. P. Z. writes: "I am a graduate civil and mining engineer with 10 years' experience in government service. I am 36, married, excellent health; my vision is 20/100, correctible to 20/20 with glasses. I can't seem to find out how to get along. I am 3A and have a high order number, but I want to put my training and experience to use now. What can I do?"

ANSWER: You certainly are excellent officer material. You should seek an interview with the District Office for Officer Procurement [formerly Office of Personnel Placement], United States courthouse, Chicago, Detroit, Omaha, etc., whichever city is nearest to you.

H. P. asks: "Is it possible for a regular seaman in the navy to get into the navy air corps? If so, how?"

ANSWER: If you are qualified and meet the physical, educational, and other requirements, talk with your commanding officer.

A. D. writes: "Friends tell me that such services as coast guard, Illinois reserve militia, National Guards, etc., would probably not see foreign service. Is this true?"

ANSWER: The coast guard, of course, always is a part of the nation's regular armed forces and subject to duty wherever needed during a national emergency or while the nation is at war. The National Guard was federalized with the declaration of war. The Illinois reserve militia [successor to the National Guard] is a state organization, but the individual members are subject to regular military service when they are called in selective service or by the army unless they are deferred for physical reasons or because of dependencies.

Our Liberty Depends Upon the Freedom of the Press, and That Cannot Be Limited Without Being Lost.---Thomas Jefferson.

OUR SUPERIOR STRATEGY.

The news of the fighting in the Solomon Islands is most encouraging. It appears that the marines who forced the landings have pushed ahead and are now being reënforced. At the same time, very considerable damage has been done to Japanese naval and transport units which were on their way to strengthen the defenders.

It is evident that the campaign was planned with great skill. The military problem was a difficult one, requiring a landing on strongly defended shore positions and an advance over difficult terrain, but we had a strategical advantage the value of which is not likely to be exaggerated. Our attacking force, directed by the New Zealand command, approached the battle presumably from the southeast and its line of communications was at no point threatened by hostile bases. We could expect clear sailing all the way; there was little likelihood that enemy forces would be encountered until we were almost at the goal. Moreover, we could bring up supporting troops and supplies at comparatively slight risk, and we had an advanced base at New Caledonia to aid us.

The Japanese position was far less favorable. Their line of communication to the Solomon Islands was subject to attack by Gen. MacArthur's planes based in Australia and on the southern coast of New Guinea. The enemy's bases at Rabaul in New Britain and at Salamaua and Lae in New Guinea were likewise exposed.

We appear now to be reaping the benefit of sound planning. Our reënforcements are reported as having arrived. At the same time the Japanese effort to bring up troops and supplies has been considerably hampered. There are well authenticated reports of heavy damage to Japanese vessels moving toward the Solomons.

We do not know, of course, what strength is possessed by either side within easy steaming range of the scene of battle, but if it be assumed that there was no great advantage on either side at the start of the engagement, the conclusion seems warranted that we have found it possible to increase our striking force far more rapidly than the defenders have been or can be strengthened. Our support could move up freely while theirs was under attack from the flank over most of its course.

The plan was a sound one, reflecting great credit upon the officers responsible for it. Their skill in this offensive warrants the hope that before long they will succeed in driving the Japanese from the approaches to Australia and thus free the forces there for further offensive operations against the enemy.

We are going back to Bataan. We are going on from Bataan to attack Japan and knock her out of the war. The campaign for the Solomon Islands shows that we have what it takes in fighting men and the capacity to plan.

MR. ICKES SOUNDS OFF.

The secretary of the interior, Harold Ickes, has expressed his opinion that THE TRIBUNE has given aid and comfort to the enemy and is continuing to do so.

Mr. Ickes was never able to earn his living as a lawyer, but he knows enough law to be aware of the gross impropriety of his statement. He knows the grand jury is in session investigating a charge made against two employés of this newspaper. He knows, also, that THE TRIBUNE did not give aid and comfort to the enemy in any sense and particularly in the sense which those words have in the law. The conclusion is inescapable that Mr. Ickes is doing his little best to create an atmosphere of prejudice and ill-will.

Mr. Ickes is a member of the cabinet. He is in the inner counsel of the administration. He and some of his colleagues hate THE TRIBUNE because they have been unable to control it. Mr. Ickes' statement may be regarded as an index to the frame of mind in which this investigation was ordered.

Mr. Ickes was characteristically mealy-mouthed when he said that he was expressing only his own opinion. His remarks were not made in private conversation. They were uttered in his office, the office of a cabinet member, and they were uttered for purposes of publication on a question of public interest. It cannot be doubted that they were intended to create prejudice rather than promote an open-minded inquiry. It's all right with us to have that in the record.

GOONDAISM.

An Associated Press dispatch from India states that goondaism is spreading in the wake of the arrest of Gandhi and his Congress party followers. Goondaism is defined as rowdyism and is apparently a variant of the word "goon" that has crowded into the vocabulary applying to tactics of American labor unions.

It was thought all along that "goon" originated in this enlightened land thru a comic strip character—a fearsome and bumbling monstrosity of great brawn and no brain. The designation was first picked up as a symbol of labor violence in the Pacific northwest, where roving squads of strongarm men representing the unions went around intimidating employers and dissenting workmen.

The suggestion that goondaism had a prior place in the Indian vocabulary and that "goon" may have been imported into this country should be of interest to lexicographers. There is an outside possibility, of course, that the Indians have borrowed from us the word and the methods associated with it but it is fruitless to quibble about who should have the credit.

DOING YOUR OWN JOB.

We know of no better counsel that can be given any American interested in helping his country win the war than the comment concerning his own conception of duty offered by George Dabbert. Mr. Dabbert is the winner of THE TRIBUNE'S first War Workers' award, which is to be presented monthly to the person adjudged to have done most in the Chicago area to advance the war effort.

Mr, Dabbert said of his contribution. "The only way I can help win the war is to do my own job. I want to help in my little way to defeat our country's enemies."

The first gold medal war worker is an electrician engaged in what might seem to be one small operation among many. But that was his job and he paid attention to it, trying to do it well, and hoping to do it better. His application to that one job led to the development of an improved process by which time and money were saved and the machine operation simplified. His invention is applicable to other jobs and will be useful when peace returns.

Every citizen can help his country best by appreciating, as Mr. Dabbert does, that no matter how confined his opportunity for national service may seem, each small effort is related to all the others and that in combination they add up to victory. That is equally true of the factory worker, the housewife contributing fats and tin cans, a member of the armed forces, or just somebody who can buy a war bond. Whatever it is we do, it should be the best we can do.

THE WAR FUND CHEST.

The plan frequently urged by THE TRIBUNE that all fund raising activities and the allocation of the money to charities and approved war agencies be placed under control of a single unified organization in Chicago has now been accepted. A group of civic leaders has incorporated the Community and War Fund of Metropolitan Chicago and, beginning next year, the fund will handle the appeal of all accredited organizations except the Red Cross, which had already made plans for a separate campaign.

The unified agency has advantages that should be obvious to every one. Chicagoans in the recent past have been subject to such a diversity of appeals in behalf of war and charitable organizations that it was inescapable that there would be great unevenness in meeting quotas and that some agencies, quite as worthy as others, would suffer.

Under the new plan it will be possible to decide in advance what organizations are deserving of support, to fix a total quota, and to establish not only a general division between war and civilian requirements, but the specific percentage of the collections each separate agency is to receive. Undoubtedly it will be possible to consolidate numerous fund raising organizations now working in the same cause. No good purpose is served by a half dozen agencies all seeking money separately when the money is to benefit the same cause.

A single appeal will result in greater efficiency and economy of operation. Instead of various groups of fund raisers taking the field at different times, too often in a quick succession tending to make those solicited dizzy, the scattered armies will be brought under unified command to conduct the campaign within a limited period and complete it. The change will be most welcome to those who give, and, by keeping overhead down, will assure a larger distribution of collections.

The Red Cross explains that national policy does not permit it at this time to join the Community and War Fund. The national headquarters had already laid their plans for 1943. This may be a legitimate excuse for the first year, but the organization certainly can see its way to coming in with the others by 1944. No one agency, no matter how worthy, is entitled to preferential treatment. It is fortunate that all the other organizations have given this fact recognition.

REA COMES A CROPPER.

It did not take any gift of prophecy to foresee that the Rural Electrification administration was riding for a fall. The fall has now come, with an order from the War Production board bringing the REA's construction program, which was consuming vast quantities of copper and steel, to a full stop. The order did not come as soon as it should have, but it is still in time to stop a particular kind of sabotage that the burocrats had every intention of carrying on.

Fifteen farm electrification projects are immediately halted by the WPB order. The order is a belated recognition that the charge made before Pearl Harbor that the REA was wasting materials vital to war production was as valid then as it is now. In March the WPB made a half-hearted attempt to stop waste by telling the REA it could carry to completion only those projects which were 40 per cent finished as of last Dec. 5. The effect of the order was to permit the REA to waste copper and steel on 20 projects.

The attitude of the REA all along was typical of the burocracy. The war was considered a regrettable diversion preventing the burocrats from giving full play to their socialistic ideas, but it was not regarded as of sufficient moment to interrupt the schemes. This attitude was condemned many times in congress, but condemnation alone could not dent the arrogance of the planners.

Rep. Winter of Kansas summarized the REA's attitude as "the public be damned." Less than two months ago the house military affairs committee officially branded the REA as guilty of "criminal negligence" in insisting on a "tragic waste of copper" during the national emergency. The fact, however, was that the REA wasn't wasting material for the simple pleasure of being profligate. It was putting up its power lines to drive the public power lines out of business, if it could.

Hundreds of miles of duplicating power lines have been strung since the nation went to war. Southwestern utilities men openly charged that the intention of the REA was to build a public power grid under the pretext that the lines were necessary to serve new war plants. Two of these projects, the construction of 276 miles of transmission lines from the Grand river dam in Oklahoma to a government aluminum plant at Lake Catherine, Ark., and the construction of 970 miles of line from the Possum Kingdom dam in Texas, largely duplicated existing privately operated facilities. They wasted 5,808,400 pounds of copper and 4½ million dollars.

Despite the WPB order, the plans of the burocrats can only be considered as held in abeyance. They will be resumed as soon as possible, during the war if opportunity allows, and after it if there is no other option. The projects will be no more essential then than they are now, but that will not be considered a deterrent. They will be revived unless a vigilant congress checks them and insists that we return to the system of private enterprise under which we made all our progress.

NATIVE CUNNING.

Today's little lesson in amazement deals with Arkansas, the wonder state. As a native of the wonder state, we know it well and can still sing, with a quavering grasp on the tune, the state song beginning:

"Arkansas, Arkansas, 'tis a name dear,
'Tis a place we call home, sweet home. . . ."

* * *

As a native we were privileged not long ago to receive a copy of a beautifully wrought book, black and white with a spiral binding, entitled, "The Wealth of Arkansas." We pondered it long and found it a brochure for prospective settlers and investors. A few excerpts indicate how wonderful a state is Arkansas:

"The climate may be described as mild.

"The temperatures are usually unmarked by extremes of either heat or cold.

"The surface may be considered as a plane gently tilted to the southeast.

* * *

The handbook dealt, too, with minerals. Arkansas has every known mineral. It even has diamonds. Once we forded rivers and rounded Ozark curves at a fantastic rate of speed to see a specimen of each assembled in Koleta's Kurio Kabin up in the Ozarks. It also has loblolly pines, tupelos, cypress knees, romantic bayous, abandoned lead mines, field after field of cotton, and white people who have always worn shoes.

* * *

Now all of this is true and we Arkansans are proud of it, and we will tell any one who is either half interested, or a polite audience, that these are just a faint indication of its wonders, but we are still shaking our aggregate heads over the word Attorney General Jack Holt sent back Tuesday to Albert G. Haynes of Berwyn, who wanted to set up a semi-nudist Utopia in our wooded Ozark hills. Mr. Holt advised the gentleman not to come to Arkansas, the wonder state, "because the Arkansas chigger [red bug] is a fierce animal."

* * *

True, true, but it is the first time the state has ever mentioned it with pride. Mr. Holt, how could you?

TIME SAID.

Caesar, Caesar, who were you?
All your swords have rusted thru,
All your armor's turned to rust,
And all your soldier toys are dust.
Eternity took care of you—
And Brutus, too,
And Brutus, too.

Philip, Philip, who were you?
All your ships were sent askew,
Spain's armada fed the sea
And flashed in the pan of history,
Hereafter saved a place for you—
Napoleon, too,
Napoleon, too.

Kaiser, kaiser, who were you?
Children ask who never knew.
All your submarines went down;
Your soldiers' graves are old and brown,
A concentration camp's not new,
Eternity will prove to you—
And Hitler, too,
And Hitler, too

The Law of the Line or The Line of the Law.

From opinion of the Appellate court by Mr. Justice Matchett [Clerken vs. Cohen, 315 App. 222, 225.]

"Folan and his wife lived together in this house. They had ten children who lived with them. His mother-in-law, his brother-in-law, and a girl named Mary Hamill also lived in this house, a total of 15 occupants. The trial judge was justified in concluding that the Folan family occupied the entire house." Dixonite.

DESIGN FOR A POEM.

If I may wrest from out of dissonance
One song that burns in beauty kin to yours,
If I may sing in bright significance
One sonnet that your loveliness conjures,
I shall have proved beyond a shadow's doubt
That discord fades in harmony restored,
And music's consonance has strength to rout
The conflict that would mar our hearts' accord.
One perfect song: is it too much to ask
That this one boon be yet vouchsafed to me,
So that I may succeed in this fair task
And somehow testify in melody
That love and only love may reconcile
And change cold earth to an enchanted isle?

CORRECT CHILDHOOD HANDICAPS.

MANY a youngster has experienced untold embarrassment because of protruding ears. While we are counseled to disregard facial characteristics—even capitalize upon them—a tot may encounter deep chagrin particularly if the peculiarity is singled out by companions for comment and ridicule.

Thus it is that a child will develop a feeling of inferiority and shun contact with playmates. Changes in disposition may come about which are quite unfair. Only with the advent of adult years do we learn to compensate for personal abnormalities. Despite frequent reminders that "beauty is as beauty does," we have all seen boys and girls overly conscious of physical handicaps.

We do not know exactly why the ear shell occasionally takes a position at right angles to the head. If the situation is observed early in life much time may be wasted in the application of bandages or devices calculated to retract the "wings." Surgery, however, provides a simple plan for relief. Some time before the little one starts to school a relatively simple plastic operation can be performed safely. In the hands of an expert the spring of the cartilage can be broken with the removal of a segment which has the form of an ellipse.

Of course the procedure may be carried out at any age, even after adulthood has been attained. But the value of early correction will save the patient a good deal of joshing and the acquisition of an unpleasant nickname. There is probably more reason for bringing the ears closer to the skull than for the exercise of plastic art on the nose. This latter organ may resume a normal and attractive relationship to the contour of the face as growth proceeds.

In this connection we must not forget the rôle of the teeth. If accurate approximation is not preserved the shape of the jaws, mouth, and lips may be substantially altered. This requires the watchful oversight of a skilled dentist if a natural profile is to be the outcome. There is no excuse for protruding teeth. If nutrition is guarded carefully and if the chewing pressure is even, the structures will erupt evenly.

It goes without saying that squint or crossed eye should be remedied. Not only is the appearance of the victim grossly injured but after a time sight may be lost in the optic which fails to "track." Proper exercises with suitable glasses will do much and in many instances will be quite successful. In other cases, a simple operation upon one or more of the muscles will bring the ball into alignment so that both eyes will function together. The reason that vision disappears in the turned eye is because when both are used the youngster sees double. After a time, he learns to subordinate one organ to the other. In consequence, the seeing ability of the unused orb vanishes.

While these are relatively minor considerations nevertheless they may make all the difference in the world to the person of teen age. One can never be sufficiently thankful to parents who have given some attention to the banishment of what may become an emotional if not a social burden.

ATHLETE'S FOOT.

Mrs. C. W. writes: Is the material on ringworm of the foot, offered a few months ago, still available? I did not need it then but have since acquired this pest.

REPLY.

Yes. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for various suggestions.

OTHER CAUSES.

Mrs. T. P. writes: Does mouth breathing in a child always indicate enlarged adenoids?

REPLY.

Certainly some obstruction to the passage of air thru the nasal apparatus. A simple examination will determine the cause.

UNLIKELY.

E. Y. writes: My mother has been taking huge amounts of vitamin A for an eye defect. Is it possible to take an overdose?

REPLY.

HAROLD HOLDS A PRESS-CONFERENCE

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Space for letters is obviously limited. Incoming mail far exceeds it. If a letter is not printed, attribute it to lack of room. Address letters to Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

GOVERNMENT RENTS AND PRIVATE RENTS.

Joliet, Ill., Aug. 7.—R. C. Jordan in his letter today voices the sentiments of most landlords when we read published statements from rent control directors. Here in Joliet our ceilings date back to April, 1941. With the advent of the munitions plants in this area, wages [and cost of living] skyrocketed, defense jobs paying from 90 cents an hour up—mostly up. Property owners were exhorted to spend money for improvements and remodeling, to take care of floods of new residents, and material, labor, decorating costs, etc., rose about 20 per cent in the summer of 1942.

Several hundred homes, financed by government funds, were built on the edge of a cornfield several miles from town, to help the housing shortage. The rents asked for these four and six room houses were so exorbitant that our mayor abolished Joliet's fair rent board, after numerous protests to Washington merely resulted in four or five different sets of "adjusters" visiting Joliet and insisting that Defense Homes, Inc., must have a fair return on their investment.

These government homes were built after April 1, 1941, so they will doubtless continue getting their fair return—something like $45 for a four room house [no garage], three or four miles from town. But the unfortunate private landlord who carried tenants thru the depression years at heartbreaking sacrifices [and no aid from Uncle Sam] must be content to pay taxes and maintain his property, without the "fair return" that the government itself feels it is entitled to.

There is just one ray of sunshine for the landlords. We can still go to the polls and vote. I wonder if they forgot about that? M. S.

MOTHER, DEAR MOTHER . . .

Chicago, Aug. 12.—Before prohibition women were not a problem as public drinkers. The male who overindulged was primarily a family problem; when he became a public nuisance, he was easily abated in a patrol wagon. Under modern drinking habits, law enforcement is much more complicated, mainly because women and girls are going in for the less fattening, more alluring, and exhilarating hard liquor drinks. The old worry about what condition father would come home in may, if the present trend continues, be applied in reverse English, with father wondering what shape ma and the girls will be in when they arrive home. H. W.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—If the husband of the lady who wrote the other day that he was embarrassed by "come on" girls who wanted him to buy them drinks is such a ninny that he cannot avoid unfavorable attention from some unladylike woman at a bar, he had best remain at home. Any man who is properly reared and knows how to behave will not be approached. For every barfly you have 10 bar buzzards. L. P.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—Now that the "ladies" have been eliminated from the bars, how about a little housecleaning with the dice boxes? Let the men folks go home and have their dinners on time and let the family take in a good movie for a change. MRS. B. EVANS.

THE FOREIGN CORRESPONDENTS.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—The back page of your paper contained a world map showing the location of your foreign correspondents and told the story of their work. I was so impressed with the debt the American people owe to all the foreign news services and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in particular that at the last meeting of the 1st district of the American Legion, July 30, in my report as Americanism chairman I recited the following poem:

I unfold my morning paper
In the quiet and peace of my home,
I glance at the news despatches
From London, Australia, and Nome;
The men who have written these stories
Have journeyed far over the sea,
They have suffered danger and hardship
To gather the news for me.
They sail with the fleet into battle,
They interview statesmen galore,
They work as machine guns rattle,
And bombs explode with a roar;
They are hampered by bureaus and censors,
They untangle red tape by the mile,
But in spite of every obstruction,
They put all the facts on file.
They act as our nation's outposts
On the land, the sea, and the air,
They warned us of danger approaching
So that we might have time to prepare;
So here's to the foreign reporter,
Whose service is second to none——
Americans all are your debtors,

HENRY E. LINDER.

PUBLIC OFFICE.

Chanute Field, Ill., Aug. 10.—I think we should only allow a man to hold public office once in his life. That would end politics and also politicians. I would have a man who is elected to office serve one term as assistant and then take office, and have the newly elected officer as his assistant. Some of the offices might be handled properly that way.

PVT. O. R.

AH-CHOO!

Chicago, Aug. 12,—Some time ago a law was passed that weeds in Chicago were to be cut the 15th of July and again on the 15th of August. All any one has to do is to ask one of the 150,000 hay fever sufferers if this law was put into effect. KENNETH HAMMOND.

PASS PASSENGERS.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—Forney Wingard, in the Voice of the People, Aug. 5, seems to believe that one of the chief reasons for railroads not paying dividends is that employés and dependents travel on passes. It is my belief that it does not cost the railroads one red cent to carry their pass passengers. I have never heard of extra equipment being added to a train to accommodate passengers traveling on passes. Besides, I feel quite sure that instead of there being 5 million employés and dependents traveling on passes, as is implied, there is a very small percentage of this number using free transportation even once a year.

It does not cost pay passengers anything for employés to ride on a pass, for pay passengers are given preference to accommodations over pass passengers. If there is not spare space the pass passenger stands in the aisle or waits for another train that has spare space. And Mr. Wingard would be surprised to know just how few trains there are that passengers traveling on passes can ride on.

OLD RAIL.

THE FREEDOMS IN GEORGIA.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—An item was printed today stating that subversive agents are attempting to incite Negroes to demand certain privileges not granted in Georgia. I was under the impression that Georgia belonged to the Union and therefore had to abide by the Constitution of the United States. We are fighting a war to free people. We cannot expect slaves to fight to continue to be slaves, and that is what they would be doing if they fought to maintain Georgia's standards.

DIVORCE AND MARRIAGE.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—According to the Illinois law, if a man and wife separate [1] does time and nonsupport ever free them from each other?

2. Does there have to be a divorce regardless of time and nonsupport?

D. B.

1. No.
2. Yes. A divorce would be necessary before either of them should contract another marriage.

ARMY OFFICERS CHARGE GOUGING BY SOME HOTELS

Rent Control Lawyers to Examine Reports.

Results of an investigation of reports that certain hotels have been advancing room rates to take advantage of the influx of army officers into the city may be given to the legal department of the rent control office by next Thursday, Earl Dean Howard, area rent director, said yesterday. He added that similar charges made against apartment landlords also will be followed up.

The investigation was started a week ago when THE TRIBUNE turned over to the rent office numerous complaints that army officers from out of town who have been assigned to the air force's new radio school at the Stevens and Congress hotels were being asked to pay exorbitant hotel rates. Officers with families, who do not use the officers' quarters maintained in the Stevens and Congress by the new school, have been seeking accommodations nearby.

Report Nightly Rate Charged.

Most of the complaints charged that a few loop hotels have been offering rooms to officers on a nightly rather than a weekly or monthly basis and that the rates have been going up steadily.

In late June two majors rented single rooms with showers in a small hotel just north of the river for $45 a month. Six weeks later another major was obliged to pay $15 a week for a smaller room with shower in the same hotel. The next day a lieutenant was told that he might rent a room only on a nightly basis and that it would cost him $3.50 a night, tho the sign outside the door still read "single rooms $1.50."

From $2.50 to $3.50 in Two Days.

A small hotel at the south end of the loop raised its rates from $2.50 a night to $3.50 a night for the same rooms within 48 hours last month. Rooms were offered to officers only on a nightly basis.

Recently two army lieutenants telephoned a loop hotel that they were salesmen and asked for room rates. They were offered a double room at $2.50 a night. Shortly afterward they appeared at the hotel in uniform and were offered the same room by the manager for $3.50 a night.

In some instances it was reported officers discovered they were getting announced "reductions" from an arbitrary rather than an established rate. In other instances it was said army men had to prove that they were officers to the manager before he would even discuss accommodations with them.

Reports Gouging on Flats.

Following are some of the complaints the rent office has heard about apartment rates. Two weeks ago a second lieutenant, whose salary is $175 a month, was offered two "poorly furnished" rooms in an ordinary south side neighborhood for $150 a month. Another lieutenant was asked to pay $100 a month for three furnished rooms in an ordinary neighborhood on the south side. When he complained, the landlord said that he was a veteran of the first World war and that he intended to "make some money" out of this war.

Other officers have been offered 1½ furnished rooms in unpretentious neighborhoods in Evanston for $60 and $65 a month, plus garage expense.

CITY HELP ASKED BY 1,000 NEGROES FACING EVICTION

The possible eviction of more than 1,000 Negroes living in an apartment building at 34th and State streets, owned by the Illinois Institute of Technology, was reported yesterday to the city council housing subcommittee by representatives of the Urban league, a Negro organization.

The representatives said the institute plans to erect a new structure to house a laboratory. Institute officials said the building would not be torn down at present.

Altho the subcommittee has no power to prohibit razing of the building it will ask the school to defer action pending the granting of priorities for the construction of the laboratory and the finding of other housing facilities for the families, a committee spokesman said.

Extra Gas Illegal in Areas Rationed, Drivers Warned

Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, warned motorists yesterday that new regulations make it unlawful to carry extra gasoline in separate containers into areas where gasoline is being rationed. Even tho the container meets all safety requirements, it is still a violation to carry the extra fuel, he said.

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 14 (AP).—It turns out she was just spoofing when she insisted her name was really Jane Doe. That was after her marriage in Tempe, Ariz., July 20 to Actor Eddie Norris, ex-husband of Ann Sheridan. Mrs. Norris today used the name Mickey Jane [Peggy] Satterly in filing for divorce. She charged mental cruelty. Norris said he expected to enter the air force while she plans to pursue her film career.

KEEP SERVICES IN OCT. 1 LEASES, OWNERS ADVISED

Landlords must pledge the same services and equipment provided last March 1 when they draft Oct. 1 leases, Earl Dean Howard, area rent director, said yesterday. He warned landlords against attempting to reduce or eliminate the usual decorating and other services.

"Any decrease in service must be authorized by the rent office," Howard noted. "Likewise, in the event a landlord arbitrarily decreases the service the tenant may apply for a decrease in his rent."

Howard advised landlords that they must register their rental units by Sept. 1 before they can request rent ceiling readjustments based on a major capital improvement or some other substantial ground. Herbert N. Lustig, in charge of landlord registration, said forms will be available Tuesday at 20 major postoffice stations in Chicago for landlords with 100 or more apartments.

Neighborhood real estate offices and banks to be designated later by the rent office will distribute blanks to other landlords. Schools are being used in suburbs.

FINED ON CHARGE OF THREATENING A PHOTOGRAPHER

Judge Harry H. Porter in Evanston's Municipal court yesterday fined Anthony Paul Fragassi, 30, Guzik employé, $100 and costs for threatening Chester Nichols, Tribune photographer, in connection with slot machine pictures Nichols took July 25.

Fragassi, in front of the Evanston police station, told Nichols if he valued the lives of his wife and family he would not send the slot machine pictures to his office. Nichols sent them in and reported the threats. Fragassi was seized by Capt. Daniel Gilbert of the state's attorney's office.

Judge Porter asked Fragassi: "Who asked you to get the pictures suppressed?" The gangster said a friend asked him. "Who was the friend?" Fragassi said he didn't know; he'd met him in a tavern several times.

TAX SALE SUITS FILED AGAINST LOOP PROPERTIES

County Says 37 Sites Owe $3,000,000.

State's Attorney Courtney's office yesterday filed tax foreclosure suits in Circuit court against 37 properties owing $1,841,033 in past due real estate taxes, exclusive of penalties. County officials estimated that the properties, most of which are in the loop area, owe more than $3,000,000 including penalties.

The suits, filed by Assistant State's Attorney Marshall Kearney, asked the court to order foreclosure sales of the delinquent properties to satisfy the county's tax claims. Some of the delinquencies date back to 1928.

Ignore Board's Warnings.

Maurice F. Kavanagh, chairman of the county board finance committee, said the suits are so-called "involuntary" actions, involving property owners who have ignored warnings to make offers to settle taxes thru "friendly" foreclosures.

Kavanagh said that if the owners do not bid the full amount of taxes and penalties due, the county will bid in the properties to satisfy its claims. If the owners then fail to pay the taxes within the two year statutory redemption period, the county will take clear title, he added.

The foreclosures were authorized last month by the county board. Kavanagh said the county for years had tried to avoid "going into the real estate business" but that the failure of some real estate owners to attempt to clean up their tax bills forced this step. It was the first mass foreclosure action against large properties in the memory of county officials.

Some of Sites Involved.

Some of the larger properties involved and the taxes due, exclusive of penalties, follow: 316 North La Salle street, $229,726; 201-09 North Western avenue, $181,344; 188-96 North Clark street, $111,402; 24-32 North Dearborn street, $110,055; 136-52 East Illinois street, $210,445; 12-29 West Quincy street, $244,051.

County officials hope, Kavanagh said, that suits of this kind will result in a cleanup of the back taxes without the county being forced to acquire the parcels. He warned, however, that the county is prepared to take over the properties if the taxes are not paid.

Delay Is Effected.

Kearney said it may be several months before any of the foreclosure sales actually are held. Before a sale can be held it must be ordered by the court after the property owners and the state's attorney have been heard.

The board is preparing similar suits against other tax delinquent properties and expects to take action against 20 or more each week, Kavanagh said.

SCHOLARSHIPS GIVEN TO 10 LABOR LEADERS FOR STUDIES AT YALE

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 14 (AP).—Yale university announced today it had awarded 10 scholarships in the graduate school to labor union leaders from all sections of the country.

Laborites recommended by numerous locals of the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations will live in the graduate school and will study during the 15 week spring term which begins next Feb. 1.

Under the plan, conceived by E. Wight Bakke, professor of economics, the men will read and attend lectures and seminars on labor legislation, labor law, the economics of collective bargaining and the structure of American economy. In addition, they will participate in a research project, "The Origin and Development of Trade Unions," which Bakke is carrying on.

Among four of the unionists who received outright scholarship grants of $600 was Earl K. Hribal of La Porte, Ind. Six others were awarded tuition scholarships.

ROSE ANNENBERG DIES IN AURORA; FUNERAL MONDAY

Mrs. Rose Annenberg, 73 years old, wife of J. D. Annenberg, retired Aurora scrap iron dealer, died yesterday in St. Charles hospital, Aurora. The couple made their home in the Leland hotel there.

Mrs. Annenberg was a sister-in-law of the late Max Annenberg of New York and the late M. L. Annenberg, newspaper and magazine distributors and publishers. In addition to her husband she is survived by one son, Samuel C. of Aurora, and one daughter, Mrs. E. F. Berliner of Chicago, and one brother, Bennett Oppenheimer of Chicago.

Funeral services will be held in the funeral chapel at 6935 Stony Island avenue, Monday at 2 p. m. with burial in Oak Woods cemetery.

RIDER IS KILLED AS MOTORCYCLE STRIKES A TREE

Peter Devines, 16 years old, 7242 South Fairfield avenue, was fatally injured yesterday when he lost control of his motorcycle at 59th street and California avenue and crashed into a tree. He died later in the Southtown hospital.

There were no traffic deaths in Cook county in the 24 hour period ending at 4 p. m. yesterday. Up to that time 442 persons had lost their lives in auto accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of this number 343 were killed in Chicago, where 12,674 were injured.

SECOND JOLIET CONVICT ESCAPES WITHIN 24 HOURS

Warden Edward M. Stubblefield of the state penitentiary at Stateville, disclosed yesterday that John Curtin, 23 years old, sentenced to one year to life for a 1939 armed robbery in Cook county, escaped early in the day while on a farm detail pitching hay. It was the second escape within 24 hours. Percy Campbell, 51, fled his post on the front gate of the prison Thursday night. Stubblefield said Curtin had 18 months to serve before being eligible for a parole.

TEACHER SUPPLY ADEQUATE, SAYS SUPERINTENDENT

There will be no shortage of teachers either in the elementary or high school grades when school opens this fall, Noble J. Puffer, Cook county superintendent of schools, told a special meeting of 16 county high school principals at his office in the Burnham building last night.

In anticipation of a possible emergency, however, he said that provision has been made to eliminate the minimum B. A. degree requirements in the case of industrial art teachers and to relax the five year rule in the case of substitute and regular teachers if necessary.

It also was announced at the meeting that 668 students have enrolled to take the new high school academic course in aeronautics which will be introduced by the county this fall. This course will speed up flight instruction of students who later enlist in the air service.

PAT O'MALLEY'S 14 NEPHEWS, NIECES WILLED $1,133,570

Patrick O'Malley, one-time saloonkeeper and 1st ward politician, left an estate of $1,133,570, according to an inventory filed in the County court yesterday. Out of it will come a federal estate tax of $219,800 and an Illinois inheritance tax of $66,569. Principal assets of the estate are 8,025 shares of General Motors common stock, valued at $434,353, and 1,400 common shares of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., worth $253,400. O'Malley died Oct. 30, 1939, at the age of 73 years. The estate, after deductions, will be shared by 14 nephews and nieces.

Attorney Bloomingston Estate Exceeds $500,000

Attorney John A. Bloomingston, 210 East Pearson street, who died Jan. 8, at the age of 68, left an estate exceeding $500,000, an inventory approved yesterday by Probate Judge John F. O'Connell, disclosed. Among other assets were $200,000 in cash and $100,000 in bonds and securities. Mrs. Caryl B. Parker, 1245 Astor street, a daughter, is the chief beneficiary.

FORT DEARBORN MASSACRE TO BE RECALLED TODAY

The fighting past, when Chicago was the nation's frontier, will be recalled today during ceremonies at the Michigan avenue bridge commemorating the 130th anniversary of the Fort Dearborn massacre in which 74 soldiers, women and children were slain on Aug. 15, 1812.

The fort, which stood at the present intersection of Wacker drive and Michigan avenue, was built in 1803 at the order of President Jefferson to protect the Northwest territory from an anticipated occupation by Napoleon.

The ceremonies today, beginning at 10:30 a. m., will be in charge of Carleton B. Cunningham, state president of the Society of the War of 1812, sponsoring organization. Coöperating are the Fort Dearborn Memorial commission, the United States Daughters of 1812, and the Illinois Society of the Sons of the American Revolution.

FUNERAL TODAY FOR HAY FEVER, ALLERGY VICTIM

Funeral services for George E. M. Asper, 21 years old, who died Thursday of a rarely fatal allergical illness, will be held at 3:30 p. m. today in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, 2555 North Sawyer avenue. Asper, who lived at 1700 Cornelia avenue, was stricken with acute congestion of the lungs and throat paralysis resulting from a hay fever attack. Dr. A. L. Williams, his physician, said the youth was extremely sensitive to pollen and to fish. A week ago Thursday Asper ate fish at two meals and became ill. Every effort to reduce the congestion failed and he died in the Ravenswood hospital. Asper was a graduate of Wright Junior college and had planned to study medicine. Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Asper. Burial will be in Salt Lake City, Utah.

RICHARD LYONS AND WIFE DONATE BLOOD IN DRIVE

Richard J. Lyons, member of the Illinois state tax commission, gave his official approval of the Libertyville blood donor campaign yesterday—and gave a pint of his own blood with it. His wife made a similar contribution.

The five-day campaign to raise blood for wounded soldiers and sailors, which will end today, had netted 373 pints yesterday, according to Mrs. Chance Dougall of Libertyville, chairman of the drive.

More than 50 solicitors have canvassed Libertyville and surrounding towns for blood donors, Mrs. Dougall said, obtaining more than 1,000 pledges. From this number, she said, the Red Cross, co-sponsor of the drive, hopes to obtain between 700 and 800 pints of blood.

Ship Used by Adm. Byrd Taken Over for War Duties

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 (AP).—The war shipping administration reported today it had requisitioned the old barkentine New York, once used by Adm. Richard E. Byrd.

OBITUARIES

Lieut. James S. Freeman.

Funeral services for Lieut. James Stewart Freeman, 312 Lee street, Evanston, who died a hero's death, will be held at 3:30 p. m. Monday in St. Luke's Episcopal church, Evanston. Lieut. Freeman, a member of the coast guard, was drowned Monday at Norfolk, Va., when he descended under water in a diver's suit to recover the body of a sailor accidentally killed. Lieut. Freeman's helmet came off under water. He was 29 years old, a graduate of Northwestern university. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard B. Freeman, and a brother, Norman, survive.

John E. Daley.

The funeral of John E. Daley, 50 years old, former Illinois state highway policeman and investigator for the Lake county state's attorney, will be held Monday at 10 a. m. in St. Anastasia church in Waukegan. Daley, who lived at 1411 North Jackson street in Waukegan, died Thursday night in the suburb's Victory Memorial hospital. Surviving are his widow, Ada, a son, Arthur; a daughter, Jean; his father, Edward Daley, and three sisters and two brothers.

Miss Louise Rusch.

Funeral services for Miss Louise Rusch, retired teacher who served in the Chicago public schools, will be held in St. Stephen's Evangelical Lutheran church at 2 p. m. today. Miss Rusch, who was 72 years old, died yesterday in her home at 516 West 62d street. From 1926 to 1929 she was principal of Gresham school and from 1929 until her retirement in 1936 was assistant principal of Fort Dearborn school.

Mrs. Harry McNair.

Mrs. Harry McNair, widow of one of the nation's best known horse dealers, died yesterday in Billings hospital after an illness of one year. She was 69 years old and lived at 5124 Hyde Park boulevard. Her husband died last Oct. 5 in Portland, Ore., after operating a horse commission business in the stockyards for a number of years. Funeral services for Mrs. McNair will be held Monday at 2:30 p. m. in the Kenwood church.

John F. Schuler.

John F. Schuler, 84 years old, died yesterday in his home, 1442 Olive avenue, after a brief illness. A life long resident of Chicago, Mr. Schuler was president of the John F. Schuler company, installers of ventilating equipment. He leaves his widow, Ella, a daughter, Mildred, and a son, John. Services will be held at 3 p. m. Monday at the chapel at 5501 North Ashland avenue.

Mrs. Ragnhild Ibenfeldt.

Mrs. Ragnhild Ibenfeldt, 83 years old, a sponsor of ceramics at the Art institute, died yesterday in her home at 1218 North Euclid avenue, Oak Park, of a heart ailment. The funeral will be held today at 3 p. m. in Graceland cemetery chapel. Surviving are two sons, Reginald and Ralph, and a daughter, Mrs. Albert Mortensen.

Mrs. Amy C. Ransome.

East Charleston, Vt., Aug. 14 (AP).—Mrs. Amy C. Ransome, 70 years old, of Washington, D. C., advocate of women's rights and vice chairman of the National Woman's party, was killed yesterday when she fell down stairs in the home of Miss Alice Paul, president of the party, whom she was visiting.

Francis A. Read.

Freeport, Ill., Aug. 14 [Special].—Francis A. Read, 89 years old, merchant and philanthropist, who was actively identified until a week ago with the drygoods business he founded in 1877, died today.

PLAN TIN SCRAP CONTROL TO END TAINT IN STEEL

Strict control over the handling of tin scrap is contemplated by the War Production board as a precaution against further contamination of steel by traces of tin from tinplate scrap mixed into bales of steel and iron scrap used by the steel mills, William L. McFetridge, metropolitan area salvage director, said yesterday.

McFetridge said the WPB proposes to issue an order barring the sale of tinplate scrap to steel mills except by licensed dealers. The action would be in response to complaints from steel mills that some scrap dealers have adulterated bales of iron and steel scrap with tin cans and other tinplate scrap which harm the open hearth furnaces and the steel product.

The proposed plan contemplates the licensing of brewery and bottling companies, which would be authorized to collect and process the large size cans used in restaurants, hotels, and institutions, McFetridge said. The distributors would be allowed to retain a portion of the cans for fabrication into bottle caps, the supply of which has been curtailed, he said.

Betty Gillespie Is Engaged to Naval Officer

BY JUDITH CASS.

A LETTER from Leland, Mich., from Mrs. Frederick H. Gillespie, announcing the engagement of her daughter, Elizabeth, to Lieut. [j. g.] LeRoy Kramer Jr., and a note from Mrs. Charles Lamb Trumbull of Winnetka telling of the engagement of her daughter, Lucy Proctor, to Dr. Frederick Mitchum Owens Jr. are of interest today.

The engagement of Betty Gillespie to the young naval officer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kramer of Chicago and Harbor Point, Mich., is no surprise, for he has been a devoted beau of Miss Gillespie's for some time. Mrs. Gillespie and her daughter, who are at their summer home as usual, are not giving a party to announce the news, as Lieut. Kramer was unable to get away from his duties. Miss Gillespie was introduced to Chicago society at Christmas time in 1939. She attended the Girls' Latin school and Bryn Mawr college and is a member of the Chicago Junior league.

Lieut. Kramer prepared at the Boys' Latin and Lawrenceville schools and attended Purdue and Princeton universities. He received his commission in the naval reserve a few weeks ago. His younger brother, Harry T. Kramer, recently was promoted from ensign to lieutenant [j. g.]. They have one sister, Mrs. Richard M. Lamport, who with her young son is with the Kramers in Harbor Point for her usual summer visit.

Miss Trumbull's Debut Several Seasons Ago.

The engagement of Miss Trumbull to Dr. Owens, son of Dr. and Mrs. Owens of Sunfish Lake, St. Paul, Minn., is the second such announcement within a few weeks in the Trumbull family. Mrs. Trumbull's younger daughter, Mary, and James L. Worrall were married on July 25, a week after their engagement had been announced.

Miss Trumbull, who made her debut several seasons ago, is a graduate of the North Shore Country Day school and of Sarah Lawrence college and of the University of Chicago. She, too, is a member of the Chicago Junior league, and for the last two years has been associated with the Library of International Relations.

Dr. Owens is a graduate of the St. Paul academy and of Princeton university, class of 1935. He completed his work at the University of Chicago medical school in 1939 and now is assistant resident in surgery of the surgical resident staff of the University of Chicago clinics.

At a buffet supper at home in Kenilworth last night Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Stephenson announced the engagement of their daughters, Paula, to Lieut. Eugene F. Kern Jr. of San Francisco, Cal. Miss Stephenson and Lieut. Kern, who is stationed on the west coast, were graduated from Leland Stanford university last June.

Select Civic Opera House for St. Luke's Style Show.

After a careful investigation of all available places in which to hold its annual fall fashion show, the woman's board of St. Luke's hospital decided to present its 16th annual show in the Civic Opera house. The usual location of the show—the ballroom of the Stevens hotel—was made unavailable when the army took over the hotel.

There will be an afternoon and an evening performence as usual. The date is Wednesday, Oct. 28. The three co-chairmen for publicity this year are Mrs. W. Press Hodgkins, Mrs. Louis C. Sudler, and Mrs. John L. Cochran.

David Leavitt, well known Chicago artist, yesterday received the commission of lieutenant commander in the naval reserve. He is to serve in the camouflage division of the navy.

Racing enthusiasts are finding their way to Washington Park these summer afternoons. Today brings one of the richest races of the Washington Park season—the Futurity.

Thru the Looking Glass

From the notebook:

Noticed all the hairdresses that are swooshing up off the neck in back? They're very chic, and have a smartening effect particularly for the mature woman with a pretty head and neckline. Some sort of softness is preserveed in front, a fringe perhaps, or a pompadour, but the ears are revealed and the hair is swept right up in the back, held firm with combs.

If the hair is long enough to fold under the front rolls the effect is best. If your back hair isn't long enough to swish up as nicely as you'd like it to, ask your hairdresser to give it a slight swirl to one side when he sets it. It's amazing the way just a suggestion of sideward sweep helps it to stay up.

While it's in the growing-out stage use lacquer. The handiest form we know of for this is pads, little discs of flannel saturated with the lacquer.

Conservation note: Of several hundred women surveyed, almost half reported that each year they had a wardrobe loss because of perspiration stains. At least 10 per cent found it necessary to have about one garment dyed each year because of stains. With clothes expensive, and good fabrics something to treasure in wartime, women are urged as a conservation measure to guard against this damage. Cleaners and dyers beg you to be more careful, for your own good. And we advise you to be more careful than ever to use deodorants or anti-perspirants. Incidentally, there is more costly wardrobe damage from perspiration stains and odor in winter than in summer, which proves that all seasons are deodorant seasons.

Did you know that the sales of smelling salts are rising furiously? The First Aiders, who are now a large group, know their value.

Army Air Corps Captain and His Bride

Capt. Sidney Brody and his bride, the former Frances Lasker, who were married at noon yesterday in the Glencoe home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Lasker Foreman. The bride's father, Albert D. Lasker, and Mrs. Lasker and their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Edward Lasker, came from New York for the wedding, and Capt. Brody's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Brody, came from Des Moines, Ia. Mrs. Foreman attended her sister, and Julian Brody was his brother's best man. The bride attended the Girls' Latin school and Miss Madeira's and was graduated from Vassar. Capt. Brody, who is with the army air corps, is a Harvard graduate. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Women in War Work

By India Moffett

Nowhere in this great city, it seems to me, is there a place or building that signifies more clearly the fact that we are a nation at war, that the world and life are in the process of changing, than the Potter Palmer "castle" on Lake Shore drive.

It isn't changed very much on the outside; it's still a huge, rather ugly structure of brownstone, partly covered by ivy vines which cling tenderly and gracefully to its rough exterior, almost as tho to protect it from the winds and spray of Lake Michigan, just across the drive. But inside, service is the watchword, the service to all ailing and suffering mankind that is characterized by the Red Cross.

Women in white are rolling bandages, making surgical dressings that will be used in base and field hospitals perhaps in India, in Africa, in Australia, in the Solomons, in Iceland, in Europe, anywhere on this globe where American boys are fighting to preserve the freedom in which this nation was conceived nearly 200 years ago. Those dressings may go to Russia or to China to be used for the brave wounded of those countries. But wherever they go they will be useful; they may save lives.

Was ever such a splendid work carried on before in this landmark that has been the most conspicuous residence in Chicago since 1885? Surely the lovely lady who was its chatelaine for so many years, the first Mrs. Potter Palmer, would be happy that her home is being put to such good use in these days of peril.

Thru the great front doorway, ornately carved, as is almost every bit of wood visible in the house, and thru the side doors, once used by guests invited to balls in the combination ballroom and art gallery, now throng serious faced women, all bent on one thing: Not to enjoy themselves, but to learn the new regulations concerning the surgical dressings the army and navy need in large numbers.

The Red Cross is using the house as a center in which to instruct instructors—the chairmen and co-chairmen of all Red Cross units in Cook county. On Sept. 8 the house will be open to the public; that is, after that date there will be Red Cross staff assistants there to show curious surgical dressings students thru the first floor, if it is the mansion more than the work that interests the visitors. But it is hoped by Mrs. James A. Cathcart, chairman of the volunteer services, and Miss Marguerite Brown, R. N., director of the center, that only serious workers will call at the center. Now women are admitted for instruction only thru appointment, but the place is a beehive of industry all day, every day except Sunday.

In the dining room—where Mr. and Mrs. Palmer entertained the then prince of Wales, who later became King Edward VII. of England; three United States Presidents, and numerous titled folk from Europe—is the same long table where those celebrities dined. But instead of the fine damask or linen and lace which covered the table then, today there is a blue and white oilcloth table covering. And every day at noon dozens of women are served sandwiches and coffee by a canteen unit of the Red Cross.

Gone are the rich and rare foods that no doubt were served at the Palmers' festive board, just as all the elaborate furnishings and trappings that filled the house, are gone—all except three chests and an old fashioned three door wardrobe, which are so huge and heavy that they probably could not be moved without great effort. The wardrobe and one ornate chest, painted generations ago in Italy but still as fresh and colorful as tho it had been finished last year, are in what was a small reception room, a powder room, it would be called today. Now the workers hang their street clothes on racks in this room, for every woman who rolls bandages must wear the white apron and veil of the Red Cross.

The other chests are in the great six sided hall, looking like caskets of princes of long ago. One expects to find inside almost anything, but the only thing I saw when I opened one was a mousetrap, cheeseless and mouseless.

When I visited the center the other day I was reminded of the second time I ever had been in the great house. My first visit was to "cover" a charity card party given by Mrs. Palmer during the last war. I have forgotten the charity that benefited by it, I recall little of the event, but I remember vividly the second time I entered the house. It was to assist in "covering" the funeral of the great but little lady who lived there. The casket was in the hall and I watched the services from the second floor, for the ornate stairway that leads to the second floor is open and there is a gallery on the second floor that looks down from six sides into the hall below.

That was a hard assignment for a very young and very inexperienced reporter who until then had thought that funerals were unlike weddings in that the former were private. It was then that this young woman, who aspired to be a newspaper woman, began to learn that those who have lived in the public eye cannot escape the spotlight, even in death.

Since that day in 1918 there have been few social functions in the house that had been so hospitable. The junior Potter Palmers, now referred to as the senior ones because Potter Palmer III. is a man and married, with a little Potter Palmer IV. to carry on the name, gave a ball in 1928 for their elder daughter, Bertha [named for her paternal grandmother]. In 1935 they opened the house again to give a dance for their younger daughter, Pauline, named for her mother. There have been a few charity parties, and in the few years that Vincent Bendix owned the historic mansion I went there once to see the treasures he had accumulated there, but most of the time the house has been closed.

Today in the red velvet walled gallery, where lights used to hang from the ceiling to show up the Corots, the Monets, the portrait of Mrs. Palmer by Zorn, portraits of her sons, Honoré and Potter, by Melchers; more portraits by Betts, marines by Harrison, and "The Annunciation of the Lily" by Hitchcock, the lights have been changed so that they shine straight down rather than sideways. Today they show up women sorting and wrapping, packing and unpacking materials and dressings. There is nothing left of the pictures except marks on the velvet showing where they had hung.

Asks Churches Join in Aiding Salvage Drive

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

William L. McFetridge, Chicago area salvage director for the Office of Civilian Defense, has asked the cooperation of all organized religion in Chicago in the "Salvage for Victory" drive which opens today and continues thru next Sunday. In a letter to church officials he requested that pastors be asked to speak about the drive from pulpits tomorrow.

Mr. McFetridge has asked the pastors to name Sunday "Scrap Sunday," with places designated for the salvaged articles to be deposited so that the churches might receive funds from their sale. In the letter to the church officials, Mr. McFetridge said that 6 million tons of scrap steel will be needed to keep steel mills going full blast this winter.

Judge Julius H. Miner of the Circuit court has accepted appointment as chairman of the fall fund drive for the Jewish board of education, 13 North La Salle street. Prof. Louis Gottschalk of the University of Chicago, president of the Jewish board of education, made the announcement.

One of four Christian ashrams set up for the summer at various points by the Federal Council of Churches will open tomorrow at Lake Geneva, Wis. Dr. E. Stanley Jones, noted missionary to India, will be the leader of the faculty. Ashram is a word used in India to designate a combination religious retreat and school. Dr. Jones had his own ashram in India similar to those held under Hindu or other religious auspices.

Sixteen notable South American Catholics will be guests of the archdiocese of Chicago, Sept. 1 to 3, when the archdiocese here will participate in a 17 day seminar held in various cities to permit the guests to see Catholic Action in action.

Cynthia Morgan Wedding Today in Washington

Several Chicagoans have gone to Washington, D. C., for the marriage today of Miss Cynthia Billings Morgan and Lieut. [j. g.] William Crocker Wilcox, U. S. N., which will take place at 5:30 o'clock in St. Alban's church. A reception will follow at the home of the bride's stepfather and mother, Capt. and Mrs. Vance Duncan Chapline in Madison street N. W. Mrs. Donald Murray of Chicago, Mrs. Howard Emig of Lake Forest, and Mrs. Harold Gifford of Highland Park will be among those at the ceremony and reception. Miss Morgan's father was the late Christopher Lyston Morgan of Highland Park and Chicago.

Miss Frances Morgan will be her sister's maid of honor and the bridesmaids will be Miss Dorothy Chapline, Capt. Chapline's elder daughter, and Miss Katherine Rockwell, daughter of Rear. Adm. and Mrs. Frank Rockwell. The lovely, auburn haired bride will wear the wedding gown of her mother, who was Miss Marion Pillsbury of Chicago. Little Frances [Cherie] Chapline will attend her stepsister as flower girl.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph DeWitt Wilcox have gone to Washington from their home in Minneapolis for their son's marriage.

Mrs. George Henry Bockwinkel Jr. and Frederic Allen Slaughter are being married at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in the bride's home in River Forest, with the Rev. Lester Minion of the River Forest Baptist church officiating. The wedding will be a small one, with only the families and a few close friends present. The bride will be attended by her 7 year old daughter, Ann Louise, and perhaps by 3 year old Sara Jane, who will be wearing a frock identical to her sister's, but whose age may keep her from being a perfect bridesmaid. Mr. Slaughter, a private in the army, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic J. Slaughter of Oak Park. Mr. Slaughter and his bride will go to St. Louis for a while and then she will return to her River Forest home.

Mrs. Smith Pirie, daughter of Franklin P. Smith of Lake Forest, to Lieut. John O. Giles, son of Mrs. Harry Giles of Lake Forest, at 4:30 o'clock in Mrs. Pirie's home.

Miss Clare O'Brien, daughter of Mrs. Thomas J. O'Brien of Davenport and Lake Delavan, Wis., to Frederick Crane Gartz, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Frederick Gartz Jr. of Chicago and Lake Geneva, Wis., at 4 o'clock in the rectory of St. Andrew's church, Delavan.

Miss Dorothy Shawhan, daughter of Mrs. R. Lorenzo Shawhan, to Ensign Richard E. Cragg, son of Mrs. George L. Cragg of Lake Park avenue, at 4:30 o'clock in the Avalon Park Community church with a reception following at the Del Prado hotel.

Miss Helen Bebb Hench, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay L. Hench of Hinsdale, to T. Scott Jones, at 8:30 o'clock in the Hench home. Mr. Jones' grandmother, Mrs. Pauline L. Jones of Washington, D. C., is here for the ceremony.

Miss Katherine Hamilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Hamilton of Winnetka, to Frank Whitman Lindsay of Hollis, N. Y., at 4:30 o'clock in the Riverside church, New York, with a reecption following at the Barbizon Plaza hotel.

Miss Marjorie Hair, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Hair of Evanston, to A. Eugene Fitch of Evanston, at 4:30 o'clock in the Hair home.

Miss Jean Elizabeth MacIntyre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Treat MacIntyre of Rye, N. Y., to Hollis L. Barnard of Chicago, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allison F. Barnard of Moore, Okla., at 5 o'clock in the Winnetka Congregational church.

Urges Preparation to Meet Post-War Marital Problems

Fear that the nation will be confronted with an epidemic of marriage difficulties in the postwar years unless more adequate provisions are made for recreation and social life in disrupted families was expressed yesterday by Mrs. Evelyn Millis Duvall, executive director of the Association for Family Living.

Mrs. Duvall, speaking at the 21st annual institute of the Socity for Social Research at the University of Chicago, said that problems precipitated by the war are increasing the instability of marriage and will require more adequate resources to aid families in making the necessary adjustments.

One of the most frequent problems, Mrs. Duval said, is that of the young bride whose husband is in service, prompting a feeling in her of "I'm a married woman, yet I'm not." Cases of this type are aided by discussion with congenial advisers and association with other wives in the same situation, the lecturer declared.

In an address at the institute's evening session, Dr. Ralph Linton, professor of anthropology at Columbia university, said that the united nations would have to aid primitive peoples in the southwest Pacific war area to readjust themselves to modern culture in the peace years.

Dr. Linton told the audience that unless this readjustment is fostered the primitive peoples could be exploited in a victorious united nations world order just as much as if the totalitarian nations won the war and dictated the course of action.

There will be no concert at Grant park tonight because of the Chicago Music Festival at Soldiers' field. The nightly Grant park series will be resumed tomorrow and continue thru Labor day, Sept. 7.

North Avenue Nursery Benefit

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. DeWitt Buchanan Jr. of the North Avenue Day nursery board of directors, which is giving benefit today.

From 2 o'clock until midnight are the hours of a benefit "Field Day and Cocktail Party" the directors of the North Avenue Day nursery are holding today at the Winnetka residence of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney S. Gorham Jr.

Swimming, tennis, badminton, croquet, billiards, and pingpong are some of the activities listed. In addition there will be an exhibition of Olympic and comic diving at 6 o'clock at the pool, and a grill supper will be served out of doors afterward. Dancing will follow in the house. The thirty members of the board have invited 10 couples each to the party, and in case of rain the large crowd expected can be handled comfortably indoors. Mrs. Gorham and Mrs. Theron T. Chapman are co-chairmen of the undertaking.

Mrs. Gorham's sister, Mrs. Walter Kohler Jr., and Mr. Kohler of Kohler, Wis., have come for the party, and on Monday Mr. Kohler will depart to enter the next Aviation Volunteer Specialists class. Mrs. L. Edward Hart Jr. has come from Harbor Point, Mich., for the event. In addition to the diving exhibitions, there will be a demonstration of the underwater swimming technique now taught to avoid burning oil in sea catastrophes.

Front VIEWS and PROFILES

Overture.

Nathaniel Shilkret's "Victory! March Overture" will open the 13th annual Chicago Music Festival this evening at Soldiers' field. The festival's 114 piece symphony orchestra will play Mr. Shilkret's dramatic music, while his story of victory is narrated. The theme: "Victory belongs to those who love peace." The composer, in town for a few days at the Seneca, is recuperating from a recent operation before going on to Hollywood to resume his film work.

Front View and Profile.

I saw the full face of your love,
And in its own Front View
Found little of the love you vowed;
Altho you never knew
That was the reason
That I turned away the while,
[So you'd not see my own love's depth,
I showed but its Profile].

NELEH NAGAER.

Real Service.

In the mail:

"Your item about Mildred Bruder helping the USO is no news to us who have been working with the men in service. I don't think any one has ever made an appeal for anything to either Miss Bruder or her assistant, Mrs. Helen Carrane, that they haven't tried to fill it, and usually successfully. These two young women have been largely responsible for collecting and shipping almost 1,000,000 books to service men thruout the country. Just any old book doesn't do—they sort and send the kind men want, and have shipped almost without cost, by enlisting the aid of big trucking companies. No one ever wants for reading material. Young coast guardsmen, on leave for a few hours, have been sent back to their stations with armloads of magazines; a young sergeant bound for his train took along a western thriller and a pack of cards, and I understand they even dug up a mandolin for a homesick, music loving gob. —Anna Linstrom."

Black-out Echoes.

The OCD workers in a Ravenswood sector who said the blackout was like having a home in the country, because they could see glow worms and hear crickets, instead of the usual roar of the elevated and street car traffic. . . . A woman in the same area who, told that the light in her attic was burning, said it couldn't be because she hadn't been in the attic for two weeks. It was, tho, and she thanked the wardens for saving that much more money on her monthly bill. . . . The noncoöperative woman on Lake Shore drive who left her lights blazing and, when asked by her building warden to extinguish them, said she had no interest in the black-out. She changed her mind when told she was subject to a fine and/or imprisonment if she failed to comply with regulations.

Avocado Addenda.

Mrs. Isaac N. Tomlinson of Decatur is amused that avocado seed growing addicts go to so much trouble to grow them. She says that each spring she simply plants a seed in the flower bed at her back door, smack in the middle of parsley, live-forever periwinkles, and what have you, and from then on it carries on vigorously to lush maturity. It is Mrs. T.'s good fortune to own a garden and she probably doesn't realize that the enthusiasts who've written us about this horticural problem live in apartments and must struggle along with whatever method seems to obtain the best result.

The Housewife

If you like wooden ware, large plates, bowls, etc., you will be fascinated by a handmade line of articles that comes from Haiti and that is of beautiful dark mahogany. Linings of the bowls and dishes are a lighter tone, showing the grain of the wood. Some are leaf shaped; others in the form of pears, while some of the plates have scalloped edges. Any one of the many items would make a charming gift.

Fashion Offers Johnny Jeep as Hat of Decade

BY REA SEEGER.

Once in any decade a hat makes fashion history. Those that left their mark include that famous bit of headgear called the Empress Eugenie hat, the cloche that succeeded in overshadowing the particular identity of any one who wore it; the Breton sailor, the dink or beanie, and now the happy go lucky new topper called the Johnny Jeep, definitely inspired by the easy to manage jeep of the army.

See them before you deny the idea for they're small, fetching models in velveteen, suede or wool combined with either suede or the velveteen. Eighteen different and flattering shades are available, giddy, bright contrast tones, sophisticated colors like mahogany russet, lime green, orange and the blonde shades and enough bright tints to suit the most color mad shopper.

Rolling brims no wider than a couple of inches offer a dozen different curves and rolls to work with. A well fitted, head crown is like nothing we've worn in years. It's a hat that will stay anchored in place no matter how you dash or rush about. It's universally becoming for every one can wear them for daytime, town, or country.

Don't expect unusual trim for there isn't a smidge of feathers or fuss. The swank and fun and fashion are all incorporated in the fit, dash, and swagger of an ideal topper for casual clothes. The price mark is as easy to approve as the hat and the generous color range.

If you prefer to pin a dink or beanie on your curls no matter what, see the clever new finds of wide wale corduroy. There's the same slick color range as star the jeep hats. Dinks or beanies are a trifle bigger, more puffy, than in former years. Some are steamed into shape, others achieve shape with gores and others are made with a flared side fastened to a rounded top and then stitched and stitched for decoration plus stiffness. Some of the numbers are finished with a neat, flat covered button right in the center. Others have that rather startling perpendicular last spike of the material skewered in the center.

1,030 Jones School Summer Students Receive Certificates

One thousand thirty students of the Jones Commercial school, 607 Plymouth court, received certificates yesterday signifying the successful completion of the summer school. Seven hundred thirty of the graduates had attended the first summer evening classes in the history of the school.

Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, said the board of education has found jobs for 150 of the graduates already and expects to find employment for many of the others. As a whole the students had a 94 per cent attendance record for the six week course, which is considered excellent for summer school, Dr. Johnson said.

Five thousand eight hundred seven elementary pupils and 3,706 high school students will be graduated from public summer schools in the city next Tuesday.

SYNOPSIS.

Covering the Spanish Civil war in Madrid, James Milcom, an English journalist with Loyalist sympathies, meets Raquel, the Condesa de Verdura, seeking a tin of milk for her starving child. Once wealthy, her beauty famous, her husband notorious for his infidelities, she now lives in a basement and her husband is in prison. James befriends her, but the child dies. He falls in love with her and realizing she is in danger because she is a White, he takes her into France near the frontier so she can be with her sister, the duquesa. Rosemary Oldhead, an English girl, is vacationing with her parents at a frontier hotel and is intrigued by the duquesa and becomes greatly interested in newspaper men and spies. Crumpaun, Canadian journalist, takes Rosemary for a trip to see the International bridge where she notices the duquesa go across it and hand some one a package on the Spanish side. Raquel arrives at Rosemary's hotel, where the duquesa is now living, and there is much excitement among the other guests. Later Carrow of the New York Moon shows Rosemary some pictures he says he got at the local photographers, but which she recognizes to be landscape pictures taken by her father.

INSTALMENT XII.

PARTING MESSAGE.

By this time Mrs. Jones' platinum locks had been washed and were being coiled and arranged all over her head by a glossy haired man. She demanded loudly of Rosemary what was going on and whether she had seen "any one amusing."

Some odd instinct made the young girl suppress all mention of Milcom and the condesa. But a few minutes later she was able to report, in an undertone, that the duquesa had just come downstairs and left the beauty shop.

"Ah—had a set, I suppose," Mrs. Jones commented.

"She didn't look as if she'd had a set—she looked just the same as this morning," Rosemary observed. "And she didn't pay, either," she added after a moment — "she just walked out."

"Perhaps she was seeing some one. People do, here," Mrs. Jones remarked, significantly. But she wouldn't answer any of Rosemary's questions as to why people should see one another at the hairdresser.

Presently Mrs. Jones asked Rosemary to bring her a magazine and the girl went over to the black table on which the papers lay. This table was just opposite the foot of the stairs, and as she picked up a magazine she saw the academic Spaniard standing on the half-landing in conversation with M. Jacques, the patron whom Mrs. Jones pointed out to her when they arrived.

She was near enough to hear their conversation. They were speaking in French. "Then you will obtain for me four examples of each, in this size," the Parrot said, pointing to a photograph which M. Jacques held in his hand. "The detail in that size will be sufficiently clear." M. Jacques bowed his acquiescence, and the Parrot came slowly downstairs. M. Jacques followed him and hastened respectfully to open the street door, putting down a small packet of postcard sized photographs on the table by Rosemary as he did so.

But as he bowed the Spaniard out, a gust of seawind blew in, caught the little pile of photographs and showered them all over the floor. Rosemary instinctively stooped to gather them up—as she did so, in the bright electric light, she saw for the second time that day her father's pictures of the col, the striking groups of rocks, and the small combes full of those little trees with their attendant shadows.

For a moment she stood looking at them, too stupefied to speak. Then M. Jacques was at her elbow, his hand outstretched.

"Merci, mademoiselle," he said.

"Comme elles sont polies," she said, casually shuffling them over. She got a good look at each of them before she handed them back. Yes, they were daddy's beyond any doubt. This would take some thinking about. Very slowly, then, she picked up a fashion magazine and took it to Mrs. Jones. Soon afterward she said that she must go home and do her Spanish prep. But it was a very thoughtful Rosemary who walked back in the wave-sounding dusk along the seafront.

If the mere fact of staying at Perpignan with her had made James Milcom feel the impact of human society on his relation to Raquel de Verdura, he felt it infinitely more strongly when he got over to S. Jean de Luz. During the few days that he spent there the two seemed to him to be moving all the time in a positive crowd, surrounded by his colleagues, by the duquesa and her friends, and all sorts of miscellaneous people like Mrs. Jones and the English couple with the nice little girl—so he mentally characterized the Oldheads.

In Olivia de las Illas he confronted the family, he felt; and she was perfectly civil, and indeed professed the warmest gratitude for all that he had done for Raquel—her little sister, she sometimes called her—he was aware of an almost inquisitive scrutiny, occasionally, in her bold, restless glance. Among his colleagues he was also aware of a certain interest, aroused by his suddenly turning up with "a beauty in tow," as he overheard Crossman phrase it.

Even her beauty arose now to utter its mute testimony, to set her away from him as her own remoteness had never quite succeeded in doing. The heads that turned after her as she walked into the Bar Basque made him feel that the days when he knelt on her palliasse in a cellar and sawed wood for her while she washed up the supper things and her clothes hung from a nail on the wall, were really phantoms of the memory as unrelated to the actual world as the life of dreams.

Then, too, when they had moved like ghosts wandering in a world of shadows, their emotions had been gentle, shadowy, frail. Now, coming with her into the world of men, the practical factual world of relations and acquaintances and money and arrangements, he found that this gentle, undisturbing relationship had taken on flesh and blood and become a harsh, throbbing, painful reality. And all the time an idea that was half a question pulsed thru everything else in him—whether she did not, perhaps, feel the same?

They dined together his last night. He took her to Gaston's, a small restaurant on the Place Louis XIV., down by the harbor, where the cooking is good and the fish superb. They sat outside. It was a warm evening. The wind had fallen after sunset, and only light draughts of air from the water sent the fallen leaves from the trees scuffling along the dusty cobbles.

Now that it had come to the point of actually leaving her, he found that he minded it to a degree that almost surprised him. He had not known that it would be like this, would cause this almost stifling pain that took away one's breath.

But all this had the effect of making James, that night, very correct. It had taken him some little time to raise the money for her, but he had managed it and gave it to her now, enough to last for three or four months. He had satisfied himself that whatever the duquesa's "ways and means" might be, they were not equal to maintaining a second person. He gave it to her in cash, but urged on her strongly the desirability of opening a banking account. She promised to do so the very next day. He got this business over early while they took their aperitifs. Inevitably, it was a little awkward, but she was, as always, quite peculiarly gentle and nice about it—using no emphasis, letting most of her thanks be understood rather than uttered. It was a form of genius with her, he felt, this gentle, quiet naturalness which robbed almost any situation of its embarrassment.

When it was settled he sat back in the chair, saying, "There — that's over. Now we can enjoy ourselves."

She smiled at him a little oddly.

"Can we?" she said. And set that half-question pulsing in him again. But then her long, pale face took on another expression.

"I have something to get over, too," she said—and blushed, a thing he had never seen her do before.

"What's that?" he asked, wondering about the blush.

"It is something, as usual, for you to do for me," she said, with great earnestness. "Do you ever go to Almadera?"

"I have been there—I might go again any time," he answered, guessing what was coming.

"If you should be there I would like you to go and see Pascual. As a journalist, I suppose you could get into the prison?"

James supposed so, too.

"And then to tell him that I am out here and safe, and with Olivia. And to let him know about——" her voice wavered for a moment—"Pilar. It will not be nice," she went on, "telling him this; but it would be a relief to me if you could. He ought to know. And if, when you have seen him, you would let me know how he is, I should be grateful."

She always asked for things like that, perfectly, directly, with no cajolery and no emphasis, he reflected. Aloud—"Yes, I'll do that," he said, as directly as she, and pulled out his notebook. In it he took down the full name—Maj. José-Maria Pascual, Conde de Verdura, taken prisoner in hospital at D——, after receiving a slight wound. While he wrote down all the details, in a perfectly businesslike way, Milcom's mind was asking itself a string of questions.

How much did she really want to know how this man, her unfaithful husband, was? How much did she think he would mind about the child, even? "He ought to know," she had said. Was this request perfectly spontaneous, or did it spring from the Spanish tradition of family life? He found that he wanted quite fiercely to know. He even got to the length of trying to frame a sentence in which he could conceivably ask her. This he found difficult — and with a sigh he gave it up. Anyhow, as he was going away, there was no point. He put away his notebook with a gesture of finality and looked up at her. Something in the still concentration of her face as she watched him hit him so hard that he looked away again.

She said: "Thank you; you do a great deal for me."

And something in the way she said "for me" and not "for us"—made him feel that some time he would be able to ask her that question that he had just stifled, or even that he would not need to ask it.

They continued eating their dinner, but as the meal proceeded he realized that she had been right—they could not enjoy themselves. They were quiet, and became quieter.

Park District Outing Club Will Visit Indiana Dunes

The Chicago Park District Outing club invites all persons interested to join its members today on a trip to the Indiana dunes. Dr. Andrew A. Gour, leader of the outing, said each participant should bring lunch and a bathing suit and buy a round-trip ticket to Tremont. The party will leave on a South Shore electric train at 9 o'clock at the Randolph street station. Plans for the day include a four mile hike, picnic on the beach, games, and swimming. The outing is planned in coöperation with the Office of Civilian Defense physical fitness program.

Some readers write and telephone for recipes containing lots of sugar and others complain that too many of our recipes call for too much sugar. So what's a cooking editor to do? Right now the home economists in our department are trying to hit a middle road. They're giving recipes with and without sugar, trying to please the women who have plenty and those who need more.

Hundreds of letters from readers of this column have indicated that the families who report "plenty" of sugar are the city folks, for the most part; those who haven't enough are farm people. Professional persons who lunch downtown and eat only breakfast and dinners at home, and large families which hold numerous ration books seem to have all the sugar they need.

FROM A NATIONAL SURVEY ON NUTRITIONAL INFORMATION: 'Tisn't true that women are the finickey eaters. Reports indicate that more men and boys have strong food dislikes. . . . But about 97 persons out of 100 are willing to eat any good food which is well prepared and attractively served. . . . Spinach and cabbage, so long made sport of and thought to be commonly disliked, really are popular vegetables. . . . There's a marked deficiency in milk consumption, much less than the pint a day for adults and a quart for children standard. . . . There's been an encouraging increase in consumption of the vitamin C—rich citrus fruits.

Women know more about nutrition now than they ever have before, but every woman should learn by heart, so that she uses it every day in planning meals, these requirements for an adequate diet.

ESSENTIALS OF A GOOD DIET.

1. Milk every day for every member of the family. A quart for children, a pint for adults.

2. Eggs three or four times a week. One a day is better.

3. Fruits and vegetables. Plenty of both. One good vitamin C source, such as citrus fruits, tomatoes, cabbage, every day. Emphasis on green and yellow vegetables.

4. Meat, fish, poultry. A serving a day. Cheese, dried beans, eggs, peanuts may substitute occasionally.

5. Whole grain cereals or vitamin B-1 fortified cereals, bread every day.

6. Butter every day, or margarine containing vitamin A.

What's wrong here department: The young woman who declined milk at lunch because "it's fattening" and then ate a big piece of chocolate cream pie topped with whipped cream for dessert! . . . The woman who put a pinch of soda in her cooking peas "to keep the color green." . . . The one who sears a roast at a high temperature "to keep the juices in."

There's a whopping peach crop this year, so it looks as tho we'd better can the best of the fruit and make pies, cobblers, and desserts of much of the rest. Fresh peaches and cream are one of summer's finest treats. This luscious fruit is wonderful in salads, too. Don't forget that peaches in port wine are something special, for company.

TODAY'S PRIZE RECIPE

Cheese Bread.
[Easy to Make and Partified.]

¾ pound butter
2 packages cream cheese
½ pound package process nippy cheese
¾ teaspoon minced garlic
1 teaspoon minced parsley
2 green onions, chopped fine, stems and all
¾ teaspoon salt
2 loaves Vienna or French bread [1 loaf if very long]

Allow cheese and butter to soften, then mash until creamy and smooth. Add garlic, parsley, onions, and salt, mixing well. Cut bread in lengthwise slices and spread with mixture. Put together again and cut down in crosswise slices about ¾ inch thick. Leave slices hanging together at bottom of loaf. Place in moderately hot oven or broiler to toast lightly. Serve hot. If desired, the bread may be cut in crosswise slices only and these slices may be spread with the cheese mixture. Leave attached at bottom and toast as usual.

MRS. MARGUERITE JOHNSON,
7551 Essex avenue, Chicago, Ill.

HOW TO ENTER THE PRIZE RECIPE CONTEST.

1. Choose your best recipe.
2. Type or write it legibly and completely, listing ingredients in order of use and giving standard, level measurements.
3. Include helpful information such as number of servings, time for baking, size of pan.
4. Send one receipt at a time.
5. Address it to Recipe Contest, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

There's a $5 prize daily!

Three Needlework Models

BY NANCY CABOT.

This is a delightful needlework group. No 0344 is an ideal motif for a child's crib or on the front of a bib. It is not difficult to applique. No. 0739 is an attractive group of Dutch girls, who add to the charm of days-of-the-week towels. They also may serve as individual motifs on wall pictures. Cross-stitch samplers are the favorites of all needleworkers, and No. 0719 is no exception. It is attractive and simple to execute.

Each pattern costs 10 cents. Send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, for EACH pattern desired, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 14.—It was Sid Grauman, one of our greatest showmen, who thought up the glamor premières [that so many persons have taken credit for] 'way back in "The Covered Wagon" days, at the old Egyptian theater, then later at the Chinese. It was he who started the foot and hand prints in the forecourt of that theater and recently added Jack Barrymore's profile. Now he'd like to cement Monty Wooley's beard [so would I—then we'd hear no more about it]. Sid went to the Klondike during the gold rush. When he returned he and his father built a theater in San Francisco. During the big fire it burned down. They stayed on there, became owners of six more. He sold out, came here to manage our million dollar theater. And now, he's been signed as technical director for "Hello, Frisco, Hello," with Alice Faye, John Payne, and Jack Oakie.

Monty Wooley.

Gathering 'Em In.

If Hunt Stromberg can persuade her, Claudette Colbert will do a picture a year for him for three years. . . . Just three years ago George Montgomery crashed the movies and now Darryl Zanuck has torn up his old contract, given him a new one for $1,000 a week, so he can live in the manner to which he's become accustomed. His first real starring rôle will be in "Down to the Sea in Ships," which was set for Tyrone Power. Tyrone went to the sea for Uncle Sam, so George gets it. . . . I don't wonder Gregory Ratoff is shouting about Hazel Scott. I saw her at a benefit at the Hotel Astor which Ed Sullivan ran when I was in New York. She's dusky, dynamic, daring, and talented.

Stark Realism.

Unlike "Tales of Manhattan," where the stars are the thing, "The Commandos Came at Dawn" stresses story, 'cause that's bigger than any star. Paul Muni has gone completely overboard on it. Producer Lester Cowan hopes to have it ready for release before "Edge of Darkness" and "The Moon Is Down." All three have similar plots. "Commandos" was written by C. S. Forester of the British intelligence from actual facts, with Irwin Shaw doing the script. Sounds like the real thing. And that's what we need today—reality, not fiction—something that will make us all cheer and want to fight. We've all got to, if we're going to win this war.

Experience Speaking.

Jules Buck stepped up to Mary Martin's car to snap a picture, when Jean Arthur, who was sitting beside her, yelled, "Get away from me!" Jules replied, "Pardon me, I don't want you—just Mary and her husband." Come on, Jean, break down and admit it's because you don't look well in candid shots. Tell the photographers the truth, and they'll coöperate. . . . Buck them—and boy! I wouldn't want to be in your shoes.

Won't Starve, Anyway.

Huntington Hartford may produce and may make a star of Ernestine Witte. She has not been in films yet, but her contract calls for dinner each night with Lieut. Hartford. . . . If that Gower street producer keeps on proving to a pretty manicurist that she really ought to be in pictures, he'd better start being discreet. . . . When Capt. Jimmy Roche took his pretty young wife visiting on the Bill Pine and Bill Thomas set, the two Bills offered her a part in "You Can't Live Forever." She was that pleased, but said, "Sorry, boys, but I'm under contract to Twentieth as Barbara Lynn." But that didn't deter them—they borrowed her. . . . Andre Kostelanetz will include 22 year old Sol Kaplan's score, written for "Tales of Manhattan," in his concert tour. Sol's friends are saying he's walking in the footsteps of George Gershwin. Well, them's strong words, 'cause Gershwin wrote much more than "Rhapsody in Blue" before he was hailed as a genius.

Take a Bow.

Joan Blondell's father, Ed, lies gravely ill in a Compton sanitarium. He says the rebirth of vaudeville is no surprise to him. He's had the props for his famous act ready for 15 years. I wonder how many people remember Ed Blondell's act, which included Joan, now happily married to Dick Powell; Ed Jr., who's an electrician on the "Edge of Darkness" set, and a sister, also happily married. If ever there was a story of "From Rags to Riches," theirs was it. They traveled all over Europe and Australia. Joan wore ermine coats in Paris, then landed with her family in New York broke, and went to work in a department store. Then she crashed the movies and kept the family together. When Ed went to the sanitarium, he took his props with him, waiting for a booking.

BY CECIL SMITH.

Somebody ought to enact a law requiring the movie studios to use titles which describe, at least remotely, the content of the pictures to which they are attached. At one unimportant moment in "Sweater Girl" a voluminous sweater girl does parade before the camera in ostentatious profile, but she has nothing to do with the plot, and once having revealed her excellent qualifications she passes into limbo and is not seen or heard again.

While it is easy enough to say that "Sweater Girl" isn't about a sweater girl, it is a harder task to say just what it is about. In a rattlebrained but reasonably amusing way the film combines various elements of a musical comedy, a campus romance, and a murder mystery. If the author and director could have decided to concoct a picture out of one of these three ingredients the result might have been less of a mulligan stew.

The boys and girls of Midvale college—another of those amazing Hollywood institutions of learning with a campus the size of a national park and dormitory rooms worthy of the palace at Versailles—are at work rehearsing a musical comedy. In between song numbers and dances a series of nice college boys are bumped off under circumstances which point the finger of suspicion at both Betty Jane Rhodes and Nils Asther. Eddie Bracken and June Preisser do their best to unravel the mystery, dividing their time equally between rehearsals of an Apache dance and awesome night time inspections of dark rooms. Needless to say, nobody ever attends classes at Midvale.

"Sweater Girl" has the great virtue of not pretending to be more than it is. The musical sequences are no great shakes, but at least they are not blown up into Busby Berkeley spectacles. The most likable song is "I Don't Want to Walk Without You, Baby."

The acting of the principals is casual and likable, with June Preisser a cute and animated little heroine and Eddie Bracken making amusing use of the kid stuff George Abbot taught him for the stage versions of "Brother Rat" and "What a Life."

Betty Jane Rhodes, Kenneth Howell, Johnnie Johnston, and William Henry are all attractive people who toss off their simple chores easily. Frieda Inescourt, a fine actress, and Nils Asther, still impressively personable even with a beard, also contribute good moments.

Sally to Announce Her Movie Party Guests Tomorrow

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

All you boys and girls who wrote in for invitations to our Palace theater party can uncross your fingers tomorrow morning. Just as soon as you get your Sunday TRIBUNE you'll know your fate. The names of the 50 boys and 50 girls who have been selected as my guests will be printed in my column tomorrow, so if you've been waiting anxiously for the news your suspense will soon be over.

In addition to the good news for the youngsters who'll see "The Pride of the Yankees" at the Palace on Thursday, Aug. 20, there'll be the announcement of our next party. Even if you tried for and didn't win an invitation to our movie party you'll soon perk up when you realize that you have another opportunity to be a winner.

I know you'll like the entertainment which has been selected for our next good time, so just be patient till tomorrow, when I'll tell you all about it!

Three Apron Patterns

WOMAN'S AND MISS' APRONS.

This is a practical, down-to-earth life for all of us, without exception, no matter how much leisure we once may have had. Busy women need the proper clothes, and among the items is the apron. These three patterns make as many different apron styles.

Style No. 2629 is designed for one size and requires 1 yard of 35 inch material with 2¼ yards of rickrack.

Style No. 2703 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20, and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 2¾ yards of 35 inch material with 3¼ yards of rickrack.

Style No. 3318 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20, and 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 4¼ yards of 35 inch material with 3¼ yards of rickrack.

Each pattern costs 10 cents, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost (coin preferred—wrap it carefully), for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT: Be sure to state clearly, the number of the pattern and the size desired and write your name and address plainly. The summer pattern book costs 15 cents, 10 cents if ordered with a pattern.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1942: By Ely Culbertson.]

It goes without saying that the primary object of rubber bridge is to fulfill one's contract. Obviously, it is stupid to play for overtricks when to do so jeopardizes the contract. By the same token, however, it is almost equally stupid to fail to play for such overtricks when there is not the slightest danger in doing so. At the end of a year's play a few thousand overtricks add up to a very respectable total!

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 no trump	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

West opened the heart five. Dummy ducked and East's king won. A heart was returned and won by the queen. Declarer could count his nine tricks—four spades, two hearts, and three clubs—but certainly there was no hurry about cashing them. He still had a heart stopper and every other suit was under control. Even if the ace, king and jack of diamonds lay over the queen, East could take only three diamond tricks before the declarer's own ten would act as a stopper, and these, with the heart trick already lost, would not affect the contract. On this sound reasoning declarer led a low diamond and finessed against the jack by playing dummy's nine. East tried to mask his diamond holding by winning with the ace instead of the king, then led his last heart.

Now, since the heart suit had been shown to be divided 4-3, there was no danger of losing more than one additional heart trick and further diamond establishment could be pursued in safety. Declarer returned to his own hand with the club ace, cashed the queen, and let the ten of diamonds ride thru West. East's king was driven out and now no return that East could make could win another trick. His actual spade lead was won with dummy's queen, the diamond queen was cashed, and the hand was spread, declarer claiming the balance.

As I pointed out at the beginning, the extra 30 points made no tremendous difference. But a declarer who consistently uses the correct technique and goes out for overtricks when it is safe to do so may win a thousand times thirty points in the course of a year.

Child Reacts His Own Way to the War

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Near-babies and very small children, being new to this world, and understanding well only those things and people and events within the small circle of home, and of their own personal immediate experience, react in their own special way to the whole war picture. Today we want to consider our boys and girls who are older, roughly between young childhood and adolescence.

Generally speaking, the child in the grades has quite different reactions from the little ones at home or in kindergarten. The boy or girl of 8 or 10 is intensely interested in activity and in the way things work. He is quite alive to all that is going on around him. Already many school children are changing their time-honored game of prisoner's base and cops-and-robbers, to air-raids and ambulance and stretcher-drills, and real war games.

This is all right for the daytime, but these same children, away from the gang at night, are often subject to daydreams and nightmares of very real terror. So they still need to feel close to their parents. Often what children of this age suffer in their own imaginations when alone is far worse than any reality, and actually more harmful.

With all his apparent independence he is in need of parental support when he is worried or frightened. His wish to talk over his worries is more likely to be expressed at night time when he is away from the security of the group.

Suggestions to help this age are: First, a frank discussion of the facts about the war and the particular situation of the family. This will help to get rid of imagined horrors. Then, to bring fantasy and reality closer together, children of school age should have definite duties and responsibilities. There should be group discussions in school and at home, and specific tasks should be assigned. Mothers can plan beforehand with their children to do certain things—depending on them to put up window curtains, to see that little children stay away from windows, and similar tasks.

They can be junior air-raid wardens, can do junior Red Cross work and first aid, and can start learning many things that will be useful to them and the community later. At the same time they will be dealing actively with reality, and in facing reality they will be getting help for themselves. But still there must not be too much emphasis on, nor consciousness of war. It is possible to overdo even these sensible measures.

Is the intelligence test a permanent guide to a child's mental limits? How can the teacher hold the interest of children in studies? Answers to these and scores of other problems are given in "Talks with Teachers," new 28 page booklet by Gladys Huntington Bevans. Get your copy today at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 5 cents. Postpaid, 7 cents.

Restaurateur Means Genius.

So You're Going Into the Restaurant Business: The United States Department of Commerce will tell you that one-half of all the restaurants in the United States change hands yearly and eventually nine out of 10 of them will fail.

"Why should there be this appalling mortality?" asks Grace E. Smith, president of the National Restaurant association. "Because," says Miss Smith, "of the existing fallacy in the public's mind that any one can operate a restaurant. . . . What are the facts in the case? It is one of the most difficult of all businesses and only a small per cent have been able to master it. It requires more varied talents than any other retail business, for a restaurateur must be a manufacturer as well as a retailer.

"Do you realize how many lines of business there are about which a restaurateur must have some knowledge? He must have the ability to manufacture good products with all the knowledge it entails of buying raw materials, overseeing their preparation and—because they are perishable products which must be sold the day they are made—be able to estimate his sales so as to avoid over production and set a fair price on his merchandise. Then, he must know real estate, have some knowledge of engineering, salesmanship, advertising, personnel, public relations, insurance, taxes, finance, accounting, interior decorating, and human relations."

What About Women at 40?

The director of a commercial school which planned refresher courses to provide workers from adult groups who have been out of employment for several years, writes a letter raising the question as to whether there is an actual emergency need.

"Several large organizations," he writes, "have refused to employ women over 40. This same story is also true of smaller business houses. It seems rather unjust and harsh that these women who are courageous enough to return to school to refit themselves to assist their country at this critical time should be coldly rebuffed. Why is the office door closed to women over 40? Is it because they are no longer white collar GIRLS?"

Bit of Etymology.

We may use the words every day but seldom stop to think of their origin—that a company from which you earn your "daily bread" comes from the same root as "companion"—one who eats bread with you; that a client was, in its original sense, one who listens; that the words "grammar" and "glamor" were once the same word and that "glamour" is a Scotch corruption of grammar.

PLANT SEIZURE CALLED UNFAIR CONFISCATION

Penalizing of 'Innocent Bystanders' Charged.

New York, Aug. 14 (AP).—The National Association of Manufacturers characterized today as confiscation and unfair the government's seizure of the strike-bound General Cable corporation plant at Bayonne, N. J.

The navy took over the plant today, at the direction of President Roosevelt, after an unauthorized strike of 1,000 employés had halted production of cable for the armed forces. The employés had defied an order of the War Labor board refusing them a wage increase.

William P. Witherow, NAM president, praised President Roosevelt for his promptness in acting to enforce the board's decision to reopen the plant, but declared it was unfair to make management "an apparent dual offender" with the "outlaw" strikers.

Penalize "Innocent Bystander."

Characterizing the management as an 'innocent bystander," Witherow said in a letter to George W. Taylor, vice chairman of the War Labor board:

"Against all the rules of fairness and equity, the innocent bystander is the one being penalized. The procedure followed by the President deprives management and the stockholders of the company of their property rights but imposes no penalty whatsoever on the guilty employés.

"Management will not be encouraged in war production by the knowledge that its best effort will be rewarded by confiscation, and if and when the labor party to collective bargaining chooses to defy government.

"The NAM believes that this creates a dangerous and un-American precedent, and that you should have recommended a course when you certified the case to the President which would discourage future defiance of the government and sabotage of the war effort."

Urges "Work or Fight."

Witherow also demanded a national labor policy which would deny draft deferment to men "who voluntarily refuse to work" in essential war occupations.

"Until the government adopts such a policy," the NAM head declared, "and thus discourages strikes in defiance of its rulings, the decisions of the War Labor board will be little more than scraps of paper—contracts which are binding upon only one of the parties involved."

The NAM letter said:

"An appropriate procedure must be one that penalizes the party at fault, and not the party which has met its every obligation to the government. In such cases, instead of confiscating property, the government should protect it.

"Management should be encouraged to reopen the plant with government protection for those employés who desire to go back to work. Employés who do not elect to return to work should be replaced immediately with willing workers.

"Pampering of the Few."

"Professional labor leaders undoubtedly will suggest to you that such positive governmental action is politically dangerous, but the great mass of patriotic and loyal citizens of this nation will vigorously indorse the policy of penalizing the guilty rather than the innocent. So will the vast majority of union workers whose reputation is being besmirched by the pampering of the few who subordinate patriotism to personal privileges.

"Failure to adopt this more realistic policy will crystalize the demand for congressional action which again is rising because of the steady increase in labor disputes since Pearl Harbor."

CHARGE OF CHILD CRUELTY AGAINST MOTHER IS VOIDED

Charges of cruelty to children, filed against Mrs. Julia Bork, 48 years old, an ex-convict, when her daughter, Shirley Ann, 6, told neighbors her mother had beaten her, were dismissed by Judge John J. Lupe in Criminal court yesterday. Mrs. Bork, who lived at 1613 Elston avenue, told the court her daughter told "fairy tales" and Judge Lupe said he would have to discount the girl's story that her mother beat her over the face and body with a slipper. Shirley said her mother beat her because she would not tell the name of a visitor to the home that day, but Mrs. Bork asserted the child told her she had been injured in a fall from a swing. Mrs. Bork was in prison twice, for confidence game charges and for a postal law violation.

Mrs. Dora MacDonald Dodge leaving the hospital after husband's death. Her handkerchief covers a cut upper lip.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 14 (AP).—Further mystery surrounded the death of John Duval Dodge, member of the multi-millionaire automotive family, when a coroner's autopsy today disclosed that before he lapsed into a coma Wednesday morning he had suffered a skull fracture.

Dodge had been more or less in the public eye for 22 years, climaxing his escapades with what Prosecutor William E. Dowling said was a drinking party that resulted in his arrest, his subsequent collapse at a precinct police station and his death last night in receiving hospital.

Dr. Edmund J. Knobloch, coroner, said the fracture "could only have been caused by a good jar of the head. It was not caused by a sharp blow because there was no wound, or depression."

STRIKERS BACK ON JOB AS NAVY SEIZES FACTORY

Plant Policed by U. S.; Management Stays.

Bayonne, N. J., Aug. 14 (AP).—The navy seized the General Cable company's Bayonne plant today to end a wildcat walkout and the strikers enthusiastically returned to work for "Uncle Sam, our new boss."

"We're all glad it happened," said Michael P. Petrakian, strike chairman. "We have a real boss!"

But the very jubilation brought from Washington indication the government had no intention of turning the seizure into a victory for workers who had walked out of their jobs despite the pleas of the War Labor board and their own union leaders.

Out Since Monday.

The strike began Monday midnight when 1,000 workers tied up production of cable for the army and navy after the War Labor board had refused their demand for a 10 cent an hour wage increase.

A responsible Washington official, declining to permit use of his name, said employés of the company probably would be notified that the navy had taken over the plant to police it, not to supplant the management. He implied a warning to other war workers that the government would not punish management for wildcat strikes.

Any impression that the navy was the new employer "has to be corrected," this source said. "The men are still working for that management. The navy is there to protect that property and see that the order of the War Labor board is observed."

Pledge to Redouble Effort.

Petrakian telegraphed to President Roosevelt a pledge the workers would "redouble their efforts to more than offset the loss in production caused by the work stoppage."

"They are eager to prove to their President and to the nation that they are loyal and patriotic citizens," he wired.

Seizure of the plant was quick and smooth.

Acting under Mr. Roosevelt's order of yesterday, Rear Adm. Harold G. Brown assumed management of the plant during the morning. He posted notices warning that "any interference with the operation of this plant is an offense against the United States."

Gates Are Guarded.

Adm. Bowen was joined at the plant by Brig. Gen. R. K. Robertson, director of internal security division, second service command, New York. Other officers of both services joined them in conferences, but the only military guards were three army and navy chauffeurs at the gate.

Within an hour of Bowen's announcement, 800 of the strikers had voted unanimously to return to their jobs. Those on the night shift trooped back at the appointed time, 4 p. m.

The admiral, who managed the Federal Shipbuilding and Drydock company at nearby Kearny when it was in navy custody, later posted another announcement saying wage rates and other working conditions in effect when work stopped would prevail.

Great Lakes Recreation Supervisor Is Promoted

Lieut. Andrew Simmons, who has been ship's service officer in charge of recreation and entertainment at Great Lakes Naval Training station since Aug. 11, 1941, was promoted yesterday to the rank of lieutenant commander. He enlisted in the navy as an apprentice seaman in 1907 and was a lieutenant when he retired Feb. 1, 1934. He was recalled to duty Nov. 20, 1940, and came to Great Lakes as recruit training officer. He is married and lives with his wife and a daughter, Margie, at 1503 North avenue, Waukegan.

FIRE CAUSES $20,000 DAMAGE.

DUDLEY, JACOBS STAND OUT IN LENGTHY DRILL

Erdlitz and Juzwik Kick Placements.

Musicians!

COLLEGE musicians and former members of the All-Star band residing in the Chicago district are invited to participate in the ceremony between the halves of the College All-Stars-Chicago Bears game in Soldiers' field on Aug. 23. A limited number of senior high school musicans also will be accepted. Musicians should write G. Cliffe Bainum, band director, Fisk hall, Northwestern university, Evanston, Ill.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Jack Jacobs and Bill Dudley, most talented of the College All-Star kickers, drilled yesterday afternoon at their specialty against alternating lines that rushed to block or hurry the punts in Dyche stadium. When the two hour drill was finished, the coaches were convinced that in this department of football the collegians will hold their own in the Soldiers' field battle with the Chicago Bears on Aug. 28.

The kicking practice under pressure was the first of the week, altho the punters have worked each day getting into condition. Jacobs and Dudley are left half backs and they already have proved their ability at forward passing and running, so their success yesterday rounds out the triple threat to the professional champions' defenses.

Punters Are Plentiful.

There are other fine punters on this All-Star squad. The group includes Bruce Smith, Minnesota half back, who is a bit slow getting into form because of a knee operation at the end of the 1941 season, and Bob Moser, Texas half back. Moser will help immeasurably when he gets into shape. He arrived Thursday night from California.

The All-Stars also boast of a quartet of excellent place kickers. Since the goal posts will be placed on the goal line for the Bears' game, one of these boys may come thru with field goals. The rule on location of the goal posts has been observed in all games as a concession to the pros, who must observe the college forward pass rule. This requires that the passer be at least five yards behind the line of scrimmage when he throws.

Erdlitz Is a Sharpshooter.

Steve Juzwik of Notre Dame, Pete Kmetovic of Stanford, Dick Erdlitz of Northwestern, and Jacobs are the All-Stars' place kickers. One of these men will be selected to kick for the point after touchdown. Erdlitz's record is impressive. The Northwestern quarter back made all placekick attempts in 1940 and missed only 2 in 17 tries last fall.

The morning workout was continuation of drill on forward pass plays. The coaches are teaching a forward pass pattern and a pocket defense, which they believe will protect the thrower until such fast receivers as Juzwik and Kmetovic can get loose in the Bears' secondary. It is apparent that Coach Bob Zuppke and his assistants believe in a wide open attack.

Fans Assured of Thrills.

Their lateral and forward pass plays may furnish more thrills for the thousands in Soldiers' field than the professionals' famed T formation. This kind of a game should produce several touchdowns and place the contest on a par with the 1938, 1940, and 1941 games, in which a total of 23 touchdowns were scored. The All-Stars won from Washington in 1938 and were beaten the other years by

COUNT FLEET IS CHIEF RIVAL IN SPRINT TODAY

11 Horses Named at Washington Park.

Futurity Field

ELEVEN 2 year olds were named in the overnight entries for today's Washington Park Futurity, a six furlong dash which will carry a gross purse of $69,875. The field, in order of post positions, follows:

Horse—	Wt.	Jockey.	Prob. odds.
Littletown	117	A. Snider	20-1
Glanceabout	117	E. W'lander	25-1
Occupation	122	L. Balaski	4-5
Blue Swords	117	A. Craig	8-1
Hygrohour	119	R. Neves	10-1
Likeasnot	117	K. Knott	30-1
Ringmenow	117	W. Garner	30-1
Big Me	114	S. Brooks	40-1
Free Speech	117	B. James	50-1
War Knight	117	F. A. Smith	7-1
Count Fleet	117	J. Longden	3-1

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Occupation makes his bid today for the 1942 juvenile money winning championship of the American turf. This fast breaking, strong finishing colt, owned by John Marsch of Chicago, will encounter 10 rivals in the $69,875 Washington Park Futurity—and if he is out in front, running free at the end of this 6 furlong dash, he will hoist his earnings to $117,575 with the winner's share of $58,475.

This figure will give him a well nigh unassailable hold on top ranking for the season with respect to earnings, and if he performs as he has in the past there will be little question of his right to the No. 1 position regardless of the financial aspects of the situation.

Alsab vs. With Regards.

In addition to the rich Futurity, the day's program will include a meeting between Alsab and With Regards, a pair of the nation's highest ranking 3 year olds. They are entered in the $3,500 7 furlong South Chicago handicap. Both are preparing for the American Derby, which will be run on Aug. 29. Alsab, winner of the Preakness and the Withers last spring, will be making the second start of his attempted comeback since recovering from a splint. Last Saturday he ran fourth to Defense, Sales Talk, and Woof Woof in a 6 furlong event.

It will be particularly gratifying to the crowd if, on the same program, Occupation shows he is a real champion and Alsab demonstrates he's on his way back to the top because both of these horses are protéges of Chicago race fans. Both got their start on Chicago tracks and from here Alsab went out last season to dominate his division against the best of the east. Now Occupation is displaying every indication that he's going to do likewise.

Count Fleet Is Challenger.

A number of colts have been assembled from the east and from the west to fling a challenge at Occupation today. Among the most highly regarded is Count Fleet, a son of Reigh Count owned by Mrs. John Hertz. In the east, Count Fleet won three races, one of them a stake, and was second three times in six starts. Then he came out to Chicago and delivered a winning effort Tuesday in a tuneup for today's big event.

That Tuesday race, however, brought a new contender into the situation. Blue Swords, a son of Blue Larkspur owned by A. T. Simmons, closed with tremendous speed, then swerved just as he was overtaking Count Fleet. Blue Swords' rider had to pull him up sharply to keep him from running up onto the heels of the leader. Then he got going again and missed beating Count Fleet by only a neck.

Littletown to Try Again.

Hygrohour, a colt which had been racing successfully at Suffolk Downs, was third in that race after setting the pace in the early stages. War Knight has come in from the far west after some impressive performances at Agua Caliente.

Littletown, the only horse which

This Is the All-Stars' Unified Command

A group of the nation's top coaches, headed by wily Bob Zuppke, Illinois head coach for 29 years, is grooming the College All-Stars for the game with the Chicago Bears, National Football league champions, in Soldiers' field Aug. 28. Here they are, left to right: Lon Stiner of Oregon State; Burt Ingwersen, Northwestern line coach; Homer Norton, Texas A. & M.; Zuppke; Lynn Waldorf, Northwestern, and Frank Leahy, Notre Dame. MISS JAMESON, MRS. MANN GAIN WESTERN FINAL

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Mrs. Russell Mann of Omaha, Neb., and Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Tex., two ladies who have been in the same rôles before, today will play 36 holes, more or less, for the 42d amateur championship of the Women's Western Golf association. Technically, Mrs. Mann is one up on Miss Jameson in the matter of championships, Betty having won the title only once before, while her opponent of today scored under her maiden name of Lucille Robinson in 1933, and then came back a year ago to repeat at Exmoor.

Betty Seeks Record.

There are a couple of other items involved in today's conclusion to what has been another great week of Chicago golf. One is that Mrs. Mann apparently aims to stomp all over that old golfing hex which says that medalists seldom go far in match play. Last year Lucille shared the qualifying honor with Eleanor Dudley and went on to win the championship for the second time. Last Monday, she defied the jinx again by winning the 1942 medal with a par card of 77.

Miss Jameson, the Texas sports

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The awakened Cubs yesterday played like major leaguers for the second successive afternoon and, behind the skillful pitching of Lon Warneke, found it delightful recreation to jolt the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7 to 1, in the opener of a five game series. The Chicagoans made 18 hits off three Pittsburgh pitchers—Bob Klinger, John Lanning, and Al Wilkie. Warneke yielded only seven hits, two of them in the ninth, and would have had a shutout, but for some of Lou Stringer's Fancy Dan stuff on a double play ball in the sixth.

The Cubs assured victory for themselves by hopping on Klinger at the outset, jolting him for four runs on seven hits in the first 1⅔ innings, the slamming including a first inning homer by Bill Nicholson and a second inning homer by Stan Hack. Bill's was his 12th and his second in successive innings, counting Thursday's eighth inning against the Cardinals. Hack's was his sixth of the year. Nicholson also had two singles and a walk and Hack had three singles.

They All Lend a Hand.

Every Cub except Warneke hit safely. Dom Dallessandro had a double and two singles, Stringer had three singles, and Lenny Merullo a triple and a single.

Hack and Nicholson made enough runs to win before the Pirates effected their second putout. Hack opened the Chicago offensive with a single and, after Stringer had whiffed, scored with Nicholson when Bill socked a 375 footer into the stands in left center, a sector he rarely picks as a target. Dallessandro singled but the inning ended with two runs.

Chico Hernandez opened the second inning with a single but Warneke hit into a double play. Hack then knocked his homer, which was followed by singles by Stringer and Nicholson, and an error by Pete Coscarart which produced another run.

Wilkie Is a Nice Fellow.

The Cubs made five hits off Lanning in the next four innings but were unable to resume scoring until after Wilkie took over at the start of the seventh inning.

Dallessandro opened the seventh with a double and stopped at third on Rip Russell's single to left. Coscarart threw out Phil Cavarretta, Dallessandro scoring. Then Merullo tripled to left, scoring Russell. George Magerkurth, working at first base under a two umpire setup, thought Al Lopez picked Merullo off third. It was a ridiculous decision, but, in view of the score, nobody cared much.

Hack lined out his fourth hit with

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 14.—The White Sox, who apparently haven't recovered from the dizzy effects of their nine-game winning streak, made further progress in the opposite direction today by assimilating their fourth consecutive defeat. They did next to nothing with their bats and aided the Tigers with bits of unorthodox fielding while losing the series opener, 7 to 1.

The Sox hitting, which was no more annoying than a fly bite on an elephant's hide, went dead after reaching the unimpressive total of four off Hal White, the rookie from Buffalo who previously had lost ten while winning seven. Two of the safeties came in the third with two out, a chance Myril Hoag permitted to escape by fanning. Luke Appling furnished a drive that gave the Chicagoans a brief lead in the fourth and thereafter White refused to be delayed. The only obstacle in his last five innings was a two bagger by Joe Kuhel.

Lee Is Good for a While.

Thornton Lee, making his third start of the year with his previously lame left arm, went along handsomely for five innings, during which there were only three hits. One happened to be Rudy York's 18th homer, which tied the score. Then the sixth arrived and everything went wrong. Jim Bloodworth exploded a homer to break the 1 to 1 tie and, before the inning had closed, two more runs were recorded because of blunders, one by Lee and the other by Hoag. However, the slight taint was thoroly erased in the eighth. The Tigers added three more runs, in which hits and passes were the sole ingredients.

The Sox couldn't cut a dividend on their first two hits in the third inning, but the one safety in the fourth was enough to solve their problem of how to get a run. Appling led off with a double to left and went to third while Taft Wright was being thrown out. After Kuhel had walked Appling sneaked in on Bob Kennedy's infield out. This slim advantage remained only until York stepped up with one out in the same inning. He tied it with his homer which went into the center field seats beyond a 400 foot marker.

Trouble Really Breaks Loose.

The disturbing sixth opened with Bloodworth's 12th homer and, while that was bad enough, the worst was yet to come. Rog Cramer blooped a double behind third and Barney McCosky sacrificed, but Lee lost him by making a bad throw to Kuhel. York flied high over left center and Wright fully intended to make the catch but, at the last moment, Hoag tried to snatch the ball out of the air. It dropped out of his hands for an error, Cramer scoring. Pinky Higgins

Boy with a Bubble Pipe.

And produced a remarkable picture for me

In kaleidoscopic array
And rose from the bowl of his white clay pipe
To float in fantastical way . . .

And one in particular beckoned my eye
And brought back a scene that shall last,
For it showed me again my earlier days

I could see myself puffing a small clay pipe
In one bubble that rose o'er the lawn;
But, just like my magical, carefree youth,
It suddenly snapped and was gone.

Nothing has value to equal that youth
Now twice precious because it has flown;
And a boy blowing bubbles and dreams in the air
Makes me weary, and old, and alone.

DOUGHERTY AND VICINI TO CLASH IN COUNTY FINAL

Harrison Coach Bids for Second Golf Crown.

Bob Dougherty of Navajo Fields and Harrison Tech High school will seek his second consecutive men's Cook county amateur golf championship when he meets Dante Vicini of the home club in a 36 hole final match on the Columbus park course today. The pair will play 18 holes starting at 9:30 a. m. and, after a brief rest play the final 18 holes.

In advancing to the finals yesterday, Dougherty disposed of Louis Esposito, former caddy, 4 and 3. Vicini's opponent in the semi-final round, the veteran Thomas Thompson of the home club, forced their match to go to the 17th green before yielding, 3 and 1.

Takes Week Off to Play.

Vicini, who turned in a medal score of 71 on qualifying day, was not one of the favorites. The 29 year old clerk, employed by a paper concern, took a leave from work this week to compete in the west side meet. He established residence in Chicago in January, coming from Ottawa, Ill., to take his present job. When he lived in Ottawa he competed in the Illinois Valley meet, was runner-up during 1939 and 1940, and last year in his third attempt won the championship.

Finals also will be played today in the first and second flights, in which the finalists will have to play only 18 holes to decide the trophy winners. In the first flight Guy Murphy of River Forest will oppose Alex Kamazura, unattached. The second flight championship match sends Larry Bassuk of Waveland against Al Stacey of Columbus Park.

CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT.

Dante Vicini, Columbus Park, beat Thomas Thompson, Columbus Park, 2 and 1.

FIRST FLIGHT.

Alex Kamazura beat Walter Dyer, 3 and 1.

SECOND FLIGHT.

Larry Bassuk beat Chester Wirtel, 1 up.

Sox Beaten by Tigers, 7 to 1; 4th Straight walked, filling the bases, and there still was nobody out. McCosky counted the third run of the inning while Don Ross was rolling into a double play.

Lee had two Tigers out in the eighth when York came up, as the possible third out. Remembering the homer, Lee fed the Cherokee bad pitches on which there was no nibble. So York walked and the second three run parade started. Higgins followed with a single and Ross with a base-loading pass. Murray Franklin whistled a single past Kennedy to score York and Higgins. Dixie Parsons dumped a single back of first base and Ross registered.

The second of the series tomorrow will be a matter between Johnny Humphries of the Sox and Al Benton of the Tigers. . . . Sammy West, who has got along pretty well, despite a chronic leg ailment for 15 years, jammed the weak limb in a slide yesterday. He will have to rest for a few days. . . . Today's flag raising ceremony was conducted without the national anthem. The phonograph refused to work. . . . Manager James Dykes now has two pet peeves. One is the umpires and the other Don Kolloway, who is too lackadaisical to suit the boss. . . . The Tigers expect to raise $50,000 for the Army-Navy relief funds in their double header here with the Browns Aug. 23. . . . The veteran Charley Gehringer expects to learn tomorrow whether he is acceptable to the navy. He has already passed his physical examination. .

Hawthorne Pledges Day's Receipts to Army, Navy

Charles Krutckoff, president of the Chicago Business Men's Racing association, which operates the Hawthorne race track, announced yesterday that the entire profits of Saturday, Sept. 26, will be turned over to the Army and Navy Relief Funds as its contribution to the war effort program. The Hawthorne meeting will open Sept. 9 and close on Oct. 17.

In $69,875 Futurity Field

Count, Fleet, 2 year old son of Reigh Count, is regarded as one of the stronger entries in today's $69,875 Washington Park Futurity. Count Fleet, owned by Mrs. John Hertz, won three races and finished second in three in six starts in the east.

Miss Jameson, Mrs. Mann in Western Final

writer, also has a chance to append a new record, that of being the first woman to win the WWGA Open and Amateur within the same season. She made certain of the first phase of that by running off with the Open crown at Elmhurst late in June. If she can bring off this double, she also will avert Lucille's attempt to be the fourth woman in the tournament's records to score a triple in the Amateur.

A Bit of a Scare.

The limb climbers who anticipated a Mann-Jameson final were given more than a bit of a scare in yesterday afternoon's 18 hole semi-finals before Mrs. Mann put out her final rival of last year, young Mary Agnes Wall of Menominee, Mich., by a 1 up margin, while Miss Jameson was being forced 17 holes to win a 3 and 1 match from Dorothy Ellis, the putting sensation of the tournament from Indianapolis.

The Mann-Wall match drew the bulk of the gallery, not only because they teed off first, but also because of the elegant final battle the two pals put on at Exmoor a year ago. It appeared that Lucille was not going to make her third WWGA final without a deal of work after they went over the first nine all even. Mrs. Mann's hopes were even nearer to a black-out after the first 14 holes, at which point she stood 2 down. She answered that by taking the next three holes with pars, and matching Mary Agnes' 25 footer for a par on the 18th with a three foot halving effort of her own after she had escaped the sand at the right.

Betty 2 Up at Turn.

Miss Jameson, going her customary calm way, playing the golf needed to stay in front without any undue exertion, held a comfortable 2 up margin over Miss Ellis at the end of the first nine, which she rounded with the best medal card of the foursome, a 40, two over par. She added to that with wins at the 10th and 13th, and came to the 15th tee, 4 up. Here Miss Ellis took advantage of a Jameson error and cut the Open champion's lead to 2 up with a 25 foot birdie putt at the 16th. Then the sand caught Dorothy at the short 17th, and it was all over.

The cards:

Par—Out	455	434	535—38
Mrs. Mann—Out	445	545	635—41
Miss Wall—Out	555	434	645—41

Match even.

Par—In	454	553	535—39—77
Mrs. Mann—In	655	553	525—41—82
Miss Wall—In	454	554	645—42—83

Mrs. Mann wins, 1 up.

Par—Out	455	434	535—38
Miss Jameson—Out	645	444	535—40
Miss Ellis—Out	554	534	646—42

Miss Jameson leads, 2 up.

Par—In	454	553	535—39—77
Miss Jameson—In	455	554	63
Miss Ellis—In	555	653	44

Miss Jameson wins, 3 and 1.

CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT—Mrs. Russell Mann, Omaha, Neb., beat Mary Agnes Wall, Menominee, Mich., 1 up; Betty Jameson, San Antonio, Tex., beat Dorothy Ellis, Indianapolis, 3 and 1.

Grand Circuit Racing Is Postponed Second Day

Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 14 (AP).—The final day's program of the grand circuit meeting was postponed today for the second consecutive day. The 10 heat card, featuring the trotting derby, will be held tomorrow.

War Knight will represent the far west. The Pacific coast juvenile has performed impressively at Agua Caliente.

ever has finished ahead of Occupation, will try again today. He has run poorly in his last three races after having beaten Occupation in the Joliet and Primer stakes in June.

Others in the field are Glanceabout, Likeasnot, Ringmenow, Big Mex, and Free Speech.

Occupation's most important previous victory was scored in the Arlington Futurity last month. If he wins today he may go on to run his earnings to spectacular heights for a juvenile as he is eligible for the Futurities at Belmont and Pimlico, both of which carry sizable purses.

Alsab Has Tough Assignment.

In addition to Alsab and With Regards, the field of 10 in the South Chicago handicap includes Best Seller, Sales Talk, Signator, and other talented performers.

Alsab's job will be particularly tough today because of With Regards' demonstrated ability to take the lead early and hold it stubbornly. If he gets to the front today without too severe a brush with other fast beginners he's expected to be mighty hard to catch at seven furlongs.

Athletic Program to Be Feature of Irish Day

Chicago Park district champions, including Sally Kuhn, who was second to Stella Walsh, Olympic champion, in the 100 yard dash in the intercity Chicago-Cleveland AAU meet in Cleveland last year, will compete in the athletic program which will be a feature of the afternoon program at the Irish day celebration today at Harms park, 4207 North Western avenue. Helen Muehselder, 11 years old; Don Kennedy, and other youths from Welles park will also participate. Harold Whyte, 15, champion horseshoe player, will give an exhibition.

Freeport Entrant Fires 150; Jay Horn 2d.

Elmer D. Hoffman, Freeport, Ill., insurance broker, yesterday successfully defended his Illinois southpaw golf championship at the Evanston Golf club with a 36 hole score of 75—75—150.

Trailing in second place was Jay Horn of Chicago who went to pieces in the afternoon round to post a 71—82—153. His morning card of 37—34—71, one over par, was the best 18 hole score of the tournament. He bogied the last four holes where par golf would have given him the championship.

The Rev. L. J. Cure of Chicago placed third with 78—79—157. Jack Lightner and Ralph Wanger were tied for fourth with 164 and Sam Alpert, a former champion, was fifth with 82—84—166.

Gus Novotny of Memphis yesterday et the scoring pace with a well-played par 36—36—72 for the first 18 holes of Glen Oak Country club's 27th annual Roundup. His closest rivals were John Morrell, home club champion, and Warren Davson of Glen Oak, who were tied at 74, W. H. Brown, another home player, had 75.

The best net, 93—29—64, was recorded by Clarence Dickleman of Glen Oak. Ben Conforti of Westward Ho followed with 76—7—69.

Gus Novotny, Memphis, Tenn., 36—36—72; John Morrell, Glen Oak, 37—37—74; Warren Dawson, Glen Oak, 36—38—74; W. H. Brown, Glen Oak, 37—38—75; Ben Conforti, Westward Ho, 36—40—76; Tom Frainey, unattached, 40—36—76; Don Armstrong, Aurora, 36—40—76; Robert Grimm, Glen Oak, 41—35—76; Clarence Eichberger, Glen Oak, 40—38—78; J. DAVIS, WYATT, DODGERS DEFEAT BRAVES, 10-0, 7-3

Camilli's Two Homers Tie Mize for Lead.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 14 (AP).—Dolph Camilli moved into a tie with Johnny Mize of the New York Giants for the home run leadership of the National league today as the Brooklyn Dodgers swept a double header from the Boston Braves, 10 to 0 and 7 to 3.

Curt Davis handcuffed the Braves on seven hits in the first game, pitching the Dodgers to their third straight shutout and gaining his 12th victory against five defeats.

GIANTS, 5; PHILS, 2.

New York, Aug. 14 (AP).—Carl Hubbell pitched the New York Giants to a 5 to 2 victory over the Philadelphia Phils today, yielding four hits for his seventh straight triumph and his eighth of the season. The Giants got only six hits off Si Johnson and Sam Nahem, but made three of them count for as many runs in the seventh and eighth innings after the Phils had tied the score twice on homers by Danny Litwhiler and Ron Northey. CARDS, 4; REDS, 0.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 14 (AP).—Mort Cooper won his 14th victory of 1942 tonight, yielding two hits to the Cincinnati Reds as the St. Louis Cardinals won, 4 to 0.

Cooper's arm, which had acted finicky in recent games, worked smoothly. Not a Red passed first base. Paul Derringer started the game in the same vein as Cooper, but he got off the track in the fourth. Having allowed only one hit until then, Derringer started the fourth by walking Stan Musial. Walker Cooper singled the runner to third, from where he scored on George Kurowski's fly. It was Derringer's eighth loss. He has won six games. Score:

Colored Nines Work Out for All-Star Game

The vanguard of players who will take part in the 10th annual East-West colored All-Star baseball game in Comiskey park tomorrow arrived yesterday. Both teams will work out this afternoon.

Manager W. S. Welch of the West team has been forced to change his lineup due to injury to Tommy Sampson, Birmingham second baseman, who was hit in the head by a pitched ball Monday night. Fred Bankhead, brother of the East's second sacker, Sammy Bankhead, will play second for the West.

Double Play Combination Intact.

Altho Parnell Woods, manager of the Cincinnati Buckeyes, is listed at third, Welsh may switch to Carter of Memphis before game time. The West's best double play combination of Tom J. Brown of Memphis at short and Bankhead on second, remains intact. Joe O'Neil of Kansas City is a fixture on first.

Satchel Paige will be the West's starting hurler, but Satchel may find plenty of trouble with such hitters as Josh Gibson, Washington Homestead Grays' first baseman; Telelo Vargas, the Cuban center fielder; Dan Wilson of the New York Black Yanks, and Pearson of the Newark Eagles.

Day East's Pitching Choice.

Heavy hitters for the West include Willard Brown, center fielder; Ted Strong, right fielder; Joe O'Neil, first baseman, and Green, catcher, all of the Kansas City Monarchs.

RHEINGOLD GIRLS WIN 2 GAMES IN SOFTBALL LEAGUE

The Rheingold Girls won a double header last night in the Girls' Major Softball league, defeating the Mosby Realtors, 2 to 0, behind Marge Nicholls' one hit pitching and then rallying for five runs in the ninth to defeat the Match Corporation Girls, 6 to 5, in Rand stadium. Sunny Berger held the Elmhurst V 8's to one hit as the Garden City Maids scored a 2 to 0 victory in Shewbridge field. Parichy and Rockola tied, 4 to 4, in 13 innings at Rockola stadium. Tonight's schedule:

Kokomo, Ind., vs. Garden City Maids, Shewbridge field, 74th and Aberdeen streets; Match Corporation Girls vs. Rockolas, Rockola stadium, 4200 North Central avenue; Elmhurst V 8's vs. Rheingold Girls, Rand stadium, 75th street and Euclid avenue, and Mosby Realtors vs. Parichy Bloomer Girls, Parichy stadium, Harlem avenue and Harrison street.

Yankees Set Mark with 7 Double Plays

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 14 (AP).—The New York Yankees set a new major league record tonight by reeling off seven double plays as they pounded out 15 hits to beat the Athletics, 11 to 2, before 17,956 at Shibe park.

The previous record for double plays was six, held jointly by several clubs.

The Yanks pulled their first double play in the first inning when Pete Suder fanned and Bill Dickey threw out Mike Kreevich at third. In the third Dickey again doubled Kreevich as Elmer Valo struck out. The A's filled the bases with one out in the fifth, setting the stage for the third double play when Kreevich grounded to Joe Gordon. The other double plays came in the sixth, seventh, eighth, and ninth.

Crown 2 New Champions in AAU Swim

Neenah, Wis., Aug. 14 [Special].—Two new national champions were crowned tonight as the 1942 three day National AAU women's swimming meet opened.

In the 100 meter free style, 17 year old Suzanne Zimmerman of the Multnomah Athletic club, Portland, Ore., took over the crown won by Brenda Helser of the same club two years ago. Miss Helser finished third, behind Marilyn Sahner of the New York Women's Swimming association.

Joan Fogle of Indianapolis won the 300 meter individual medley. This title was vacated by Chicko Moyamoto of Hawaii, who was unable to appear because of the war. Second place was taken by Betty Bemis of Indianapolis, with Patricia McWhorter, Watching Lake club, Plainfield, N. J., third, and Patty Aspinall, Indianapolis, fourth.

The 1,500 meter free style crown was retained by Nancy Merki, Multnomah Athletic club, Portland, Ore., who failed to better the mark of 22:12.2 she set last year. Her time was 22 minutes 18.2 seconds. Ann Hardin of Indianapolis, was second and June Fogle, Indianapolis, Ind., third.

Today's activities also included exhibition birling, exhibition diving, and synchronized swimming.

100 METER FREE STYLE—Won by Suzanne Zimmerman, Portland, Ore.; Marilyn Sahner, New York, second; Brenda Helser, Portland, third; Patricia McWhorter, Plainfield, N. J., fourth. Time, 1:10.3.

ARMY LEADER TELLS NEED OF SPORTS IN WAR

Boston, Mass., Aug. 14 [Special].—Continuation of sports, as a means of maintaining civilian morale, and thru "the people at home," that of the boys in the service, was urged by Col. John T. Taylor, assistant director of the department of public relations in Washington, in an address to sports writers, coaches and promoters. His remarks were interpreted here today as a green light to the nation's leaders in all sports.

"Many of the folks at home are making more money than ever before," Col. Taylor said. "Their pockets are stuffed and they need an outlet from the grind of their long hours at work. If we can't furnish that outlet by commercial sports, they are going to find other ways which are not so pleasant and not the least bit helpful as far as public morale is concerned. Furthermore, whether we realize it or not, civilian and army morale go hand in hand. As the people at home react the boys in the service follow.

"So we need sports. And sports, incidentally, are doing a whale of a job, not only from the standpoint of providing entertainment for the public, but as well in raising money for war relief. For the work that is being accomplished thru sports, we in the army know that baseball, football, horse racing, basketball, hockey and other commercial sports must continue."

East Chicago Legion Nine Beats Cedar Rapids, 2-1

St. Joseph, Mo., Aug. 14 (AP).—East Chicago, Ind., defeated Cedar Rapids, Ia., 2 to 1, in a 10 inning game tonight in the regional American Legion baseball tournament. George Elish, East Chicago left hander, fanned 16 batters, allowed only four hits, and drove in the winning run. St. Louis and Rockford, Ill., will play tomorrow night. The championship finals will be Sunday. Score:

ZUPPKE MAKES BEARS' TRAINING TASKS HARDER

Pros Don't Know What to Expect.

BY EDWARD PRELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Delafield, Wis., Aug. 14.—All because of a tricky man named Bob Zuppke, the task of preparing for their fourth appearance in the College All-Star game is proving more difficult for the Chicago Bears than those which have gone before. The professional football champions today rounded out their first week in camp, a week jammed with 13 practice sessions on the field plus special and regular classroom studies during the day and at night.

Zuppke, coach of the All-Americans who will seek to break the vicelike grip of the pros on Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 28, is making the champions work overtime because they don't know what to expect.

Don't Know What's Coming.

"We don't know what he's going to throw at us," Luke Johnsos, the end coach, admitted today. "So we'll have to be prepared for anything from a four to a seven man line. This is making it necessary for us to explore every possibility, both on defense and offense, to be ready for the All-Stars' strongly guarded strategy."

Johnsos said the Bears were sort of expecting to see some superfancy spreads and the employment of Zuppke's famous flea flicker and flying trapeze plays. "We wouldn't be surprised to have him spring Tandem '08," added the one time Northwestern end. "It may be that right during the game we'll have to call time out and think up a defense for the All-Stars on the spot. But this won't do us much good if one of those spread plays goes for a touchdown."

In their last three trips to the Soldiers' field spectacle, the Bears were matched against coaches with definite styles of play. Noble Kizer of Purdue, head man of the first All-Star team in 1934, and Frank Thomas of Alabama, the 1935 head coach, both used the Notre Dame system. Carl Snavely of Cornell, the 1941 Collegians' leader, employed the single and double wingback.

Game Can Go Either Way.

The Bears seem to think this game can go either way—a wild scoring spree in the manner of recent All-Star games—or a return of those gruelling low score battles in the earlier numbers. Johnsos, for instance, wonders if Zuppke wouldn't be satisfied to hold the Bears scoreless, figuring a 0 to 0 tie would be a moral victory.

Leonard Akin, former Baylor guard, who spent two years with the Milwaukee Chiefs, was the main casualty of that unscheduled scrimmage. An old injury to his right shoulder was aggravated, his wrist was twisted, and Bulldog Turner stepped on his instep. Despite these mishaps Akin's play at guard was impressive.

one out in the eighth, and the bases were loaded on singles by Nicholson and Dallessandro. Hack got home on a fumble by Huck Geary.

Warneke lost his shutout thuswise: With one out in the sixth, Jimmy Wasdell singled to left for his second and Pittsburgh's third hit. Johnny Barrett then bounced a double play ball to Stringer, who attempted a nonchalant flip to Merullo at second. The display was faulty, and Wasdell was safe at second and Barrett at first. Dallessandro made a circus catch of Bob Elliott's drive to the vines in left center, but Elbie Fletcher singled to center, scoring Wasdell.

The Cubs and Pittsburgh Pirates will meet in a double header this afternoon and another tomorrow. Hi Bithorn and Vern Olsen are scheduled to pitch this afternoon for the Cubs. Frankie Frisch had a terrible time making up his mind after picking Bob Klinger yesterday, but finally decided on Henry Gornicki and Luke Hamlin for today.

Lou Novikoff yesterday tried to take a few swings with a bat, but found himself hampered by his wounded wrist, so there's no telling when he'll be back to work.

General Manager Jim Gallagher of the Cubs and President Bill Benswanger of the Pirates conferred vigorously during yesterday's game, but cannot make any trades, except on the waiver basis, until after Sept. 15.

STILLER TAKES STATE 3 MILE BICYCLE TITLE

Albert Stiller of the Mazzini club won the Illinois state bicycle championship at three miles last night on the Humboldt park bowl. Marvin Thomson, Barrett club, finished second, and Pierre de Vise, Mazzini club, third. The time was 6:32.1.

The one hour team race was won by the team of Frank Brilando, Barrett club, and Evo Passaglio, C. Y. O., with 58 points. The runner-ups were Thomson and Don Hyerdall with 45. Third place went to Joe Gaspari and Bill Johank with 19.

Virginia Expects Bill Dudley to Do His Duty as an All-Star

Bill Dudley.

They say that success is sweeter when it arrives unexpectedly. Perhaps that is why the folks around Richmond, Va., still break into ecstasies whenever mention is made of the University of Virginia's 1941 football season or more to the point, of its captain, William McGarvey Dudley. It was like a dream come true when the Cavaliers rolled over all of their traditional rivals by topheavy scores, losing only to Yale, 21 to 19.

But the feat which has Virginia fans still rubbing their eyes was that of Capt. Bill Dudley leading the entire country in scoring, breaking all records in ground gaining, earning a place on the leading All-American teams [not, mind you, the little All-Americans] and going on to win the Walter Camp and the Maxwell awards as "player of the year."

They Have Plans for Him.

Bill Dudley is a prominent member of the College All-Star squad now in training at Dyche stadium, where he looms large in the offensive team plans for the game with the Chicago Bears in Soldiers' field, Aug. 28.

Dudley, who is Virginia's first All-American player, is also the first Cavalier to win a place on the college All-Star team. The modest young fellow who hails from the little coal mining town of Bluefield, Va., thus is doubly anxious to make good in competition against the national football champions. He doesn't want to let the home folks down.

Dudley swept across the gridiron skies last fall with the suddenness of a meteor. Altho he had attained stardom in his own particular sector as a sophomore and junior, it wasn't until 1941 that Coach Frank Murray's pupil attracted the national spotlight by his extraordinary feats. He compiled a record which as one competent football critic said, "Is almost too amazing to believe."

This Is the Record.

1. Topped the nation's scorers with 134 points. Scored 18 touchdowns, 23 points after touchdowns, and one field goal. He also threw 12 touchdown passes.

2. Gained 2,467 yards from rushing, pass receiving, and punt and kickoff returns. This total is made up of 157 runs from scrimmage for a total of 857 yards; 58 passes completed out of 107 for 860 yards.

3. He not only did almost all of Virginia's passing, but he also did the kicking off and punting. His punts averaged 36 yards and one of his quick kicks had an over-all gain of 74 yards.

From the foregoing it can be surmised that this scourge of southern gridirons was pretty much a jack-of-all trades. He ran, he bucked, he passed, he received, he punted, he place

STOCKS SPURT UP BUT LOSE ZEST IN LATE TRADING

Gains Range to 2 Points Before Let-down.

New York, Aug. 14 (AP).—The stock market brightened today, with favorable news from the Solomon Islands and the improved outlook for a senate tax bill more favorable to corporate needs, but failed to maintain early strength.

Aircrafts came to life after a hesitant opening and, in fast dealings for a while, leading steels, air transports, rails, oils, liquors, amusements, and specialties pushed up fractions to 2 points. New highs for the year or longer were plentiful.

There was a let down in activity as the session progressed, however, and gains were reduced or canceled in many cases at the close.

Average Ilolds Gain.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks recorded a net advance of 0.2 of a point at 36.6. Transfer of 379,580 shares compared with 317,140 yesterday and was the largest since July 22.

It was the broadest market in two weeks, 626 individual issues traded.

The aviation group was spurred by the expectation of the maintenance of heavy demand for transport planes as well as fighting craft. Motion picture stocks reflected improved earnings figures and prospects for expanding box office receipts.

Stocks reaching new highs included Warner Brothers, the liveliest performer of the day, with a net gain of ⅛; Ohio Oil, 20th Century-Fox, United States Rubber preferred, Hiram Walker, United Merchants and Manufacturers, United Air Lines, and American Sumatra Tobacco.

CHICAGO STOCKS RISE.

The Chicago Stock exchange price movement was mostly upward yesterday. In volume of 12,000 shares, gains were recorded for 49 stocks, declines for 14, and no change for 13 other issues traded. Brown Fence and Wire, the volume leader, Zenith Radio, and Borg-Warner made fractional gains. Consumers company preferred reached a 1942 high of 11½, but dipped ¼ before the close.

REPUBLIC STEEL SIGNS CONTRACT WITH CIO UNION

Girdler Not Among Those Present.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 14 (AP).—Republic Steel corporation announced today it has signed a contract with the CIO United Steel Workers of America, incorporating 44 cent daily pay raises recently ordered by the War Labor board.

Tom M. Girdler.

The agreement came more than five years after the "little steel" strike for recognition—a strike which kept almost a million workers in seven states idle for six weeks, resulted in the loss of 16 lives and then collapsed.

Girdler Doesn't Have to Sign.

"Before I sign a CIO contract, I'll go back to the farm and dig potatoes."

Girdler, now also chairman of Consolidated Aircraft corporation, did not need to sign today's agreement. This was left to other Republic officials.

The contract covers wages, hours and working conditions for about 50,000 employés and specifies that "neither the union nor any employés, individually or collectively, shall cause or take part in any strike or other interruption or any impeding of production at any plant covered by the agreement."

Union Security Included.

Any employé or employés violating this provision may be discharged by the company, the announcement said. The contracts also call for maintenance of union membership and check-off of union dues, as ordered by the WLB.

"It is the intention of Republic to do everything in its power to make the contract work," said J. A. Voss director of industrial relations and a contract signer for the company.

The agreement covers the company's steel plant, continuous strip mill, steel and tubes division and bolt and nut division at Cleveland; the Youngstown plant; the Warren and Niles [O.], mills and the Niles Steel Products company; Ideal Foundry division, Newton, Falls, O.; the steel mill and Union Drawn Steel company at Massillon; the steel mill and Berger Manufacturing division at Canton, and the plants at South Chicago, Grand Crossing [Chicago], Buffalo, and Troy, N. Y. The contract does not include Republic's southern plants.

Youngstown Sheet Signs.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 14 (AP).—The CIO United Steelworkers announced today that two more "little steel" corporations—Republic and Youngstown Sheet and Tube—have signed contracts with the union as required by the War Labor board's decision last month.

Bethlehem Steel is the only one of the four companies not yet signed. The union said that "negotiators, meeting in New York, are in virtual agreement on terms of that contract." Inland Steel signed Aug. 5.

DUN SAYS RETAIL SALES GAIN, BUT LAG BEHIND 1941

New York, Aug. 14 (AP).—Retail sales increased during the last week, Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., reported today, adding that cash trade was accounting for more business than credit.

"Stores in rural sections and neighborhood retailers in war towns were benefiting most from the increase of incomes," the report said. It added that the loss of durable goods volume was a pronounced factor in the general down trend from year ago totals.

Compared with the corresponding week of 1941, dollar volume of retail sales was down 7 to 14 per cent, with large city department stores reporting the sharpest declines.

Decatur Man Named WPB Transportation Chairman

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 (AP).—Appointment of A. F. Shafter of Decatur, Ill., as acting chairman of the WPB transportation committee was announced today. Edgar B. Stern, committee chairman, has been granted an indefinite leave of absence because of illness.

Urge General Motors Equal Ford Pay Rate

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 (AP).—The majority of a three-man panel recommended to the War Labor board today an increase of 5 cents an hour for more than 225,000 employés of the General Motors corporation. Two CIO unions had asked for an increase of $1 a day, or 12½ cents an hour. The panel said the raise would make General Motors wages equal to those paid by the Ford Motor company.

The majority also recommended a maintenance-of-membership clause, effective as of last Jan. 1. The wage increase would be retroactive to April 28, the date the old contract expired.

Fowler V. Harper, dean of the University of Indiana law school, the public member, and Patrick Fagan, of the United Mine Workers, the labor member, constituted the panel majority. Wilbur H. Doran of the Metropolitan Edison company, Reading, Pa., the industry member, recommended an increase of 1½ cents an hour and a maintenance-of-membership clause effective on whatever date the board issues its order.

Would Match Ford Pay.

The recommended increase included 1½ cents an hour as an adjustment for increased living costs, and 3½ cents to equalize rates with those in Ford plants.

The panel's report said average hourly earnings of General Motors workers advanced from 97.9 cents an hour in January, 1941, when they were working an average of 41.8 hours per week, to $1.147 an hour in May, 1942, when they were working an average of 45.6 hours per week.

After allowing for overtime payments, the panel estimated the average earnings at straight time advanced from 94.1 cents to $1.065. The panel said that represented an increase of 13.4 per cent compared with the cost of living advance of 15 per cent in that period.

Differ on Security Clause.

Under the maintenance of membership clause recommended by the majority, employés who were members in good standing last Jan. 1 would have to maintain their good standing in the union for the life of the contract, or lose their jobs. Doran argued that dismissal from employment should be invoked only if the employé refused to consent to deduction of his dues. He would not necessarily have to remain a member.

The panel also recommended unanimously that the present agreement covering hours of work and overtime pay, which ended the practice of paying double time for Sundays and holidays, as such, should be continued.

AUTHORIZES POOL BY OIL FIRMS OF TECHNICAL DATA

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 (AP).—Petroleum Coördinator Harold Ickes authorized seven companies today to pool certain technical information involved in production of aviation gasoline and other war products, and simultaneously urged that such pooling of information be accepted as a policy by the petroleum industry.

The policy would result, he said, in a speed up in output of aviation gas, toluene, and other products, and, at the same time, increasing conservation in critical materials used in construction of processing and refining plants.

The seven companies—Shell Development company, Standard Catalytic company, Standard Oil Development company, Texaco Development corporation, Standard Oil Company of Indiana, Universal Oil Products company, the M. W. Kellogg company, and their respective affiliates—were authorized to negotiate cross-license and licensing agreements which will make their patented processes available to the entire oil industry.

STEEL PLATE OUTPUT FOR SHIPS, ARMS SETS RECORD FOR 6 MONTHS

New York, Aug. 14 (AP).—Production of steel plates, raw material for ships and armament, in the first half of this year equaled 80 per cent of total plate output for all of 1941, the American Iron and Steel institute said today.

A record breaking total of 5,174,000 tons of plates was reported, exceeding by a wide margin the output of any other single class of steel products.

Total output of steel products was 32,684,000 tons, 5 per cent above the total for the first half of last year. Heavy products manufacture made the greatest adavance at the expense of light products. Sheet steel, like that used in automobile bodies, dropped 28 per cent, and strip steel was down 20 per cent.

JONES, LAUGHLIN TRIMS COMMON STOCK DIVIDEND

Directors of Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation, the nation's fourth largest steel producer, yesterday declared a dividend of 50 cents a share on its new common stock, a reduction of 25 cents from the rate paid in June. A quarterly dividend of $1.25 a share also was ordered on the new 5 per cent cumulative preferred stocks, series A and D. The dividends were the first since the corporation's recapitalization after purchase on July 1 of the Otis Steel company, Cleveland.

The following dividends were declared yesterday:

U. S. AND BOLIVIA AGREE ON BROAD ECONOMIC PLAN

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 (AP).—The state department announced today that agreements have been reached with a Bolivian economic mission for financing a large-scale program of mining, agriculture, highway, and industrial development in that country by the United States.

The announcement also disclosed that conferences with Dr. Joaquin Espada, minister of finance, and Dr. Alberto Crespo, minister of national economy of Bolivia, resulted in a tentative understanding looking toward negotiations with Bolivia to begin servicing its dollar debt.

The amounts of the various credits to be extended by this government were not stipulated, altho a recent announcement by President Penaranda of Bolivia at La Paz said the total would approach 30 million dollars.

SOUTHERN BELL ARRANGES BIG DEBENTURE SALE

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 14 (AP).—The Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company announced today that it had arranged to sell to eight insurance companies 35 million dollars of 2¾ per cent, 30 year debentures at 98½, to yield 2.825 per cent.

The company said the sale would provide for repayment of advances of about 31 million from the American Telephone and Telegraph company, and for general corporate purposes. Sales will be to the following companies:

Equitable Life, 10 million dollars; Metropolitan Life, 8 million; Aetna Life, 3 million; John Hancock, 4 million; Mutual Benefit, 2 million; Penn Mutual, 3 million; Sun Life, 3 million, and Union Central, 2 million.

War Bond Redemptions 'Insignificant': Treasury

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 (AP).—The treasury said today that redemptions of war savings bonds have been "insignificant in volume, compared either with the total amount outstanding or with month by month sales." In July the public turned in 25½ millions of bonds for cash. This was 0.23 per cent of the $11,077,800,000 of savings bonds sold since 1935, or about 3 per cent of the $900,900,000 of new war bonds sold during July.

OPA Files Suit to End 'Black' Steel Market

Accusing Willard P. Markle of charging 68 per cent in excess of legal ceiling prices. The OPA attorneys today obtained a temporary injunction against the former Houston, Tex., warehouseman. Their civil suit said he had bought 80 tons of steel and sold it to the New Orleans shipbuilding interests of Andrew J. Higgins.

Federal Judge Robert N. Wilkin set Aug. 24 for a hearing on the government's request for a permanent injunction restraining Markle from purchasing and reselling steel at rates higher than ceiling prices.

Defendant in Hospital.

Markle, who is in a Cleveland hospital for an eye operation, told a reporter the steel he sold was fabricated material on which he knew of no ceiling prices.

"Those men are talking thru their hats when they say I made 68 per cent profit," the 72 year old defendant declared. "I sold at prices based on cost, plus freight rates, allowing a small profit for myself. I am convinced I was helping out on defense."

In filing the government suit, James C. Gruener, OPA attorney, said:

"We are continuing to get at the sources of all this black market steel. If criminal prosecutions are warranted, they will be made.

Reported Supplies Abundant.

Frank Higgins, son and associate of the New Orleans shipbuilder, recently told a congressional committee that an abundance of steel could be obtained at premium prices on the black market. President Roosevelt subsequently said any one selling such steel should be jailed.

Markle said that a dozen or so manufacturers came to him about a year ago and "told me I would be helping defense if I could get them steel that they needed quickly. I contacted 55 warehouses, principally in Chicago, Detroit, Buffalo, and Cleveland. By going to the warehouses and ordering it fabricated, I could get it immediately. The warehouses charged ceiling prices, plus freight, plus the cost of waste, which is heavy in these operations."

Lack of Rights-of-Way Delays Pipe Line Building

Marion, Ill., Aug. 14 (AP).—Construction of the 50 mile Cape Girardeau, Mo., to Harrisburg, Ill., section of the Texas to Illinois oil pipe line has been delayed by failure to obtain all rights-of-way.

G. M. REPORTED LIKELY TO GET ½ BILLION LOAN

Would Be Largest of Its Kind.

General Motors corporation was reported yesterday to be negotiating with a group of 15 banks for a loan of at least a half billion dollars, the largest amount ever borrowed by an industrial company.

The negotiations, proceeding under regulation V. of the federal reserve board permitting a government guarantee of a war production loan, illustrated how the specially created wartime lending machinery has made possible the financing of projects that could not have been handled with normal peacetime banking facilities.

All of the national banks in the entire United States could not handle much more than half of such a loan under the lending limitations normally applying to ordinary business loans. Under the law national banks cannot ordinarily lend more than 10 per cent of their capital and surplus to any one borrower, except under specified circumstances.

Bank Capital Under 3 Billion.

According to the controler of the currency, the total capital and surplus of all national banks in the nation amounted to $2,904,466,000 at the end of last December. That would mean that their combined lending limit for one borrower would be, by the 10 per cent rule of thumb, $290,446,600.

The total capital accounts of all state and national banks in the nation on Dec. 31 were $6,738,729,000, indicating that the lending capacity of all the nation's banks, as applied to a single borrower, would have been largely absorbed, in ordinary times, by such a loan as General Motors is arranging.

According to a Detroit dispatch of the Dow-Jones News agency, the initial amount of the loan will be 500 million dollars, but the total eventually may be pushed up to a billion as the company's war work expands.

Many Contracts Involved.

The interest rate will be about 2½ per cent, the agency said. The loan negotiations are expected to extend over a long period, because numerous war contracts are involved and clearance by various governmental agencies will be required.

Under regulation V. government guarantees on bank loans to war goods producers may be given if the army, the navy, or the maritime commission certify that the loans are necessary to the war effort.

The largest previous banking credit granted to a private corporation was a 100 million dollar line of credit which Chrysler corporation arranged early this year with a syndicate of 175 banks thruout the country.

Meatless Days Probable Soon, Say Some Market Observers

Some divisions of the food industry expect a revival of the "meatless days" of the last war, it was learned yesterday. Several factors make such limitations possible, market observers said.

Among these is the fact that government officials have been unable to provide any noticeable relief in the current meat shortage despite the fact that packing plant output is at the highest rate on record and meat animal supplies are large. Conflict in policy between the Office of Price administration and the department of agriculture has created some uncertainty in the minds of farmers, agriculturalists report, whether further large scale live stock raising and fattening ventures will prove profitable.

Fewer Cattle on Feed.

The number of cattle being fattened in midwestern feedlots is reported by the department of agriculture as substantially less than last year and Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard has predicted sharp reductions in per capita meat supplies as compared with a year ago.

Wickard said in Chicago recently that it may be necessary for civilians to supplement meat in their diets with more cheese and other dairy products. He has urged Americans to eat more cheese and admitted that he is concerned over the sufficiency of beef supplies for civilian and government requirements by next spring.

Certain government officials are urging that more emphasis be put on pork production and less on beef. WPB officials are discussing the possibilities of meat rationing.

Cheese Makers Confident.

Cheese industry leaders display a growing confidence that there soon will be ready civilian markets for the huge pile of cheese they have on hand—markets that will consume all the cheese the industry can produce. In storage on Aug. 1 were 260 million pounds of American cheese, according to the department of agriculture, a heretofore unapproached peak.

The market observers report the cheese industry definitely believes "meatless days" are in the offing—probably not far distant.

Hogs Set New Peak

Continued small receipts of hogs thruout the nation helped push top young stock to $15.30 per hundredweight at the Chicago stockyards yesterday. This was the highest price paid since October, 1920, topping Thursday's peak by 5 cents. Cattle, sheep, and lambs were mostly steady.

Rise in Butter Extended for Lower Grades

Another ¼ cent was added yesterday to wholesale butter prices which have been rising steadily for two months. This time only the undergrades sold higher, dealers indicating a desire to take inventory profits on some short held stocks of top qualities. The Agricultural Marketing service reported that best butter sold at 41 to 41¾ cents a pound.

In futures transactions on the Chicago Mercantile exchange, butter dealings slowed down and prices tended to sag slightly. The market closed 0.10 cent higher to 0.10 cent per pound lower, with the November delivery at 41.8 cents. New investment buying, the favorable statistical position of the market, and the firmness of wholesale prices prevented reported profit taking from making inroads.

Egg receipts continued smaller than a year ago and wholesale prices were unchanged. Futures closed unchanged to 0.2 cent a dozen lower, as realizing sales and caution concerning the week-end halt in trading cut off an early rally.

Bankers Acceptances Dip to New Low During July

New York, Aug. 14 (AP).—Bankers' acceptances outstanding at the end of July dipped to a new low of $156,302,000, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York announced today.

CURTISS CANDY BUYS FARM TO GROW PART OF PRODUCTION NEEDS

The Curtiss Candy company, Chicago, yesterday purchased a 271.29 acre farm near Libertyville for the production of agricultural products and for the recreation of employés.

Otto Schnering.

"We expect to raise dairy and agricultural products for use in manufacturing and also in the company's cafeterias," Otto Schnering, president of the company, said. "In addition, we want to make it possible for employés who need rest or farm work either because of ill health or else to have a place where they can recuperate."

The property is in Milwaukee avenue opposite the late Samuel Insull's Hawthorn farm. It was purchased from Victor J. and Martha H. Petersen for an indicated $57,500.

Army-Navy Award to Go to Victor Chemical Plant

The army-navy production award will be presented to the Victor Chemical works, it was learned yesterday.

PREDICTS MANY CHANGES IN TAX BILL BY SENATE

Sen. George Expects Passage Oct. 1.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 14 (AP).—Senate passage before Oct. 1 of a substantially revised tax bill was predicted today by Sen. Walter F. George [D., Ga.], as the finance committee closed three weeks of public hearings on the new revenue measure voted by the house in July.

Altho Chairman George declined to speculate on detailed changes in the bill, which would add 6 billion 271 million dollars to yearly federal revenues as it passed the house, he told reporters that testimony taken by the senate committee had made it apparent to him, at least, that some alterations are necessary in major sections of the measure.

Business Men Protest.

Business representatives have concentrated most of their criticism of the bill on methods of calculating excess profits taxes, on a proposal to put all corporations on a calendar year tax paying basis, and on the measure's failure to provide relief for the payment of debts or the accumulation of postwar reserves.

On the latter point, George said he was impressed by "responsible and trustworthy" testimony before the committee "that if the high rates as fixed by the house remain in the bill, it will be imperative that some relief be given both corporations and individuals by the establishment of some

MORE COMPANIES REPORT TAXES REDUCE PROFITS

General Cigar Has Lower Net for Six Months.

Lower net income was shown yesterday by a majority of the reporting companies, their statements in most cases disclosing that higher tax provisions more than absorbed increased gross earnings.

General Cigar Co., Inc., New York, and its wholly owned General Cigar Co. of Cuba, Ltd., reported net profit of $565,428, equivalent to 82 cents a share, for the first six months this year, compared with $593,580, or 88 cents a share, a year earlier. Taxes amounted to $449,838, against $238,795.

The Briggs and Stratton corporation, Milwaukee, Wis., reported that net income for the six months ended June 30 was $531,578, compared with $651,087 in the corresponding 1941 period. The company, normally a large manufacturer of automobile locks and gasoline engines, is engaged in extensive war production.

Taxes Rise 10 Million.

The Columbia Gas and Electric corporation reported that an increase of more than 10 million dollars in its taxes created a loss of $959,750 for the 12 months ended June 30, compared with profit of $3,841,244, equal to 31 cents a common share, for the preceding year.

Taxes totaled $32,272,409, against year ago charges of $21,606,396. In computing taxes the company included $3,307,743 in anticipation of increases which would become retroactive if the 1942 revenue bill is enacted as approved by the house.

The corporation, which serves more than 1,570 communities, said it was awaiting authorization of the Securities and Exchange commission to conclude sale of its holdings in the Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line company to the Phillips Petroleum company.

Big Decrease Shown.

The Parker Rust Proof company, Detroit, a chemical producer, reported income for the quarter ended June 30 was $104,521, or 24 cents a share. A year earlier the company earned $295,591.

Among exceptions was Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., which reported net profit of $5,371,875, equal to $1.37 a common share, for 39 weeks ended May 30, against year ago figures of $4,433,445, or $1.12 a share.

State Unemployment Payments Drop in July

Payments made under the Illinois unemployment compensation act totaled $5,053,968 in July, a decrease of 3 per cent from the June figure of $5,186,398. State Director of Labor Francis B. Murphy announced yesterday. This is the first month to month decrease reported during the benefit year begun April 1. The largest number of persons receiving compensation during a single week in each month dropped 13 per cent from 95,035 in June to 85,148 in July.

LETTERS

Investors and Packers.

Chicago, Aug. 10.—THE TRIBUNE of Sunday, Aug. 9, quotes a representative of one big packing company as stating the company had been taking losses on pork "like all other packers" and adding "we are not planning any protests to the government and are not crying about the situation."

The representative of this company should know that the government does not desire any concern to operate at a loss in filling a contract. Many concerns have been granted adjustments upon evidence that loss resulted thru unavoidable changes.

The writer holds a few shares of stock of one of the "Big Three" packers and would like to know the name of the company whose officers are so indifferent to losses that they do not plan any protests.

This may be the only letter sent you regarding the above statement, but you may be assured many other investors made a note of it—and it wasn't complimentary.

A word of appreciation for the very fine handling of The Tribune financial department. M. E. G.

Progress in Domestic Cork Reported; Tests Encouraging

Larger growing areas and plantings in 1942 will constitute an important advance toward national self-sufficiency in cork, formerly largely imported from the western Mediterranean region, Dr. Giles B. Cooke of the research department of the Crown Cork and Seal company, Baltimore, Md., reported yesterday in Chemical and Engineering News, publication of the American Chemical society.

Giles B. Cooke.

Projected plantings of 50,000 young cork trees in California this year compare with the 21,000 set out last year in both California and Arizona, said Dr. Cook. Domestic cork was reported to be of a quality equal to that from the Mediterranean area, and may be used interchangeably with the imported material, experiments with California cork have shown.

Cork Project Expanded.

Because of the progress in California, Dr. Cooke said, Charles E. McManus, president of Crown Cork, decided in 1941 to extend the cork growing project to other states. A survey disclosed that large, healthy cork oak trees were growing in Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, and Alabama.

"Agricultural directors and forestry specialists in these states and Florida, Arkansas, Mississippi, Louisiana, and Texas extended coöperation," the scientist stated. "Already, more than 200 young cork trees have been planted in sections of these states, and 1,000 more seedlings that developed late are being held for distribution in October. Many additional cork plants will be available for planting in the south by fall."

Tests Prove Quality.

Dr. Cooke reported that extensive tests were conducted with California cork stripped from older trees in 1940 and a yield of 60 per cent of usable cork was found. Compositions manufacured from the tested cork proved equal to similar material prepared from imported cork, he said.

"While preliminary examination had indicated the California cork was of good quality," Dr. Cooke said, "actual proof that it is the equal of Mediterranean cork has greatly stimulated the rapidly expanding cork growing program."

GEORGE PREDICTS MANY CHANGES IN NEW TAX BILL

Only a handful of witnesses testified directly on individual income tax sections of the measure, their suggestions ranging from requests for sharp increase in lower brackets to proposals to shift a larger part of the burden to incomes above $10,000.

Disagree on Pay Ceiling.

In this connection, the Congress of Industrial Organizations supported and the American Federation of Labor opposed President Roosevelt's suggestion that all incomes be limited to $25,000 thru taxation.

Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale university urged the committee to tax spendings and exempt savings.

"In wartime we are shooting away our savings and cannot afford to tax them away besides," the economist declared.

"Put a special tax on that part of personal incomes which is spent," he recommended, "and reduce or [still better] abolish all taxes on that part of incomes [whether personal or corporate] which is saved."

Favors Spending Levies.

The professor suggested a 5 per cent tax on the spendings of an individual up to $5,000 [$10,000 for a married couple], 10 per cent on the next increment, and so on in 5 per cent jumps until a maximum rate of 50 per cent tax would be reached on spendings of $45,000 or over for single persons or $90,000 or more for married couples. To compute the spendings, Fisher said gross receipts from all sources should be totaled and certain specific deductions subtracted. The most essential of those deductions, he declared, would be business expenses and reinvestments, taxes, and reasonable deductions for dependents.

Sen. George announced that his committee will begin work revising the bill behind closed doors on Aug. 24. He said he hopes this work can be completed in a week, adding that the time required for subsequent technical drafting of amendments will depend on the changes voted.

2 MONTH SUPPLY OF NEWSPRINT IN RESERVE JULY 31

New York, Aug. 14 (AP).—The American Newspaper Publisher association reported today that more than two months' supply of newsprint was on hand at the end of July, and that the WPB has relaxed the inventory requirements on paper until Sept. 30.

A total of 67 days' supply of newsprint was reported at the end of July compared with 52 days' supply at the end of July, 1941, and 54 days' at the end of July, 1940.

"Each publisher should analyze his own requirements, kinds of transportation used in bringing his newsprint to the city of publication, storage facilities, etc.," said the A. N. P. A. bulletin, "to determine what he thinks is a sufficient newsprint inventory in view of general war developments, the possibility of transportation difficulties, and other factors that would have a bearing upon the availability of newsprint for use in his city."

CHANGE IN MILK PRICING METHOD FOR CITY SOUGHT

Producers Say Cost Rise Justifies Boost.

Hearings on proposed amendments to the Chicago federal milk marketing order opened yesterday in the Palmer House. Producers are seeking a different price basis for their fluid milk which will increase returns to meet higher costs of production.

The present price of class 1 and 2 milk, that used as fluid or in the making of ice cream, is based on the price the condenseries pay farmers for milk used in making evaporated and condensed products. Producers now receive 70 cents a hundredweight [46.5 quarts] over the condensery price for class 1 milk.

One of the proposed amendments seeks to establish the price paid for milk as butter and cheese as a new basis. The prices paid for this type of milk, class 4, have been higher than the condensery price for several months.

Say Milk Supply May Wane.

Producers' organizations contend that recent increases in the value of milk used as butter or skim milk powder, relative to its value for evaporated milk, have lowered the price differential between inspected milk for Chicago and manufacturing milk to the point that the city fluid milk supply is endangered.

In July producers received $1.806 a hundredweight for class 3 milk. They received $2.001 for class 4 milk. The proposed amendment would establish class 4 as the new base plus the same differential as at present so farmers would receive $2.70 for class 1 milk instead of the $2.50 they did receive.

Arthur H. Lauterbach, general manager of the Pure Milk association, testified yesterday that the amendment, had it been in effect on the July prices, would have added 20 cents a hundredweight to the milk handlers' cost. When asked who would absorb this increase if the amendment went into effect he replied that he could not say.

Ask Butter Fat Premium.

Others who testified in behalf of the amendment included Arthur Hartmann of Hampshire, president of the Chicago producers' council, and R. P. Alexander, controler of the Pure Milk association. The hearing is being conducted by Earl J. Smith.

Other amendments proposed by the producers' groups would give an extra premium to farmers marketing milk with a high butter fat content.

The hearing will close today when the milk dealers will give their opinions on the proposed amendments.
